OUR 56TH YEAR | 10¢ PER COPY | SIKESTON, SCOTT COUNTY, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, JULY 7, 1966 | NUMBER 243

"WATCH ME float," said two beginners, Ricky Davis and Mike Harris, shown with their instructor aides, Kathy Hahs and Mary Leible. Each beginner is given an opportunity to try their skill at floating. Notice expressions on the faces of the two boys. It was the first time either of them had tried their skill.

Swim Classes Bring Out Largest Group in Sikeston's History

The Kiwanis Club swimming program, now in its sixth year, has 280 youngsters enrolled, the largest group ever.

The three classes give every child from six years and older, an opportunity to learn to swim. One class for beginners, one for intermediate, and one for advanced swimmers.

The youngster begins his training in shallow water, and is taught the various types of swimming strokes, how to float, and breathe.

After receiving proper instruction, they are taken by their instructor to the deep side of the pool, in water that is ten feet deep.

Swimming courses began this week, and will continue for three weeks, Mrs. Fred Davis, water safety instructor for the Red Cross is in charge.

Mrs. Davis praised the cooperation of the instructor aides as excellent. The enthusiasm of the beginner classes is something to behold.

Students are advancing according to schedule, and all eager for their next assignment.

A record is kept of each child, who as a beginner is registered, and taken under the wings of the instructor aide, until the child has completedall requirements. The boy or girl is then registered in the intermediate class.

The thrill comes after the child has advanced to the swimmers class. In the first trial swimming in the deep portion of the pool, the children are taken one at a time and with an instructor alongside, swims two - thirds of the distance and back to the starting point.

Following several days of close supervision, the child is ready to be on his own in the water, and able to take on the practice diving.

Assisting Mrs. Davis as instructor aides are, Marcia Hixon, Kathy Hahs, Judy Matthews, Mary Leible, Lynne Tenkhoff, Sheri Sprout, Mike Gallagher, Mike Hixon, Ginger Cumpton, Mary Ann Sappenfield, Belinda French, Becy Wagner, Pat Wagner, Teresa Hammelmann and Al Warneck.

The change of pace in the swimming advancement program is evident, and the determination of the child very noticeable. There have been a few classes where a seven or eight-year old child, took the final instructions with children several years older.

School Addition To Dexter Firm

A discussion of minor changes to be made in the proposed two-room addition to the science and mathematics department at Sikeston High School was the item of business when the Sikeston Board of Education met Tuesday afternoon in the administration building.

Supt. Lynn Twitty said he expected the contract to be awarded later this week to Brown Construction Co. of Dexter, the low bidder at a figure of $49,573.

He also said there are two vacancies in the elementary system and a possible vacancy for a math or science instructor in the junior high school.

Mr. Twitty said the in-service training program is being completed this week. It has been in progress the past month with 150 teachers of the Sikeston and Charleston schools attending. The program is designed to develop methods for teaching the disadvantaged child.. It is said to be the only workshop of its type and is a pilot program.

Missouri U. Interviews 59 in District for Jobs

SIKESTON -- Bill Sikes, director of the Manpower Development and Training Program at Sikeston, said the University of Missouri has interviewed 59 persons in southeast Missouri for jobs.

Of this number, 20 were studying under the manpower program and 17 were hired to work in custodian food and health service. He said that 85 per cent of those ranked as custodians in the last class have found employment and 100 per cent in the class prior to that.

Of all classes in the 13 vocational areas, 76 per cent of those completing courses have been employed and a large percentage of those who dropped out of courses before completion have also found employment, Mr. Sikes said.

Presently, there is an enrollment of 400 in the 13 areas in classes which range from six to 52 weeks in length. The manpower program here will end Nov. 13, but application is being made for its continuance and it is hoped permission will be granted before the end of October, Mr. Sikes commented.

The program is one of three multi-occupational ones in Missouri. The others are at Kansas City and St. Louis.

Army Boosts Draft Quotas

WASHINGTON AP -- A lag in Army enlistments prompted the Defense Department to boost draft calls today for July and August.

The Pentagon announced it was increasing the July call by 2,000 men to a new total of 28,500, and the August quota by 4,000 to a new figure of 36,600.

At the same time, the Defense Department asked Selective Service to produce 31,300 men in September.

There was no indication of any similar lag in Navy, Marine and Air Force enlistments. None of these services felt the need to draw on the draft at this time.

The highest monthly call since the Viet Nam buildup began last year came in May when 40,600 were summoned.

Hearnes Complies With Request of 7-Year-Old

KENNETT -- Did you ever wonder who advises the governor of Missouri?

Sometimes Gov. Warren E. Hearnes takes advice from 7 - year - olds, particularly if they happen to be his daughter.

The chief executive's visit to Kennett this weekend will be cut short as a result of advice and counsel ffom 7-year-old Julia B. Hearnes, who has asked that her father spend Saturday night and Sunday morning in Charleston in place of spending it in Kennett, where he will participate in this weekend's four-ball golf tournament at the Kennett Country Club.

Julia B. made her request to the governor pointing out that she would be in Charleston this week instead of accompanying him, her mother and her two sisters to the National Governors' Conference in Los Angeles, Calif., and also pointing out that his duties as governor had caused him to be away from her quite a bit -- and that he ought to come to Charleston so the two of them could be together, if only briefly.

Gov. Hearnes Tuesday notified his tournament partner, Kennett attorney William H. Billings, that his plans had been changed, upon the advice of his seven-year-old daughter. Present plans call for the chief executive to fly from Jefferson City to Kennett Saturday, arriving about noon, play golf here in the afternoon, drive to Charleston and return to Kennett about noon Sunday to play in the final round of the annual tournament here.

The cheif executive will return to Jefferson City by plane sometime Sunday afternoon or early evening.

Local police were called out on five investigations yesterday. Two accidents were reported, two bicycles taken, one break-in, and two persons charged.

Don Allen, 528 Coleman, stated that someone had taken his 26 inch crome trimed bicycle sometime during the night of July 5 and Bill Goza, 242 Watson, reported that a 24 inch Flying "O" bicycle had been taken.

Two accidents were investigated, a 1960 Ford Wagon, driven by John L. Winchester, New Madrid, was involved in an accident with Rufus J. Sumlin, 331 Westgate, driving a 1963 Cadilliac. The accident was on South Main. No arrests were made. Sumlin received a possible back injury.

A 1962 Ford truck, driven by Vernon E. Grubbs, Warsaw, Ind., was involved in an accident at East Malone Avenue with William G. Cagle, 137 Ruben, driver of a 1962 Dodge truck. The Grubbs truck was damaged slightly on the right side but no arrests were made.

Two persons were charged by local police. Tom Ancell Gross, Tanner, was charged with public intoxication and R. T. Woods, 205 Felker, was charged with peace disturbance.

Sole Surviving Sons Eligible For Discharge

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON AP - The Pentagon authorized today the hardship discharge of U. S. servicemen who are the sole surviving sons in their families.

The announcement said the new policy, effective immediately, will apply to the armed forces "except during the period of a war or national emergency declared by the Congress."

The Viet Nam was does not fall into this classification.

The new policy was laid down in a memorandum July 1 from Assistant Secretary of Defense Thomas D. Morris to the secretaries of the Army, Navy and Air Force. Morris is in charge of manpower.

His brief memo says:

"To preclude possible inequities concerning sole surviving sons, military personnel who become qualified sole surviving sons subsequent to their enlistment or induction, will be afforded the opportunity to apply for a hardship discharge, with favorable consideration resulting therefrom."

Morris told the service secretaries: "It is desired that this policy be applied uniformly throughout the military departments and that implementing regulations be disseminated at the earliest practicable date."

The action, a Pentagon spokesman said, brings defense policy in line with that of the Selective Service System, which he said refrains from drafting sole surviving sons.

Such hardship discharges are open to men whose father and or brothers or sisters have been killed in line of military duty, died of wounds, accidents or disease, or have been totally disabled physically or mentally "as a result of hazards incident to their service in the armed forces" since September 1940.

It does not apply to a man whose civilian relatives have been killed in mishaps or have died of disease or other causes.

The provision for hardship discharge of sole surviving sons was added to a Korean War directive which permitted men in this category to be assigned to noncombat duties upon their own request or application filed by a parent.

Rain, High Winds Cause Damage in SEMO Area

Extensive damage was reported in isolated areas of southeast Missouri yesterday afternoon and last night as a result of high winds and heavy rains.

The northwest section of Sikeston was without power for about 50 minutes last night when wind • blow branches touched power lines and caused a fuse to blow at a transformer.

Radio Station KMPL reported that it was without power twice during the high winds.

Extensive wind damage was reported to the early corn crop in the Charleston and Northern Mississippi County area. Glenn Patton of the Mississippi County University Extension Service said corn fields had been flattened and that some fields would be difficult to harvest as a result of the damage.

Charleston city officials reported 1.7 inches of rain in the city. Crews worked last night and this morning clearing up the debris that was left in the wake of high winds which uprooted and blew down trees.

Strong gusts knocked out power and uprooted trees Wednesday night during a 40-minute storm at Cape Girardeau. The wind, gusting up to 50 miles an hour, blew large trees across power lines and cars and toppled wooden fences and billboards.

Low - lying areas were flooded by .30 inches of rainfall in the Cape area, and telephone service to some areas was also disrupted.

Other areas of southeast Missouri reported little or no rain yesterday.

New Madrid had little rainfall and no high winds, although much lightning was reported in the area.

In Stoddard County the lack of rainfall is still prevalent. The county extension service said that only spotty rainfall was recorded yesterday in the county. This rainfall helped the corn crop some but much more moisture is needed, an official said.

Charges Filed Against Giggers

Scott County Prosecuting Attorney, Fielding Potashnick, reported that charges have been filed against six Scott County men for violations of the state game code.

Agents Arthur L. Bernard of Scott County and D. W. Proffer of Cape County accosted the six on a drainage canal near Vanduser. John B. Kelly, 732 Taylor, Emil Schuchart, 901 Taylor and Samuel E. Hunter, 216 Tanner, had charges filed against them for fishing without a permit. Claude A. Lovell Jr., route four, Bob Montgomer, Vanduser and Bob E. Abernathy, Morley, were all charged with having in possession over the limit of frogs which is eight in possession and per man.

Potashnick reported that charges of gigging fish will also be filed against Lovell, Montgomery and Abernathy.

The men had in their possession at the time of apprehension 91 bullfrogs and five fish, the latter taken with gigs. They were reported 75 frogs over the limit.

Agents explained a fishing license is required for gigging frogs, and a hunting license is required if frogs are taken by gun. The frog season opened Friday, July 1.

The six are to appear in magistrate Court, Tuesday, before Judge M. E. Montgomery.

Reports Labor is Available

According to the Missouri Division of Employment Security, Southeast Missouri still is reporting surplus of labor available for out of area work, however the cherry and pea harvests in Michigan and Wisconsin are expected to use a number of these workers.

Sikeston reports local labor demands very light. Several family groups, 5 to 8 workers, are available for out area work. Also a limited number of all-male groups that are wanting out-area work are available. Most need assistance in transportation. Major activity is now moving in plant workers to peas in the Great Lakes' States. Kennett reports cotton chopping with very few exceptions is a thing of the past for the time being, and thoughts are now turning to the water melon harvest. It is expected that most growers will be turning vines during the next few days, with current observations leading to a bumper crop.

Travelers to Appear on TV

The Travelers, a folk singing group composed of Terry Burke, Mike Hopkins, Sue Foster and Steve Matthews, will appear on the Breakfast Show on Channel 12, KFVS television, Cape Girardeau, at 7:30 a.m. Friday.

Dexter Tax Levy To Stay at $1.84

DEXTER -- In a routine session last night the City Council voted to retain the same tax levy for the new fiscal year. The levy is $1.84 per $100 assessed valuation.

Bids were opened for the city gas service with Standard Oil Company's bid of 13.75 cents a gallon plus the five-cent state tax accepted. This is for 93.3 octane gas. Standard Oil also had the contract last year.

The council voted to pay for the 308 parking meters which were installed recently. If the bill is paid by Aug. 8, the city will receive an $808.50 discount, making the total amount owed $14,170.

The Missouri Municipal League has asked Mayor Willis Conner to serve on the resolutions committee at the annual conference of the league at St. Louis August 31 to September 2. Aldermen congratulated him for being so honored and noted that this was the first time that a Dexter major has been invited to serve on a committee at the annual event.

The aldermen voted to allow Mayor Conner $50 toward his expenses to attend the conference.

The township board again appeared before the council in regard to the proposed bridge on One Mile Road. At the last meeting the board presented plans for the bridge and agreed to check with the Highway Department to see if the plans met the specifications of the state.

The township board reported last night that the state will not approve specifications for a private bridge. The proposed bridge does, however, meet state specifications except for the base, which is too thick, the board reported.

The city council agreed with the board that the bridge should be built with each party supplying half the cost and labor.

The council discussed plans for a proposed city hall to replace the current facility, which is to be taken over by the state for national guard headquarters. The state has agreed to pay the city $30,000 for the building and will lease the building to the city for $1 a year up to two years.

This lease can be broken, however, if the state declares a state of emergency and decides that the building must be used for the guard unit. The city and the national guard now share the use of the building.

A committee to study possible sites for the new city hall reported that a 28 by 64 foot building can be built for about $15,000. A tentative site on the land adjacent to the city library was discussed. It was decided to contact the library board to discuss further the plan for construction at this site.

The Department of the Army requested the city to present the Army Commendation Medal to a Dexter soldier who had performed an act of bravery in Viet Nam last year.

Mayor Conner presented the citation to former Pfc. Charles D. Frank. The Army citation noted that Frank had saved a valuable piece of machinery from destruction in Viet Nam by navigating it so it would not plunge over a 40-foot cliff. Frank's family was also on hand to witness the presentation.

Dexter Firm Gets Hat Plant Contract

The building will include about 44,000 square feet of floor space and will be constructed on the Chamber of Commerce's industrial site near the intersection of West Market and One Mile Road, it was announced.

Lehman Godwin, president of the Chamber of Commerce, said the Chamber has blocked off five acres on the west end of the industrial park for the factory site. The contract calls for completion of the building within 240 working days, Godwin noted, but with favorable weather conditions the new facility could be completed by Jan. 1, 1967.

A water line will have to be run to the new factory, he continued. The Missouri Inspection Bureau has approved running an 8-inch water line from Grant to Park Lane to the factory, but a 10-inch line will probably be needed, Godwin explained.

A bond election will be held as soon as possible to finance construction, and the bonds will be paid through rental payments by the International Hat Co. without any tax increase for Dexter residents, it was reported. The total sum of the Brown Construction Co. bid will not be announced until preparations are made for the election.

Walter Botkin To Be Announcer At Horse Show

Walter M. Botkin of Wentzville will be the master of ceremonies at the Semo Shrine Mounted Patrol Society Horse Show at 7:30 p.m. Saturday at the Rodeo grounds.

Botkin has served as announcer at the American Royal Horse show, the Illinois State Fair and the Missouri State Fair.

The judge will be Abbott Wilson of Mexico, Mo.

The nine classes are local pleasure, two year walking, pony class, three-gaited set tail, junior walking, five-gaited set tail and full dress, amateur walking, roadster to bike and open walking.

Melvin Dace, chairman of the show, said today that the grounds have been sprayed for mosquitos and the seats have been cleaned.

End Draws Near

PARMA -- Completion of a $185,000 sewer and water system here is expected to be completed within a month, according to reports from Mayor Randall Ramsey.

The last pieces of equipment arrived yesterday and installation of it will begin tomorrow.

Citizens of Parma passed a bond issue two years ago and after 15 months of work the community will have in operation a new sewer system. The water system went into effect around 10 months ago.

A Committee headed by Mayor Ramsey have had plans drawn up for a Community center on which work is to be started within the next six months. The committee had asked the state for funds to sponsor this center, but the new year started the first of July and the letter has been taken under advisement.

RANDALL RAMSEY, Mayor of Parma, and Ted Morgan, alderman of ward II inspect the lift tank and equipment which arrived in Parma yesterday. These are the final pieces of equipment for the $185,000 sewer system which is expected to be in use in about a month.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Thursday, July 7, 376, Black Sea - The first Gothic translation of the Bubsey Twins at the Morgue.

When you drive in an unfamiliar town, do you always notice school zones quickly enough to slow down? Do you always know what action is required of you in a school zone?

If you do, you've been studying.

Every city, village or county chooses its own means of protecting school crossings, sometimes without referring to standards such as those prescribed in the Manual on Uniform Traffic Control Devices, published by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads and generally considered the bible of the traffic control industry.

The result is a hodgepodge of different sizes, shapes, colors and placement of signs. And unnecessary dangers for children. Some cities and towns use flashing signals and some use signs. Some of the signs are stationary, some are portable, and some hang from wires above crosswalks. Some are black and yellow, some are red and white, and some are an eye-popping, orange fluorescent color.

If a standard sign color was chosen, logic would dictate choice of fluorescent signs, for they can be seen twice as far as painted yellow signs, according to a recent research study. Approximately 1,000 U. S. cities now use them.

Florida has no state laws that define a school zone. In at least one Florida city -- St. Petersburg -- there also is no city ordinance that specifically makes it illegal to pass in a school zone.

Salt Lake City, Utah, uses at least three different kinds of signs to inform drivers that they must drive 20 m.p.h. through school zones. One is a permanently installed swivel sign. Another is a portable sign. Both bear the legend: "School 20 M.P.H." A third sign does not mention the speed limit, but merely identifies the "School Crossing," leaving it to the motorist to remember that he should reduce speed to 20 m.p.h.

The danger of such diversity is that drivers might become confused. And, who wants confused drivers near school children?

SWINGING LONDON, SQUARE, SQUARE PARIS

THE YOUTH OF EUROPE appears to be centered on London. By contrast, Paris is growing to be almost conformist. The people who remember Hemingway's Lady Brett or Galsworthy's Forsythes would be completely confused by what is going on in the principal capitals of Western Europe.

What is happening in London -- indeed in most of Britain -- is producing working class fashions that are influencing all kinds of society -- including the Earl of Snowdon -- and are being exported to France and, belatedly, the United States. The miniskirt -- four to eight inches above the knee -- has shaken the rhythm of the Ascot gavotte. Britain is definitely switched on.

Paris, on the other hand, is growing increasingly square. Andrew Mulligan reports in the Washington Post that France has "become almost Cromwellian in its conformity."

WITH CUTSOMARY BREATHLESSNESS, Time magazine recently described London as "alive with birds (girls) and beatles, buzzing with minicars and telly stars, pulsing with half a dozen separate veins of excitement." (You have to be careful with those Times verbs -- they have a tendency to go off in your face.)

The Time piece annoyed the lights and liver out of at least one Brit, Henry Fairlie, a political commentator. Encouraged to rush into print, he declared in the N. Y. Times Magazine: "If I were given to conspiracy theories, I would believe that there is a plot to denigrate Britain by praising everything in it which is mindless and nasty, which is senseless and corrupting, which is meaningless and deadly."

Fairlie was moved to reach back to Ruskin's "Stones of Venice" -- where Time, incidentally, had been before him -- for a passage which ends: "By the inner burning of her own passions, as fatal as the fiery rain of Gomorrah, she was consumed from her place among the nations; and her ashes are choking the channels of the dead, salt sea."

To all of which, Fairlie admits, "This is painfully true of that section of Britain which is today most publicized." He comments further: "Britain, at least in its public behavior and public exhibitions, is now the most immoral country in the West."

THE INCLINATION HERE is to take all these value judgments with more than the customary salt pinch. Disturbed by the reports on decadence by evangelist Billy Graham and the American magazines, one London-based American observer, after surveying the whole "dauntingly civilized" scene, suggests that once the economy is stronger, "Britain could become a renewed force for decency and civility."

Morality tends to be pretty relative. New York, Paris, even Ottawa, would have little difficulty matching the fables of Jack Profumo and Christine Keeler, from which the new image of a swinging London seems to stem. The skirts are probably as short in New York (if not in Washington) as in London.

Sexual freedom is traditional in Scandinavian countries, as prostitution is in France, Britain, protestant Scotland, and the United States. Between the swinger and the square the margin often is publicity. But to hear that a real estate development called Paris II plans to have eight swimming pools, riding stables and a drug store does seem pretty square. They're calling it "Le Drug West."

In the past few years scores of Victor Riesel's newbeats have been confined by subsequent developments.

And now comes none other than Britain's Prime Minister Harold Wilson with substantiation of our columnist's inside report on the Communist forces behind the crippling British seamen's strike.

Riesel's report was the only such analysis written in the American Press.

On May 24th, shortly after the crippling strike began clogging the docks and shaking the pound, Riesel wrote in his column:

" . . . That's what happened on the British docks -- loners, 'extremists', reformers in name only, Communists and a personality cult called Trotskyites have for years been working 'round the clock to get at London's jugular.

"At 12:01 a.m. May 16 they did so despite the power of the moderate leaders of the English National Union of Seamen."

A month later, Prime Minister Harold Wilson began a series of revelations which word-for-word corroborated our columnist, Victor Riesel.

LONG SECOND LOOK

Imitation, as we all know, is supposed to be the sincerest form of flattery.

If that is the case, some members of the Soviet hierarchy are now flattering their old ideological enemy----capitalism.

A short time ago, a leading Soviet economist said that his country's economic system should be replaced by something new and better. And what he advocated was something akin to the capitalistic profit motive.

A few days later a top figure in the Soviet automobile industry, writing in Pravda, the voice of the party, said much the same thing. His industry, he frankly admitted, is in trouble. Production is slow, the cars are obsolete, workers are disinterested. So, he thinks, it is time some capitalist means of creating incentive -- profit and competition among them -- were adopted.

Not so many years ago the expression of such ideas as these within Russia would have been considered close to treason. But, apparently, the present bosses in the Kremlin are becoming interested in learning from mistakes. The basic communist credo is -- or was -- that each should produce according to his ability and be rewarded according to his need, and that was the worst mistake of all. This eliminated profit, competition, and all the other proven human and organizational incentives, and the result was not only inadequate production, but the production of inferior goods.

It must be galling for Soviet leaders to find anything good in capitalism. But sheer necessity is forcing a long second look.

CLOSE TO THE WELFARE STATE

U. S. News & World Report has published a chart that every taxpayer should study. It shows the incredible growth of federal subsidies to the states and local governments.

In 1954, this spending totaled $2.7 billion. The figure for the current year is $10.2 billion.

Next year, according to official estimates, it will reach $10.6 billion.

A very large part of this goes for a lengthy list of aid and welfare projects, along with such innovations as federally-financed slum clearance and housing developments. And, staggering as the dollar figures are, they can't tell the worst part of the story. That part lies in the steady erosion of state and local rights, obligations and responsibilities. At the rate we're going, it won't be long until nonfederal governments will be little more than meaningless names.

We are closer to a Welfare State than the majority of people realize. Unless the trend is checked somehow, the ultimate effect on the American character, as well as the American pocketbook, will be disastrous.

ATTENTION
GIRL WATCHERS

Things may seem to be in good shape to the casual observer of the short-skirt craze (and have you heard any complaints from observers?), but the ugly truth is that the fascinating fad is creating problems.

One problem is what to do about knees that seem not to have been made for the high hemlines.

Another is what to do about that heavy band that goes around the stocking top.

It used to be that a gentleman wasn't too often aware that a lady's knees were imperfectly formed, much less that there was this band at the top of her stocking.

But now --

Well, the girls are embarrassed because the men are interested, and the men are even more interested because the girls are embarrassed.

Now it stands to reason that American ingenuity which can conquer space isn't going to strike out on a problem like this.

So the cosmetic people are coming out with special creams, lotions, make-up and things to make plain knees unplain and beautiful.

And the hosiery manufacturers are scheming to make that stocking - top band more glamorous or eliminate it.

It will be interesting to see what happens.

Won't it, fellows?

"I am beginning to suspect," said the bridegroom, "that your mother has a low opinion of me."

"Whatever makes you think that?" asked the bride.

Replied the groom, "Those towels she gave us are marked. 'Hers' and 'Its.' "

The small boy on the bus had been sniffing loudly for some time. After several disapproving glances, the prim, middle-aged lady sitting next to him inquired, "Little boy, have you a handkerchief?"

"Yes, Ma'am," replied the urchin smiling at her with innocent regret, "but Mother doesn't like me to lend it to strangers."

The lion went up to the elephant and asked, "Who is the king of the jungle?" Whereupon the elephant seized the lion with his trunk, whirled him around, tossed him in the air, caught him on the way down, slammed him into a tree.

Half-dazed, severely beaten, the lion shook himself, managed to mutter weakly: "Just because you don't know the right answer, you don't have to get sore."

Young boy: I saw you talking to a strange girl.

"Just in Case You Decide to Run!"

NEW YORK (AP) — Millions of people take vacation trips this time of year in order to have something to write about on postcards.

Postcards are the billboards of the common man on which he chronicles in deathly prose the story of his passing:

"Drove 550 miles today. Hope to make 600 tomorrow."

"Wish you were — instead of me. This motel charges $18 per day, and even more on days when they put water in the swimming pool."

"Having wonderful time. Hope you are changing the gravel in the cat's box regularly."

Writing postcards is undoubtedly our most widespread form of pop art. It is as American as the hot dog, the pizza pie and chop suey.

But for a people inventive enough to come up with the skyscraper, the airplane and bubble gum, it is amazing how our lack of ingenuity falters when we have to put down our thoughts on a postal card. Words fail us, or the words we do summon up strike us as hollow even as we write them.

No scholar has won his Ph.D. by a profound study on "social consciousness in U. S. postcard literature," because it is rarely conscious and it is never literature. No Nobel Prize has ever been awarded to a postcard author, anymore than it has been given to any aviator for sky writing.

Men are peculiarly inept at composing postcards. The average man will waste an afternoon, bite his tongue raw, and develop writer's cramp composing three postcards, such as:

"Raining when we passed through Yellowstone. However, did see two bears and a forest ranger."

"Gas here costs two cents a gal less than in our town. Everything okay in the office? Regards to the gang."

"Just saw Niagara Falls. Great place for a guy who likes outdoor showers."

Women are just the other way. They take a peculiar delight in postcards. They can even write them while descending on mule-back into the grand canyon.

A postcard is a definite challenge to a woman. She wants to be sure she gets her 4-cent stamp's worth. Where a man finds nothing to say, she can't find enough space to chronicle her scenery-thrilled soul.

The fellow who engraves the Lord's Prayer in miniature on a penny is a piker compared to her. She tries to compress an encyclopedia on every postcard.

The big mistake most people make is in sending postcards to friends and acquaintances. It would be much wiser if they mailed them to themselves.

Then, when they got home, they'd have a lot of fun looking at the pictures of all the scenic places they visited — the beautiful places they hadn't had time to enjoy because they were too darned busy writing postcards.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- Despite his personal ego, President Johnson is surprisingly realistic most of the time about his limitations in the field of foreign affairs.

"I'm learnin,' George, I'm learnin'," he once told Under Secretary of State George Ball. "The only question is whether the world can wait until I learn enough."

He knows that he assumed the presidency woefully unprepared regarding foreign affairs. All his experience in the congress was with the military. He had been both a member of the House Naval Affairs Committee and a young naval officer during World War II. He had been a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, Chairman of the Senate Preparedness Committee, of the Space Committee, and a member of the Appropriations Subcommittee for the armed services.

Most of his contacts on Capitol Hill were the generals and the admirals sent up to sell him on various military programs. He had no important contacts with the state department. He even once led the senate drive to drastically curtail one of the most important branches of foreign policy -- the U. S. Information Agency--which he now champions.

Considering this lack of foreign affairs background, Johnson has done pretty well. During his first year in office he made more progress in Soviet-American understanding than did Kennedy in three years. He adroitly sidetracked the multilateral nuclear force which was churning up our NATO allies. He refused to tangle publicly with De Gaulle. He advised the Germans to allay Russian suspicions, advice which they followed.

But every so often, the President's old habit of siding with the generals, and his latent Texas instinct for shooting from the hip got the better of him and he sank the nation in trouble.

SNAP JUDGMENTS

This was what happened in the Dominican Republic where in thirty minutes he made up his mind to undo our quarter-century-old policy of non-intervention. That 30-minute snap decision to land the marines cost around $110,000,000 and alienated our best Latin-American friends. Despite new elections they are still suspicious.

The Presdent also made a snap decision at about 2 a.m., Feb. 7, 1965, to begin a policy of bombing North Viet Nam. The generals had been urging this for some time, and the President finally accepted their advice at a time of the night when few men's judgment is clearest. It was purely a military decision.

What the generals either did not know or did properly evaluate was that Premier Kosygin, one of the new leaders of the Soviet, had arrived in Hanoi only that day, and en route had urged the Chinese to help bring the North Vietnames to a peace conference. This is what we have long wanted, but Johnson smacked Kosygin with a rain of bombs 14 hours after he proposed it.

Lyndon's latest decision to escalate around Hanoi and Haiphong was made not on the spur of the moment but after several weeks of waiting for the Buddhist riots to subside, and it was made in large part because the joint chiefs of staff were so frustrated and unhappy that Johnson felt he must do something to restore their morale.

Again it was purely a military decision. The generals who recommended it knew little of the efforts American diplomats have made to thaw the freeze with China. They knew nothing of the political situation confronting Prime Minister Harold Wilson of England, our staunchest ally. They are not experts on the problems of oriental racism and the resentment which the Japanese, also staunch allies, have against a white invader of a yellow country.

And they do not understand the all- important fact that the people of South Viet Nam whom we are trying to help can never be helped constructively until they have a government which represents them, not an unpopular military regime which represents the United States.

LBJ UNDERCUTS LBJ

What the generals knew was that they were not winning. They had promised the President three years ago that they would win in one year and they were not fulfilling that promise. They were not fulfilling it despite the fact that they had upped the number of American boys in Viet Nam from around 30,000 when Kennedy was killed to close to half a million under Johnson.

The last time President Johnson acted on their advice on a major matter -- the bombing of North Viet Nam on Feb. 7, 1965 -- the excuse was to prevent troops and supplies from infiltrating south. One year later, the Secretary of Defense says that the flow of men and supplies has increased 150 and 120 per cent respectively.

If the President is going to take the advice of military men, what he needs is military men around him who have fought in the Far East before -- Gen. Omar Bradley, Gen. Matt Ridgway, Gen. Joe Collins -- who came through the agonies of Korea and know what it's like to face endless waves of Orientals, poorly equipped and hungry but with no concern for life or physical suffering.

The tragedy is that the President is rapidly painting himself into a position where the great things he has accomplished on the domestic front will be both forgotten and undermined. No President in history, perhaps, has done so much for the advancement of education, civil rights, and the general welfare of the American people.

But these can be undermined by inflation, beclouded by the unpopularity of war.

He is also painting himself into a position where the American people will conclude that the only way they can get out of this war is to elect a new president with new policies, and do it as quickly as constitutionally possible in 1968.

H. L. Hunt Says

Happiness sparkles like spring water out of the idea of freedom. Happy songs, a happy outlook, a happy people are the product of liberty. Wherever freedom abounds, people have a brightness about them, a zest for life, a place in the sun. The spirit of the USA is a bouyant, soaring spirit. And liberty is its elevator.

The relation between freedom and happiness is easily apparent. And there is an inevitable relation, too, between suppression and sadness. Unfettered opportunity, unrestrained movement, and the limitless right of choice delight man; coercion depresses him. Dictatorial governments, forged out of the philosophy of submission to an inexorable fate - the idea that a person is the victim of his enviroment, a pawn of blind destiny - will enslave the heart as well as the body.

There is a certain grimness about totalitarianism that robs the human spirit of its bloom as surely as the icy breath of winter darkens a green countryside. Communism is the ample modern proof of this. The heart of Soviet Russia is a stone, bitter and bleak. Its sad music, tragic theater, doleful literature are dirges of despair. It is the voice of slavery; it is the clanking chains of pograms, torture, exile, death.

Look at the youth of America. There is a brightness, an uncontained joy about them. Observing their carefree faces, hearing their laughter and songs, listening to their words, we can be grateful that they have inherited the golden treasure of human liberty, and that the country's future, bound up in their lives, will be as happy as the freedom in their hearts as they restore it to their benefactors.

Doc. Duncan Says

Radio just said 50000 Catholics in Viet Nam marching for Unk AND Ky while 5000 Buddhist was marching to oust Ky.

Looks like at least the world can know for sure what that war is all about. There is some signs that it may find its way into our election here at home, as all signs point to the war as the main issue, crossing party lines.

NEW YORK -- Some influential Vietnamese port authorities in Saigon are using red tape as a garrote to strangle the "life-line" stretching from the U. S. to Viet Nam.

Deliberately they are tripping up American efforts to unclog that river harbor. They are working with Saigon merchants to perpetuate the black market. They are running interference for the profiteers in an effort to smash a secret U. S. crash program before it begins an offensive against the commercial operators there.

All this is said in a confidential report just submitted to the Departments of State and Defense by the fiery ocean-hopping Ted Gleason, our land's number one dock-walloper.

"Teddy", president of the International Longshoremen's Assn. (AFL-CIO), has recently returned from his third inspection trip to Saigon.

Not too long ago the port was clogged because ships could not be unloaded.

Now, with that situation improved, the docks are choked up because the port authorities -- and some Americans, too -- permit unloaded cargo to encumber the critical, and scarce, port space for as long as a year.

Typical are some 5,000 toilet bowls which have been resting on and around the pier area for over a year. Actually, they were intended for military housing -- That's a lot of toilet bowls.

They cover space needed for vital cargo now weighing down vital barges needed to unload vital materials from vital ships which must be turned around swiftly for home passage.

It would have the touch of a four-a-day vaudeville era comedian if it were not so tragic.

Strewn around the wharves also are 250 new automobiles. They have been there so long, Gleason says, they'll be last year's models soon if not picked up by the merchants who purchased them. Obviously they are leaving the cars on the piers so scarcity can keep jacking up the black market prices for the luxury models.

Not the least of the homemade obstacle course in the port area are huge shipments of steel -- bars, sheets, cables and galvanized material.

They just lie there. They rust. And some of the stock has been on the ground for more than a year, Gleason discloses.

In all there are about 5,000 tons of steel, some of which is on 200 barges. These are immobilized, though they should be shuttling back and forth between the big ships out at the buoys bringing in cargo needed for strategic reasons.

The merchants simply are using the docks and barges as private open-air warehouses while space is desperately needed.

"The time has come for the merchants to realize that the thunder they hear is not all God-made," says Gleason acidly.

"That's gunfire they hear. They should be told there's a war on, and black-marketeering means that the men in the field, ours and theirs, are being shot in the back by the price gougers.

"We should get the goods into the hands of the people or break the backs of the black marketeers by cutting off comercial imports except under proper supervision."

Not the least of the problem is the stinking garbage which corrodes the material as well as the air.

Gleason reports that it would take 150 men, working 'round the clock, only 72 to 96 hours to clear the area. But no one tries, least of all the port authorities. Yet they have the power to move, points out Gleason, under Decree-Law No. 12/64 of June 16, 1964, as amended by 008-65 of August 13, 1965. This law invests the Port Director with the responsibility and authority to make all changes needed and take any action necessary to unclog the area. But little is done.

Gleason's confidential report, for example, discloses that, though 5,000 men are needed, just 2,300 are registered -- and only 1,500 actually go to work. But there are at least 50,000 men available and eager to get a job.

There are few facilities even for the small contingent -- no mobile canteens, and just a prefabricated one-story building 60 by 20 feet.

Yet the U. S. is about to launch a crash program to crack the black market.

Washington is about to pour in millions on millions of dollars worth of clothes, food, shoes, appliances, etc., so the boulevards of Saigon can begin resembling the main streets of mid-America -- and the kids can eat and dress like Saturday night.

But the black marketeers are killing that dream with their red tape garrots. Why is no one asking why -- loudly and firmly -- until we get an answer?

Bob Gibson

Gibson Named To All-Stars

CINCINNATI (AP) — Most of the pitchers picked for the National League in next week's All-Star Game have had some experience in All-Star competition.

Manager Walt Alston of the Los Angeles Dodgers said Wednesday his choices were Sandy Koufax of the Dodgers, Juan Marichal and Gaylord Perry of San Francisco, Jim Bunning of Philadelphia, Bob Gibson of St. Louis, Claude Raymond of Houston, Billy McCool of Cincinnati and Bob Veale of Pittsburgh.

Only Perry, McCool and Raymond have never before been named to an All-Star squad. Bunning (9-4) has been picked seven times—including twice in the American League—and Koufax has been named to the squad six times.

The contest with the American League All-Stars in St. Louis' new Busch Stadium next Tuesday will be Marichal's fifth All-Star Game. Gibson has been named three times and Veale was first selected last year, but did not see any action.

The eight hurlers have a collective record of 79-31.

Manager Sam Mele of Minnesota, who heads the American League team, announced his selections earlier. They were Gary Bell and Sam McDowell of Cleveland, Denny McLain of Detroit, Steve Barber of Baltimore, Jim Kaat of Minnesota, Mel Stottlenyre of New York, Jim Hunter of Kansas City and Pete Richert of Washington.

All of Mele's selections were starters, while Alston picked two relief experts--McCool (4-4) and Raymond (5-2).

Perry, who is 12-1, has the best record among the starting pitchers. Marichal (13-4) has an All-Star earned run average of 1.13 as the winner in 1962 and 1964. He gave up only one hit in three innings after starting last year's game.

The victory in that game went to Koufax (15-3), who worked only one inning. Gibson (11-8) worked the last two innings of the game and saved the National League's one-run margin.

Veale (10-5), Koufax and McCool are left-handers. The other five hurlers are right-handed.

The eight starting infielders and outfielders for both teams have already been selected by vote of the players, but the two managers still have to name nine more men to their squads.

Osteen Shines For Dodgers

Associated Press Sports Writer

Take a strong arm, add lots of pressure and a portion of self-help and you have a Los Angeles Dodger pitcher. Claude Osteen fits the formula perfectly.

Osteen won his sixth game by a one-run margin this season Wednesday night — 1-0 against Cincinnati — and he drove in the run.

In bringing his record to 11-6, Osteen allowed the Reds just three hits and went 2-for-2 to raise his average to .261 with 12 hits in 46 at bats. One of his two singles drove home John Kennedy in the eighth inning. In two of his other one-run decisions, Osteen who now has three RBI, scored the winning run.

"This is the best first half I've ever had," Osteen said after gaining his second shutout of the year. "I've always pitched a lot better the second half of the season than I did the first."

Last year at this time Osteen was only 6-10, but he closed with a rush to finish at 15-15.

Coming through with key hits is nothing new for Los Angeles pitchers. Don Drysdale has done it many times in his career, so has Sandy Koufax, a notoriously poor hitter, and rookie Don Sutton is catching on fast. Sutton is hitting .271.

The New York Mets beat Philadelphia 7-5 and Atlanta walloped Houston 8-1 in other National League games.

In the American League, Boston defeated the New York Yankees 5-3 and 5-4, California nipped Detroit 1-0 in 10 innings, Minnesota edged Cleveland 4-3, Washington downed the Chicago White Sox 4-3 and 3-2 and Baltimore split with Kansas City, winning the opener 11-0 and losing the nightcap 9-8 in 11 innings

Roberto Clemente doubled home two runs and drove in three more with his 13th homer in the Pirates' victory. Donn Clendenon also got his 13th homer and fourth in as many games for the Pirates, a two-run shot.

Jack Hamilton picked up his eighth save in his last 11 appearances for New York. Ed Kranepool knocked in three runs with a pair of doubles for the Mets, who exploded for four runs in the seventh inning. Phillie pitcher Jim Bunning was forced to leave the game in the sixth with a pulled groin muscle. He has an 11-1 record against the Mets.

Joe Torre hit his 21st homer and an RBI single and Mack Jones homered and tripled for the Braves. Don Schwall, making his first start since being traded to Atlanta by Pittsburgh, worked 6 1-3 innings for the victory.

College Talent Meets in Coaches All-American Game

Associated Press Sports Writer

ATLANTA (AP) — Two rich young college football players—Donny Anderson of Texas Tech and Jim Grabowski of Illinois—will battle for the last time Saturday night before they team up in what they hope will be rewarding careers with the Green Bay Packers.

Anderson will play for the West and Grabowski for the East in the Coaches All-America Game, which marks the second time they have dueled.

The two youngsters—each of whom received a bonus reportedly in the neighborhood of $600,000 to sign with the Packers -- were on opposite sides last January in the Hula Bowl at Honolulu.

"We won that game by one point," Grabowski said, "although Donny had a better day than I did. I scored a conversion, but he caught a couple of nice passes."

Grabowski and Anderson will team up for the College All-Star Game in Chicago Aug. 5, when the 1965 college standouts meet the Green Bay Packers, champions of the National Football League.

Then the two hard-running backs will report to Green Bay, where they plan to room together.

Both are being counted on heavily in the All-America Game, with Grabowski the East's starting fullback and Anderson playing halfback for the West.

"I enjoy playing against Donny," Grabowski said, "although he's so much faster than me I don't even like to think about it."

Grabowski is a burly 220-pounder who broke Big Ten running marks by gaining 2,878 yards in his career; Anderson, who also weighs 220 on a rangier frame, gained 2,280 yards rushing in three years at Texas Tech, and also caught 105 passes for 1,327 yards and 12 touchdowns.

Both admit they may have trouble cracking the Green Bay line-up.

Grabowski will be understudying the Packers' great fullback, Jimmy Taylor, and Anderson will be playing behind halfback Paul Hornung.

Roster Increase For NFL

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

DETROIT (AP) — A move to increase the playing roster from 38 to 40 has been the only major decision reached by the American Football League owners in their summer meeting.

A morning session was scheduled today but little was expected to be accomplished, outside of continued discussion on the recent merger with the National Football League.

"We had to increase the number of players on each team to keep in line with what's done in the NFL," Boston Patriots owner Bill Sullivan explained. "We don't like the thought of meeting them in a championship game with fewer players."

Sullivan indicated that the AFL owners are prepared to present strong cases for their side in various differences between the two leagues.

The two-point conversion option and making the scoreboard clock official were two rules mentioned.

"I don't know why the NFL doesn't go with the two point option," Sullivan said. "We think it makes for a more interesting game."

Besides the decision to increase the rosters, the AFL owners also indicated a leaning toward expansion in 1968 and a wearm-weather city or cities as the site of the title game with the NFL.

Cities mentioned in the expansion discussion were Anaheim, Calif., Cincinnati, New Orleans and Seattle.

Commissioner Al Davis explained that under peculiar wording in the AFL-NFL merger agreement the AFL could name a city but the NFL would expand first.

"We'll decide what city to pick as soon as we settle it it our minds. We intend to name the city and protect the territory until we expand in 1968," Davis said.

Boog Powell drove in a record tying 11 runs, but could do no more than help the Orioles to a split of a twi-night doubleheader with Kansas City in Baltimore.

Powell drove in four runs in the opener with a three run double and a sacrifice fly as Baltimore won, 11-0, behind the five-hit pitching of Steve Barber.

Kansas City pushed across a run in the 11th inning on doubles by Roger Repoz and Larry Stahl to edge Baltimore, 9-8, in the nightcap despite Powell's grand slam homer, his two-run homer and a run-producing double.

Powell's RBI tied the American League record for a doubleheader, matching a feat by Earl Averill of Cleveland in 1930 and Jim Tabor of Boston in 1939.

The A's rallied for six runs in the eighth inning of the second game to go ahead, 8-6, only to see Powell's two-run homer tie it up with two out in the ninth.

Kansas City started its uprising against Eddie Watts. Stahl, who doubled home two runs in the fourth, singled in a run. Pinch hitter Ed Charles drove in another after a walk, sending Watts to the shower. Reliever Stu Miller gave up a walk, and a run-scoring single to Campy Campaneris. Then Jim Gosger hit a two-run single and Repoz beat out a bunt for the sixth run of the inning.

Meanwhile, Willie Mays continues to creep up on Jimmy Foxx on the all-time homer list at the expense of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Mays' 524th career home run Wednesday afternoon at San Francisco carried the Giants to a 3-2 victory over the Cardinals just when it appeared St. Louis had the game wrapped up.

Willie's two out, three-run blow in the eighth inning, his 19th of the season, put him 10 home runs behind Foxx, who is second only to Babe Ruth in homers. Mays slipped into third place on the all-time list last month by belting his 522nd, one more than Ted Williams, against St. Louis.

The Cardinals staked starter Tracy Stallard to a 2-0 lead with a run in the sixth on singles by Orlando Cepeda and Tim McCarver and Jerry Buchek's sacrifice fly, and another in the eighth on Mike Shannon's eighth homer of the season.

Stallard had one out on the Giants in the eighth when pinch hitter Len Gabrielson and Tito Fuentes singled in succession.

Joe Hoerner relieved and got pinch hitter Dick Dietz for the second out, but Mays connected against Don Dennis, the third Redbird pitcher of the inning.

Stallard, dueling with the Giants' Bob Bolin, had allowed only four hits before the eighth.

The A's and Cards both have today off.

100-Voice Choir To Sing at Luci's Wedding

By FRANCES LEWINE

WASHINGTON (AP) — A choir of 100 men and boys will sing at the wedding of Luci Johnson and Patrick J. Nugent.

The White House announced today that the choral music for the ceremony will be provided by the combined men's and boys' choirs of two Baltimore Roman Catholic churches —the Cathedral of Mary Our Queen and the Church of the Immaculate Heart of Mary.

Robert F. Twynham, director of the cathedral choir, will compose music for parts of the nuptial Mass and will play the organ at the wedding. The combined choirs will be under the direction of Norman Sydnor, director of the church choir.

About 700 guests are expected for the marriage of the daughter of the President and Mrs. Johnson at noon Aug. 6 in the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception here.

The White House said 400 invitations embossed with the presidential coat of arms will be mailed Friday to about 700 personal friends and relatives of the young couple and the Johnson and Nugent families. Many of the invitations will go to couples. Those invited to the ceremony also will be invited to the White House reception which will follow.

Names of the guests were not disclosed, but the White House said a large segment would be young out-of-town friends of Luci and Nugent, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerard P. Nugent of Waukegan, Ill.

Dairy Farmers Get Price Hike

KANSAS CITY AP -- The price paid to dairy farmers for Class 1 milk in the Kansas City area was increased Tuesday by 35 cents a hundred pounds. The price goes from $4.97 to $5.32.

Foster Lewis, manager of the Pure Milk Producers Association of Greater Kansas City, said the increase was the result of a boost in the government's price support rate on manufacturing milk from $3.50 to $4.00 a hundred pounds.

The association acts as a broker between farmers and processors.

Officials said that action of wholesalers and retailers in absorbing the higher costs will determine whether the increase will result in higher prices to the consumer.

Record Volume of Bonds Registered

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- State Auditor Haskell Holman said today he registered a record volume of bonds during the fiscal year ended June 30-$64,740,098 worth.

Contact Renewed With Surveyor 1

PASADENA, Calif. AP -- Scientists, after days of trying, reestablished contact today with Surveyor 1, the photo-snapping spacecraft on the moon. It had been silent during the two-week frigid lunar night, and experts feared its battery might be dead.

Surveyor quickly began "talking back" this morning after the heat of lunar day revived it.

The Jet Propulsion Laboratory said the feat was established and a series of engineering questions was sent to the spacecraft concerning temperature and voltages aboard. Surveyor began answering, dutifully.

Late tonight or early Thursday, when the Goldstone, Calif., tracking station can take over communication, an attempt may be made to reactivate Surveyor's cameras, which sent thousands of pictures of the moon's surface back to earth.

The cameras went dead and communication ended about three weeks ago when the lunar night set in, bringing temperatures down to nearly 260 degrees below zero.

St. Louis Symphony Granted $2½ Million

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Ford Foundation announced a $2,500,000 grant today to the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra.

Spokesmen said $2 million of the grant is an endowment that must be matched by the orchestra within five years. St. Louis' Symphony was one of 14 major orchestras to receive the $2,500,000 grant.

"The foundation's program is the best thing that has happened to music in this country," said St. Louis Symphony Society President Standley J. Goodman "and certainly the biggest boost the St. Louis Symphony has ever had."

The $500,000 in nonmatching funds will be paid to the St. Louis orchestra in five annual installments as operating funds. Interest from the endowment may be kept by the orchestra for the next five years. If the $2 million is matched, interest will be paid to the symphony for 10 full years and then the full amount will be paid.

ABOUT OUR SCHOOLS

by LYNN TWITTY

We return with this weekly column (that is when we can find time to write it) after an absence of some weeks, in an attempt to provide you with more information about our schools specifically, and perhaps about education in general.

The proper selection of textbooks, library and other reading materials for use in the schools is an important responsibility. In order that we make the most effective use of the money which we have available for books and library material, a book committee consisting of faculty members and parents was organized last year and a policy statement relating to selection of these materials for use by our students was formulated.

We believe that freedom to read, is as important as free speech or freedom of the press. We believe also that it is a professional responsibility of teachers and librarians, with the help of selected parents, to provide a wide variety of reading material to present different viewpoints, especially on controversial topics. We think it important that students be encouraged to read widely and to become familiar with variations of opinions and theories. The committee is not set up as a board of censorship, but rather to select the best material available, the kinds of materials that will further our educational aims. Especially is it important to select textbooks that will best help the teacher to accomplish the purposes and aims of the particular class in which the textbook is to be used. We hope that these textbooks are not selected merely on the basis of their agreement with the opinions of that particular teacher, but because the facts presented are as true as possible and the opinions expressed are such as to cause students to think, to develop a sense of discrimination toward finding the truth for themselves.

We do hold also that it is our responsibility to as nearly as possible provide material that is wholesome, informative, and that will stimulate students to develop their abilities to think creatively and objectively.

We do not expect everyone to agree with all books or materials that are selected, in fact, there are at times differences of opinions between the members of the selection committee that here democratically, the majority prevails. Individuals who have particular complaint may voice this complaint in writing on a form which is available, and the complaint will then be considered by the committee. We appreciate the assistance of this committee in the selection of necessary instructional materials and library books and especially are we grateful for the help of the parents who work with us.

"I have sworn upon the alter of God, eternal hostility against every form of tyranny over the mind of man." Thomas Jefferson

A recently, carefully documented report by the Center for Education Study at Peabody College reached the following conclusion: "The prevalence of small high school constitutes the most serious obstacle to education . . . . . course offerings in most (but not all) high schools are adequate to meet graduation and state college entrance deamdns, but they are of little additional benefit to the overwhelming majority of those who do not go to college."

The report further discloses that more than one-half of high schools now enroll fewer than 300 pupils--a number that makes almost impossible adequate instruction, especially for those not going to college. Courses in industrial arts, art,; music, and the important vocational areas rarely appear in these schools.

The study shows that a four-year high school must offer at least three times as many credit courses as are required for graduation if non-college-bound youth are to have an equal break with those who go on to college. This means a total of 50 or more units which the overwhelming majority of small high schools simply cannot provide without excessive financial outlay.

The conclusion is inescapable: the quality of our high schools must be improved, much of the improvement depends upon providing better and wider educational opportunities which can only be economically feasible in high schools enrolling upward of 600 students.

For a considerable number of years the U.S. Department of Agriculture has bought surplus food products from farmers in order to support stable prices. These commodities were then supplied to schools, both public and parochial, as part of the federal school lunch program. In most cases, as in ours, this provided a very sizable subsidy and allowed schools to keep the price to the student at a low figure. School lunch prices here have been the same for the past 7-8 years: 25¢ for children in grades 1-6, 30 cents for grades 7-9, and 35¢ for grades 10-12.

To indicate the importance of surplus food products in the schools' food service budget, three years ago the value of these foods provided us, at current prices, amounted to approximately $38,000. Each year since the amount has rapidly declined and we were recently informed that a change in the agricultural economy and mounting food prices no longer require this kind of government support for the farmer. Consequently we cannot expect much in the way of surplus foods in the near future.

Even with the surplus foods we were barely able to pay our costs and finish the year in the black. We will not do so this year although the deficit will be very small. If we are to maintain the same quality in the type and amount of meals available to our students, there appears to be only one reasonable alternative. That, of course, is to raise the price of the meal served. We do not believe that parents will object to an increase which will make it possible for us to maintain a good lunch program. Certainly, there can be no reasonable objection, in the face of mounting costs which are involved in providing a good noon-day meal for our growing youngsters. We expect to continue a study of this problem and to recommend whatever changes may be necessary prior to the opening of school in September.

Twenty graduates of our Man-Power Development Training Classes for Nurses Aides, Building and Grounds Maintenance, and Food Services, went to Columbia recently to be interviewed for employment. Seventeen of these graduates were employed by Missouri University and we expect that others will be.

Prior to this training, these people were unemployed. A considerable number of them were on some form of unemployment compensation or other welfare payment. Those employed are now making their own way and are tax payers instead of tax consumers. The record of other classes trained here through MDTA or other of our vocational offerings is about equally good. We can think of no better proof of the value of spending public money to train the unemployed to become self supporting and contributing members of our economy and society.

Lamb, the flesh and carcass of a young sheep, is eaten all over the world, since there is no objection to its use on religious grounds. But the United Kingdom is the only country in the northern hemisphere consuming any large quantity of lamb and mutton, the flesh of more mature sheep. An average of 22 pounds per capita is consumed annually in the United Kingdom, as compared with four pounds in the United States.

Individual Freedom And The Common Defence

by Walter Millis

The second basic issue, or set of issues, to be considered is of a different kind. The foregoing has been assuming an ideal anti - sedition system, operating perfectly within its own assumptions, identifying, controlling, and penalizing only those who really hold the seditious faith. But granting for the sake of argument that it is both necessary and legitimate to apply special disabilities and penalties to Communists, it cannot be legitimate to apply them to those who are not Communists at all. If the principle is allowable, justice clearly requires that the practice should accord with it. If pro - Communist believers are adjudged so treacherous, unreliable, and potentially dangerous as to warrant their exclusion, as a class, from full participation in the affairs and privileges of the community, this certainly does not warrant the similar exclusion of many who are in no way pro - Communist believers, as a result of suspicion, rumor, malice, or mistake. The second basic issue concerns the question of how far the anti - sedition system operates justly within its own premises.

It is important to distinguish the two issues, because they are usually inextricably confused in debate over such specific problems as the protections of the Fifth Amendment, the right of confrontation in security hearings, the right of the defense in criminal cases to examine the reports of FBI witnesses, and many similar issues of due process. In confronting such debates it is usually difficult to know (and the disputants usually do not seem to know themselves) whether the issue is over the rights of any citizen in defending himself from the charge of being a Communist or the right of a Communist not to be penalized or held blameworthy solely because of his Communism. The non-Communist position is: You may not invade my thoughts or require my testimony under oath in order to prove me guilty of Communism because with such methods too many mistakes are made. The Communist position is: You may not invade my thoughts or require my testimony in order to prove me guilty of Communism because Communism is no crime and you have no right to make it so in either law or common practice. These are quite different positions.

Lack of Moisture Causing Statewide Crop Concern

columbia, Mo. AP -- Shortage of moisture is beginning to have its effects on Missouri crops.

"Many areas are now needing rain in order that crops may continue normal growth," the Department of Agriculture and the Weather Bureau said in their combined weekly report.

"Corn growth is beginning to be hampered by shortage of available moisture in many areas," the report said. "Also corn is being damaged by corn borer.

"Pasture conditions continued to decline last week. This is due to the shortage of available moisture."

"some northwest Missouri counties had abundant moisture last week, but the Ozark and East central plains had generally less than .10 of an inch.

A PART of more than 100 pigeons, of the finest breed found in the world, can be found in the pens, owned by P. H. "Buck" Hunott, 516 William street.

The upper picture is the parlor tumbler as he gets ready for his tumbling act. The bottom scene shows h i m in action.

A Sikeston Man's Hobby Started When He Was Ten

You may wonder when and how a hobby is started?

It was by chance that we learned of a Sikeston man's hobby of Pigeons; He has over 100, that covers more than 16 breeds.

This pigeon lover is a postal rural route carrier, named P. H. "Buck" Hunott, who lives with his family at 516 William street.

When "Buck" was asked why he started this particular hobby, he explained, "well frankly it started when I was about 10 years old. I grew up in Matthews, and was always fascinated by the different kinds of pigeons I saw."

"It was not until 1959 that I started my hobby, with six pairs of pigeons, consisting of White Kings, Parlor Rollers and Russian Trumpeters. After studying about the pigeons, and writing to various fanciers, I learned there were a little more than 200 breeds in the world.

In making my mail route I learned of other pigeon hobbyists, and took up the hobby, seeking the quality breed only.

"I learned from the American Pigeon Journal, where to find the various kinds of breeds, their cost, and other pertinent information. The Journal is published in Warrenton, Mo., by Frank Holman, a weekly newspaperman and well known in the Missouri journalism field. The magazine is known as the leading publication about Pigeons in the world.

"An average pair will cost $5, while the better breeds run to $25, and a few as high as $75 per pair, for a pair of White Jacobins. A hobbyist does not have to buy too many pair, because he soon learns to exchange with other pigeon fanciers, and soon the family grows. Others in this area who spend spare time at this hobby are, Marshall Isabell, Matthews, Robert Crenshaw, Sikeston and Earl Hitt, Miner.

"I soon learned that once a pair is mated, they will never break up. I am particularly proud of one of my pairs," said Hunott, "the Parlor Tumbler, and is the only pair known that cannot fly, but amuses itself by getting on the ground, and at a given command, or when it becomes excited, it will make complete somersaults."

"I'm hoping to find a pair of English Shortface Baldhead Tumblers, a toy pigeon, and the smallest breed known in the world. The breed is not over eight ounces in weight, and so far it has been hard to locate."

When he was asked why he had not stocked any homing pigeons, Hunott said, "I've never cared for the homing pigeons, they're of a nervous disposition. They stay in their pens but a short time before they start out again."

The only homing pigeon fancier in this area is Bill Depro, Matthews. Depro has about 50 of the flyers, and released a few not long ago in Memphis, Tenn., and they returned to their home.

Mr. Hunott is assisted in his hobby by his son Philip, 9, and a daughter Phyllis Ann, 7, who helps him feed and water this beautiful assortment of pigeons. Many interested persons drop around to the Hunott back yard and spend time looking over the large assortment of fancy pigeons.

For those who know anything about pigeons, you can find the following: Nuns, pheasant pigeons, fantails, rollers, Russian highfliers, turbits, helmets, English tumbler, Jacobins, modenas, Damascans, tipplers, parlor tumblers, frills and frill-backs.

$166.6 Million is Contracted For Construction or Right of Way Purchases For State Highways During 1966

During the 1966 fiscal year, which ended June 30, the Missouri State Highway Commission awarded contracts and expended for the purchase of right of way a total of $166,629,030.

Construction awards amounted to $137,086,610 on 556.9 miles and right of way purchases amounted to $27,227,794.

In addition, the Commission authorized $2,150,460 for oil surface treatment on 1,184.7 miles of raods.

Also, $45,166 was expended for right of way on defense and park connection routes.

Another $119,000 was spent during the period for installing flashing light signal systems at 13 railroad grade crossings.

The largest amount of money, $75,089,369, was spent on the Interstate highway system. This included $14,654,047 for right of way and $60,435,322 for construction or improvements on 109 miles.

Lemonade Extinguishes Blaze

ROACHDALE, Ind. (AP) — Authorities say a firecracker apparently was responsible for a fire which destroyed three tents and caused an estimated $3,500 damage during a Lions Club fish fry in downtown Roachdale.

Since it was the handiest liquid available, firemen used buckets of lemonade to extinguish the blaze.

Cast an eerie shimmering glow
I screamed (I am told)
And passed out cold

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: In this age of going steady, teen-age drinking, and sexual promiscuity, parents don't know how to cope with their children.

Our 16-year-old daughter is dating a boy who controls her every move. He has a car and plenty of spending money. There is no limit to where they can go and what they can do.

I've told Bonnie that we don't like this fellow and to stop going with him, or at least go with some others as well. Bonnie says if we tell her she can't see this boy she'll sneak out and see him anyway.

This is not her first steady, but the other boys had parents who set limits, so at least we knew when Bonnie would be home.

Please tell us how a girl can reject her parents for a 17-year-old smart aleck. -- OUTSIDE THE CIRCLE.

Dear Outside: Bonnie has not rejected you for a 17-year-old smart aleck. You lost control of her long before HE got into the act.

I've had thousands of letters similar to yours and I wish I could produce a magic formula to help distraught parents get through to their unruly children.

The time to have reached for help was when those kids were two years old. Now I can only suggest professional counseling --and I hope it isn't too late.

Dear Ann Landers: In a recent column a reader wrote that Los Angeles has more phonies per square inch than any city in the world. I'd like to disabuse him of that notion. Fort Lauderdale and Miami tie for first place.

I head a public relations firm in one of those Florida cities. I am not saying which. Every day I am approached by entertainers, business men, nutty inventors and just plain crooks. I'm astonished at the number of swindlers and fast-buck artists who try to con me into getting them free publicity. All P.R. people are subject to this stuff, but nowhere is it so flagrant as in these two cities.

I have been stuck with so many printing and photography bills that I now operate strictly on a pay-in-advance basis.

If there are more phonies in Los Angeles, as your reader claims, believe me they got their basic training in Fort Lauderdale or Miami and moved to California. -- BEN HAD.

Dear Ben: Chiselers and crooks are wherever you find them -- and, unfortunately, they are found all over. The sunshine states probably have more kinky characters because crooks tend to go where the livin' is easy.

In your business the best protection against getting rooked is to get the money in front, boy. And that's what you're doing.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a bachelor who has been going with a divorced woman for two years. May has four wonderful children. Her ex-husband was a miserable, mean lush and they haven't heard from him since the divorce. May is supporting herself and the kids.

Everyone I've talked to says I'd be crazy to marry a woman with four kids. I'm pretty sure I'd enjoy it but so many people have told me I'd be a fool to take on a ready-made family, that I'm confused.

I don't promise to follow your advice, but I'd like to hear it. -- POP

Dear Pop: Your signature told me what I wanted to know. You DO love those kids and you think of yourself as their father. Marry the woman. I'm betting you'll make a great little group.

No teen-ager is as confident as he appears. Get clued in. Send for Ann Landers' booklet "Dating Do's and Don'ts," enclosing with your request 35¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Volkswagens Called In for Inspection

NEW YORK AP -- About 197,000 Volkswagen automobiles were ordered recalled to local dealers today for inspection of front axle ball joint assemblies and rear luggage compartment lids.

Volkswagen of America Inc. in Englewood Cliffs, N. J., said 175,000 of the familiar beetle-shaped Volkswagen sedans and the sport model Karmann-Ghia were involved.

About 22,000 square back sedans, resembling the larger American station wagon, also were recalled.

The sedans and Karmann-Ghias were manufactured between Aug. 1, 1965, and mid-January of this year.

Fifty per cent of the persons located who are heirs to estates never knew the person who left the money.

Capt. Lyle Malone, who was requested to raise a company to join the National Guard of Missouri, for guarding the border during the Mexican disturbance has between 65 and 70 recruits. He expects to be ordered to Nevada, Mo., for training within the next few days.

Notwithstanding, he had been a long time confined to his bed, with tuberculosis, yet it was a shock to many of our citizens when the news was circulated last Sunday evening and Monday morning that Bill Clodfelter is dead.

Miss Effie Sellards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Sellards of Sikeston, has purchased a millinery shop in Grant City, Ill. Miss Sellards was for several years a teacher in the public school system of Sikeston.

Sikeston may easily and at little expense have a Community Hall, excelling anything in this section of the country, if the citizens of the town can be induced to cooperate. The general idea for the Community Hall comes from John A. Young, president of the Fair Association, who suggests that the Fair Association, Gol Club, Lions Club and the Chamber of Commerce undertake to convert the agricultural building at the Fair Grounds from a structure that is only used some 10 days of the year into a building which will be available for public use every day in the year.

A truckload of lumber, comprising about 2,500 board feet, which was stolen from the Railhaven Courts some weeks ago while the building was under construction, was returned to its owners, Joe Cravens, Friday morning. The lumber was found, some days after the robbery, stacked beside a country road near Anniston and was salvaged by a farmer.

RANDOLPH, Mass. (AP) — Mrs. Edith Locke has won her battle to get a billboard near her home torn down.

The state outdoor advertising authority ruled recently that the sign must come down since it "barred Mrs. Locke from enjoying the normal pleasures of a home."

Mary Ann Bruce Reports on Girls State

Miss Mary Ann Bruce, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Leo Bruce, made her report to the Kiwanis Club, her sponsors, last night on her experience at Girls State annual convention in Columbia.

Stephens College was host to 600 girls, she said, and many rules were strictly laid out for the girls to follow. Plenty of fun was mixed in with a very serious week o f educational value.

The main theme of the meeting, she said, was to have all the girls participate in a government structure made up like a real government with election of leaders. Some were girl governors, girl mayors, and one girl was elected president. Mary Ann was fire chief in Smith City.

Moving to the new location caused some Kiwanis members to go to the wrong place. Another week will help establish this thought in their minds. A nice T-Bone steak was served the Kiwanians at the Rustic Rock.

Word was received from George Kirk, written near Salt Lake City, Utah. George is on his way to the Kiwanis International Convention in Portland, Ore.

Letters of appreciation for Kiwanis sponsored projects giving aid to worthy students were read from Lynn Twitty and Roger Sherman.

Disaster Averted in Crystal City Fire

CRYSTAL CITY, Mo. AP - A pair of volunteer firemen breached flames surrounding the cab of a 8,600-gallon tanker truck and drove it away from a blazing Crystal City building Tuesday.

"Somebody had to do it," said Jim Evans, 40, who was accompanied by Steve Siracusa, 43, when he backed the vehicle away from the blaze.

The fire, which caused an estimated $500,000 damage, began when gasoline was being pumped from the tanker truck to a storage tank.

Two businesses, occupying the same building were damaged. They were the C.E.S. Truck Lines Co. and Crystal Tire Co. Eight persons were injured after the mid morning explosion.

Today In U. S. History

Today is Thursday, July 7, the 188th day of 1966. There are 177 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1945, President Harry S. Truman, Secretary of State James Byrnes and other government officials left Norfolk Va., aboard a cruiser for the Big Three conference in Potsdam, Germany.

On this date

In 1853, Commodore Mathew Perry arrived in Japan.

In 1898, the United States annexed the Hawaiian Islands.

In 1930, construction of the Hoover Dam was begun.

In 1937, the Sino - Japanese War began with the attack by Japanese troops on a Chinese garrison at Marco Polo Bridge.

In 1942, Gen. Carl Spaatz, was named commander of the U.S. Army Air Forces in Europe.

Ten years ago — The Arab nation of Jordan warned Britain that it must come to Jordan's defense in case of an Israeli attack.

Five years ago -- The Soviet Union vetoed a British resolution in the United Nations aimed at winning U. S. recognition of Ku-wait as a new and independent country.

One year ago -- A civil rights march by some 350 persons was staged on Bogalusa, La.

Service Center Sponsors Dinner

MOREHOUSE - The Morehouse Delmo service center sponsored a dinner Friday for the entire Delmo village, two miles south of here.

One hundred and forty-two villagers attended the dinner and plates were taken out to many who were unable to attend.

Entertaining were the Kingdomaires Quartet and the Thomann Trio. The hostesses for the dinner were the Ladies Club and the Community Center employees.

FINANCIAL FITNESS: Here's a suggestion for anyone interested in keeping his personal finances in order:

Allow not more than a week's pay for rent; not over three year's income for a house; something less than six months' income for a car; seven percent of a year's income for all kinds of insurance. In cash or its equivalent have a year's income in the bank -- after that you can buy as much as you like on time.

Wrong Spray Forces Town to Be Evacuated

ARGYLE, Minn. (AP)—Medical authorities said today they thought "everything will be all right" in this northwestern Minnesota village which was accidentally sprayed with a poisonous chemical.

Precautions continued, however.

Personnel from the Grand Forks, N.D., Air Force base set up an emergency hospital in the city auditorium at nearby Warren, in case it is needed.

A housewife estimated that about two-thirds of the residents of Argyle, population 800, fled late Wednesday and overnight —after it became known that the wrong chemical, parathion, was used in aerial spraying to combat mosquitoes.

Dr. E. E. Pumala of Warren, acting Marshall County health officer, said Argyle residents were advised to water down their grass, shrubbery and trees and to scrub exposed clothing. Village fire trucks were directed to hose down streets and public property, and to help householders.

Pumala said it was believed he parathion was not in heavy enough concentration to hurt anyone.

Chief of Police Dennis Rousseau said the plane which sprayed Argyle Wednesday made three passes before the mixup in chemicals was discovered. Pumala described parathion as "quite a lethal poison."

Parathion is used as an insecticide in farming areas.

There were no immediate effects from the poisonous chemical, he said, but an emergency supply of atrophine, an antidote, was being flown from Minneapolis as a precaution.

Rousseau said parathion is considered dangerous at temperatures above 60 degrees. He said effects of the spraying would not be definitely known until later today when the temperature rises.

Dr. Pumala said about 25 Argyle residents entered the hospital for examinations but "they looked okay."

Evacuees were taken to homes of friends and relatives in nearby areas, authorities said.

Alibi Reprieves Suspect in K.C. Kidnaping Case

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—An FBI investigation into the kidnaping of 9-year-old Denise Sue Clinton has shown that a man mentioned in the case was at work when the kidnaping occurred a year ago.

"As far as I am concerned," said Lee O. Teague, special agent in charge of the FBI here "they will have to come up with something pretty good to connect this man with the kidnaping."

Teague made the statement after revealing a federal investigation into the background of Robert Lee Hays, 33, showed he worked from 7:30 a. m. until 4:30 p. m. on July 7, 8 and 9 at his job in a warehouse here.

The girl was kidnaped from a motel operated in Kansas City by her grandparents, July 8, 1965, during a robbery.

No trace of the girl has since been uncovered, nor have any demands for ransom been received by her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Chelcie Reynolds, or her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Clinton, Independence, Mo.

Hays remained in Oklahoma County jail in lieu of $2,000 federal bond. He was arrested Tuesday on a federal warrant charging he fled Kansas to avoid prosecution for a Topeka Kan., armed robbery.

OUR 56TH YEAR | 10¢ PER COPY | SIKESTON, SCOTT COUNTY, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, JULY 7, 1966 | NUMBER 243

"WATCH ME float," said two beginners, Ricky Davis and Mike Harris, shown with their instructor aides, Kathy Hahs and Mary Leible. Each beginner is given an opportunity to try their skill at floating. Notice expressions on the faces of the two boys. It was the first time either of them had tried their skill.

Swim Classes Bring Out Largest Group in Sikeston's History

The Kiwanis Club swimming program, now in its sixth year, has 280 youngsters enrolled, the largest group ever.

The three classes give every child from six years and older, an opportunity to learn to swim. One class for beginners, one for intermediate, and one for advanced swimmers.

The youngster begins his training in shallow water, and is taught the various types of swimming strokes, how to float, and breathe.

After receiving proper instruction, they are taken by their instructor to the deep side of the pool, in water that is ten feet deep.

Swimming courses began this week, and will continue for three weeks, Mrs. Fred Davis, water safety instructor for the Red Cross is in charge.

Mrs. Davis praised the cooperation of the instructor aides as excellent. The enthusiasm of the beginner classes is something to behold.

Students are advancing according to schedule, and all eager for their next assignment.

A record is kept of each child, who as a beginner is registered, and taken under the wings of the instructor aide, until the child has completedall requirements. The boy or girl is then registered in the intermediate class.

The thrill comes after the child has advanced to the swimmers class. In the first trial swimming in the deep portion of the pool, the children are taken one at a time and with an instructor alongside, swims two - thirds of the distance and back to the starting point.

Following several days of close supervision, the child is ready to be on his own in the water, and able to take on the practice diving.

Assisting Mrs. Davis as instructor aides are, Marcia Hixon, Kathy Hahs, Judy Matthews, Mary Leible, Lynne Tenkhoff, Sheri Sprout, Mike Gallagher, Mike Hixon, Ginger Cumpton, Mary Ann Sappenfield, Belinda French, Becy Wagner, Pat Wagner, Teresa Hammelmann and Al Warneck.

The change of pace in the swimming advancement program is evident, and the determination of the child very noticeable. There have been a few classes where a seven or eight-year old child, took the final instructions with children several years older.

School Addition To Dexter Firm

A discussion of minor changes to be made in the proposed two-room addition to the science and mathematics department at Sikeston High School was the item of business when the Sikeston Board of Education met Tuesday afternoon in the administration building.

Supt. Lynn Twitty said he expected the contract to be awarded later this week to Brown Construction Co. of Dexter, the low bidder at a figure of $49,573.

He also said there are two vacancies in the elementary system and a possible vacancy for a math or science instructor in the junior high school.

Mr. Twitty said the in-service training program is being completed this week. It has been in progress the past month with 150 teachers of the Sikeston and Charleston schools attending. The program is designed to develop methods for teaching the disadvantaged child.. It is said to be the only workshop of its type and is a pilot program.

Missouri U. Interviews 59 in District for Jobs

SIKESTON -- Bill Sikes, director of the Manpower Development and Training Program at Sikeston, said the University of Missouri has interviewed 59 persons in southeast Missouri for jobs.

Of this number, 20 were studying under the manpower program and 17 were hired to work in custodian food and health service. He said that 85 per cent of those ranked as custodians in the last class have found employment and 100 per cent in the class prior to that.

Of all classes in the 13 vocational areas, 76 per cent of those completing courses have been employed and a large percentage of those who dropped out of courses before completion have also found employment, Mr. Sikes said.

Presently, there is an enrollment of 400 in the 13 areas in classes which range from six to 52 weeks in length. The manpower program here will end Nov. 13, but application is being made for its continuance and it is hoped permission will be granted before the end of October, Mr. Sikes commented.

The program is one of three multi-occupational ones in Missouri. The others are at Kansas City and St. Louis.

Army Boosts Draft Quotas

WASHINGTON AP -- A lag in Army enlistments prompted the Defense Department to boost draft calls today for July and August.

The Pentagon announced it was increasing the July call by 2,000 men to a new total of 28,500, and the August quota by 4,000 to a new figure of 36,600.

At the same time, the Defense Department asked Selective Service to produce 31,300 men in September.

There was no indication of any similar lag in Navy, Marine and Air Force enlistments. None of these services felt the need to draw on the draft at this time.

The highest monthly call since the Viet Nam buildup began last year came in May when 40,600 were summoned.

Hearnes Complies With Request of 7-Year-Old

KENNETT -- Did you ever wonder who advises the governor of Missouri?

Sometimes Gov. Warren E. Hearnes takes advice from 7 - year - olds, particularly if they happen to be his daughter.

The chief executive's visit to Kennett this weekend will be cut short as a result of advice and counsel from 7-year-old Julia B. Hearnes, who has asked that her father spend Saturday night and Sunday morning in Charleston in place of spending it in Kennett, where he will participate in this weekend's four-ball golf tournament at the Kennett Country Club.

Julia B. made her request to the governor pointing out that she would be in Charleston this week instead of accompanying him, her mother and her two sisters to the National Governors' Conference in Los Angeles, Calif., and also pointing out that his duties as governor had caused him to be away from her quite a bit -- and that he ought to come to Charleston so the two of them could be together, if only briefly.

Gov. Hearnes Tuesday notified his tournament partner, Kennett attorney William H. Billings, that his plans had been changed, upon the advice of his seven-year-old daughter. Present plans call for the chief executive to fly from Jefferson City to Kennett Saturday, arriving about noon, play golf here in the afternoon, drive to Charleston and return to Kennett about noon Sunday to play in the final round of the annual tournament here.

The cheif executive will return to Jefferson City by plane sometime Sunday afternoon or early evening.

Two accidents were investigated, a 1960 Ford Wagon, driven by John L. Winchester, New Madrid, was involved in an accident with Rufus J. Sumlin, 331 Westgate, driving a 1963 Cadilliac. The accident was on South Main. No arrests were made. Sumlin received a possible back injury.

Sole Surviving Sons Eligible For Discharge

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON AP - The Pentagon authorized today the hardship discharge of U. S. servicemen who are the sole surviving sons in their families.

The announcement said the new policy, effective immediately, will apply to the armed forces "except during the period of a war or national emergency declared by the Congress."

The Viet Nam was does not fall into this classification.

The new policy was laid down in a memorandum July 1 from Assistant Secretary of Defense Thomas D. Morris to the secretaries of the Army, Navy and Air Force. Morris is in charge of manpower.

His brief memo says:

"To preclude possible inequities concerning sole surviving sons, military personnel who become qualified sole surviving sons subsequent to their enlistment or induction, will be afforded the opportunity to apply for a hardship discharge, with favorable consideration resulting therefrom."

Morris told the service secretaries: "It is desired that this policy be applied uniformly throughout the military departments and that implementing regulations be disseminated at the earliest practicable date."

The action, a Pentagon spokesman said, brings defense policy in line with that of the Selective Service System, which he said refrains from drafting sole surviving sons.

Such hardship discharges are open to men whose father and or brothers or sisters have been killed in line of military duty, died of wounds, accidents or disease, or have been totally disabled physically or mentally "as a result of hazards incident to their service in the armed forces" since September 1940.

It does not apply to a man whose civilian relatives have been killed in mishaps or have died of disease or other causes.

The provision for hardship discharge of sole surviving sons was added to a Korean War directive which permitted men in this category to be assigned to noncombat duties upon their own request or application filed by a parent.

Rain, High Winds Cause Damage in SEMO Area

Extensive damage was reported in isolated areas of southeast Missouri yesterday afternoon and last night as a result of high winds and heavy rains.

The northwest section of Sikeston was without power for about 50 minutes last night when wind - blow branches touched power lines and caused a fuse to blow at a transformer.

Radio Station KMPL reported that it was without power twice during the high winds.

Extensive wind damage was reported to the early corn crop in the Charleston and Northern Mississippi County area. Glenn Patton of the Mississippi County University Extension Service said corn fields had been flattened and that some fields would be difficult to harvest as a result of the damage.

Charleston city officials reported 1.7 inches of rain in the city. Crews worked last night and this morning clearing up the debris that was left in the wake of high winds which uprooted and blew down trees.

A brick wall behind the house of Robert R. Davis of Charleston was torn down by the high winds.

Strong gusts knocked out power and uprooted trees Wednesday night during a 40-minute storm at Cape Girardeau. The wind, gusting up to 50 miles an hour, blew large trees across power lines and cars and toppled wooden fences and billboards.

Low - lying areas were flooded by .30 inches of rainfall in the Cape area, and telephone service to some areas was also disrupted.

Other areas of southeast Missouri reported little or no rain yesterday.

New Madrid had little rainfall and no high winds, although much lightning was reported in the area.

In Stoddard County the lack of rainfall is still prevalent. The county extension service said that only spotty rainfall was recorded yesterday in the county. This rainfall helped the corn crop some but much more moisture is needed, an official said.

Charges Filed Against Giggers

Scott County Prosecuting Attorney, Fielding Potashnick, reported that charges have been filed against six Scott County men for violations of the state game code.

Agents Arthur L. Bernard of Scott County and D. W. Proffer of Cape County accosted the six on a drainage canal near Vanduser. John B. Kelly, 732 Taylor, Emil Schuchart, 901 Taylor and Samuel E. Hunter, 216 Tanner, had charges filed against them for fishing without a permit. Claude A. Lovell Jr., route four, Bob Montgomer, Vanduser and Bob E. Abernathy, Morley, were all charged with having in possession over the limit of frogs which is eight in possession and per man.

Potashnick reported that charges of gigging fish will also be filed against Lovell, Montgomery and Abernathy.

The men had in their possession at the time of apprehension 91 bullfrogs and five fish, the latter taken with gigs. They were reported 75 frogs over the limit.

Agents explained a fishing license is required for gigging frogs, and a hunting license is required if frogs are taken by gun. The frog season opened Friday, July 1.

The six are to appear in magistrate Court, Tuesday, before Judge M. E. Montgomery.

Reports Labor is Available

According to the Missouri Division of Employment Security, Southeast Missouri still is reporting surplus of labor available for out of area work, however the cherry and pea harvests in Michigan and Wisconsin are expected to use a number of these workers.

Sikeston reports local labor demands very light. Several family groups, 5 to 8 workers, are available for out area work. Also a limited number of all-male groups that are wanting out-area work are available. Most need assistance in transportation. Major activity is now moving in plant workers to peas in the Great Lakes' States. Kennett reports cotton chopping with very few exceptions is a thing of the past for the time being, and thoughts are now turning to the water melon harvest. It is expected that most growers will be turning vines during the next few days, with current observations leading to a bumper crop.

End Draws Near

PARMA -- Completion of a $185,000 sewer and water system here is expected to be completed within a month, according to reports from Mayor Randall Ramsey.

The last pieces of equipment arrived yesterday and installation of it will begin tomorrow.

Citizens of Parma passed a bond issue two years ago and after 15 months of work the community will have in operation a new sewer system. The water system went into effect around 10 months ago.

A Committee headed by Mayor Ramsey have had plans drawn up for a Community center on which work is to be started within the next six months. The committee had asked the state for funds to sponsor this center, but the new year started the first of July and the letter has been taken under advisement.

DEXTER -- In a routine session last night the City Council voted to retain the same tax levy for the new fiscal year. The levy is $1.84 per $100 assessed valuation.

Bids were opened for the city gas service with Standard Oil Company's bid of 13.75 cents a gallon plus the five-cent state tax accepted. This is for 93.3 octane gas. Standard Oil also had the contract last year.

The council voted to pay for the 308 parking meters which were installed recently. If the bill is paid by Aug. 8, the city will receive an $808.50 discount, making the total amount owed $14,170.

The Missouri Municipal League has asked Mayor Willis Conner to serve on the resolutions committee at the annual conference of the league at St. Louis August 31 to September 2. Aldermen congratulated him for being so honored and noted that this was the first time that a Dexter major has been invited to serve on a committee at the annual event.

The aldermen voted to allow Mayor Conner $50 toward his expenses to attend the conference.

The township board again appeared before the council in regard to the proposed bridge on One Mile Road. At the last meeting the board presented plans for the bridge and agreed to check with the Highway Department to see if the plans met the specifications of the state.

The township board reported last night that the state will not approve specifications for a private bridge. The proposed bridge does, however, meet state specifications except for the base, which is too thick, the board reported.

The city council agreed with the board that the bridge should be built with each party supplying half the cost and labor.

The council discussed plans for a proposed city hall to replace the current facility, which is to be taken over by the state for national guard headquarters. The state has agreed to pay the city $30,000 for the building and will lease the building to the city for $1 a year up to two years.

This lease can be broken, however, if the state declares a state of emergency and decides that the building must be used for the guard unit. The city and the national guard now share the use of the building.

A committee to study possible sites for the new city hall reported that a 28 by 64 foot building can be built for about $15,000. A tentative site on the land adjacent to the city library was discussed. It was decided to contact the library board to discuss further the plan for construction at this site.

The Department of the Army requested the city to present the Army Commendation Medal to a Dexter soldier who had performed an act of bravery in Viet Nam last year.

Mayor Conner presented the citation to former Pfc. Charles D. Frank. The Army citation noted that Frank had saved a valuable piece of machinery from destruction in Viet Nam by navigating it so it would not plunge over a 40-foot cliff. Frank's family was also on hand to witness the presentation.

Dexter Firm Gets Hat Plant Contract

The bids were opened by members of the Chamber of Commerce Wednesday at the Dexter Public Library Civic Center.

The building will include about 44,000 square feet of floor space and will be constructed on the Chamber of Commerce's industrial site near the intersection of West Market and One Mile Road, it was announced.

Lehman Godwin, president of the Chamber of Commerce, said the Chamber has blocked off five acres on the west end of the industrial park for the factory site. The contract calls for completion of the building within 240 working days, Godwin noted, but with favorable weather conditions the new facility could be completed by Jan. 1, 1967.

A water line will have to be run to the new factory, he continued. The Missouri Inspection Bureau has approved running an 8-inch water line from Grant to Park Lane to the factory, but a 10-inch line will probably be needed, Godwin explained.

A bond election will be held as soon as possible to finance construction, and the bonds will be paid through rental payments by the International Hat Co. without any tax increase for Dexter residents, it was reported. The total sum of the Brown Construction Co. bid will not be announced until preparations are made for the election.

OUR 56TH YEAR | 10¢ PER COPY | SIKESTON, SCOTT COUNTY, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, JULY 7, 1966 | NUMBER 243

"WATCH ME float," said two beginners, Ricky Davis and Mike Harris, shown with their instructor aides, Kathy Hahs and Mary Leible. Each beginner is given an opportunity to try their skill at floating. Notice expressions on the faces of the two boys. It was the first time either of them had tried their skill.

Swim Classes Bring Out Largest Group in Sikeston's History

The Kiwanis Club swimming program, now in its sixth year, has 280 youngsters enrolled, the largest group ever.

The three classes give every child from six years and older, an opportunity to learn to swim. One class for beginners, one for intermediate, and one for advanced swimmers.

The youngster begins his training in shallow water, and is taught the various types of swimming strokes, how to float, and breathe.

After receiving proper instruction, they are taken by their instructor to the deep side of the pool, in water that is ten feet deep.

Swimming courses began this week, and will continue for three weeks, Mrs. Fred Davis, water safety instructor for the Red Cross is in charge.

Mrs. Davis praised the cooperation of the instructor aides as excellent. The enthusiasm of the beginner classes is something to behold.

Students are advancing according to schedule, and all eager for their next assignment.

A record is kept of each child, who as a beginner is registered, and taken under the wings of the instructor aide, until the child has completed all requirements. The boy or girl is then registered in the intermediate class.

The thrill comes after the child has advanced to the swimmers class. In the first trial swimming in the deep portion of the pool, the children are taken one at a time and with an instructor alongside, swims two - thirds of the distance and back to the starting point.

Following several days of close supervision, the child is ready to be on his own in the water, and able to take on the practice diving.

Assisting Mrs. Davis as instructor aides are, Marcia Hixon, Kathy Hahs, Judy Matthews, Mary Leible, Lynne Tenkhoff, Sheri Sprout, Mike Gallagher, Mike Hixon, Ginger Cumpton, Mary Ann Sappenfield, Belinda French, Becy Wagner, Pat Wagner, Teresa Hammelmann and Al Warneck.

The change of pace in the swimming advancement program is evident, and the determination of the child very noticeable. There have been a few classes where a seven or eight-year old child, took the final instructions with children several years older.

School Addition To Dexter Firm

A discussion of minor changes to be made in the proposed two-room addition to the science and mathematics department at Sikeston High School was the item of business when the Sikeston Board of Education met Tuesday afternoon in the administration building.

Supt. Lynn Twitty said he expected the contract to be awarded later this week to Brown Construction Co. of Dexter, the low bidder at a figure of $49,573.

He also said there are two vacancies in the elementary system and a possible vacancy for a math or science instructor in the junior high school.

Mr. Twitty said the in-service training program is being completed this week. It has been in progress the past month with 150 teachers of the Sikeston and Charleston schools attending. The program is designed to develop methods for teaching the disadvantaged child.. It is said to be the only workshop of its type and is a pilot program.

Missouri U. Interviews 59 in District for Jobs

SIKESTON -- Bill Sikes, director of the Manpower Development and Training Program at Sikeston, said the University of Missouri has interviewed 59 persons in southeast Missouri for jobs.

Of this number, 20 were studying under the manpower program and 17 were hired to work in custodian food and health service. He said that 85 per cent of those ranked as custodians in the last class have found employment and 100 per cent in the class prior to that.

Of all classes in the 13 vocational areas, 76 per cent of those completing courses have been employed and a large percentage of those who dropped out of courses before completion have also found employment, Mr. Sikes said.

Presently, there is an enrollment of 400 in the 13 areas in classes which range from six to 52 weeks in length. The manpower program here will end Nov. 13, but application is being made for its continuance and it is hoped permission will be granted before the end of October, Mr. Sikes commented.

The program is one of three multi-occupational ones in Missouri. The others are at Kansas City and St. Louis.

Army Boosts Draft Quotas

WASHINGTON AP -- A lag in Army enlistments prompted the Defense Department to boost draft calls today for July and August.

The Pentagon announced it was increasing the July call by 2,000 men to a new total of 28,500, and the August quota by 4,000 to a new figure of 36,600.

At the same time, the Defense Department asked Selective Service to produce 31,300 men in September.

There was no indication of any similar lag in Navy, Marine and Air Force enlistments. None of these services felt the need to draw on the draft at this time.

The highest monthly call since the Viet Nam buildup began last year came in May when 40,600 were summoned.

Hearnes Complies With Request of 7-Year-Old

KENNETT -- Did you ever wonder who advises the governor of Missouri?

Sometimes Gov. Warren E. Hearnes takes advice from 7 - year - olds, particularly if they happen to be his daughter.

The chief executive's visit to Kennett this weekend will be cut short as a result of advice and counsel from 7-year-old Julia B. Hearnes, who has asked that her father spend Saturday night and Sunday morning in Charleston in place of spending it in Kennett, where he will participate in this weekend's four-ball golf tournament at the Kennett Country Club.

Julia B. made her request to the governor pointing out that she would be in Charleston this week instead of accompanying him, her mother and her two sisters to the National Governors' Conference in Los Angeles, Calif., and also pointing out that his duties as governor had caused him to be away from her quite a bit -- and that he ought to come to Charleston so the two of them could be together, if only briefly.

Gov. Hearnes Tuesday notified his tournament partner, Kennett attorney William H. Billings, that his plans had been changed, upon the advice of his seven-year-old daughter. Present plans call for the chief executive to fly from Jefferson City to Kennett Saturday, arriving about noon, play golf here in the afternoon, drive to Charleston and return to Kennett about noon Sunday to play in the final round of the annual tournament here.

The cheif executive will return to Jefferson City by plane sometime Sunday afternoon or early evening.

Two accidents were investigated, a 1960 Ford Wagon, driven by John L. Winchester, New Madrid, was involved in an accident with Rufus J. Sumlin, 331 Westgate, driving a 1963 Cadilliac. The accident was on South Main. No arrests were made. Sumlin received a possible back injury.

A 1962 Ford truck, driven by Vernon E. Grubbs, Warsaw, Ind., was involved in an accident at East Malone Avenue with William G. Cagle, 137 Ruben, driver of a 1962 Dodge truck. The Grubbs truck was damaged slightly on the right side but no arrests were made.

Sole Surviving Sons Eligible For Discharge

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON AP -- The Pentagon authorized today the hardship discharge of U. S. servicemen who are the sole surviving sons in their families.

The announcement said the new policy, effective immediately, will apply to the armed forces "except during the period of a war or national emergency declared by the Congress."

The Viet Nam was does not fall into this classification.

The new policy was laid down in a memorandum July 1 from Assistant Secretary of Defense Thomas D. Morris to the secretaries of the Army, Navy and Air Force. Morris is in charge of manpower.

His brief memo says:

"To preclude possible inequities concerning sole surviving sons, military personnel who become qualified sole surviving sons subsequent to their enlistment or induction, will be afforded the opportunity to apply for a hardship discharge, with favorable consideration resulting therefrom."

Morris told the service secretaries: "It is desired that this policy be applied uniformly throughout the military departments and that implementing regulations be disseminated at the earliest practicable date."

The action, a Pentagon spokesman said, brings defense policy in line with that of the Selective Service System, which he said refrains from drafting sole surviving sons.

Such hardship discharges are open to men whose father and or brothers or sisters have been killed in line of military duty, died of wounds, accidents or disease, or have been totally disabled physically or mentally "as a result of hazards incident to their service in the armed forces" since September 1940.

It does not apply to a man whose civilian relatives have been killed in mishaps or have died of disease or other causes.

The provision for hardship discharge of sole surviving sons was added to a Korean War directive which permitted men in this category to be assigned to noncombat duties upon their own request or application filed by a parent.

Rain, High Winds Cause Damage in SEMO Area

Extensive damage was reported in isolated areas of southeast Missouri yesterday afternoon and last night as a result of high winds and heavy rains.

The northwest section of Sikeston was without power for about 50 minutes last night when wind - blow branches touched power lines and caused a fuse to blow at a transformer.

Radio Station KMPL reported that it was without power twice during the high winds.

Extensive wind damage was reported to the early corn crop in the Charleston and Northern Mississippi County area. Glenn Patton of the Mississippi County University Extension Service said corn fields had been flattened and that some fields would be difficult to harvest as a result of the damage.

Charleston city officials reported 1.7 inches of rain in the city. Crews worked last night and this morning clearing up the debris that was left in the wake of high winds which uprooted and blew down trees.

A brick wall behind the house of Robert R. Davis of Charleston was torn down by the high winds.

Strong gusts knocked out power and uprooted trees Wednesday night during a 40-minute storm at Cape Girardeau. The wind, gusting up to 50 miles an hour, blew large trees across power lines and cars and toppled wooden fences and billboards.

Low - lying areas were flooded by .30 inches of rainfall in the Cape area, and telephone service to some areas was also disrupted.

Other areas of southeast Missouri reported little or no rain yesterday.

New Madrid had little rainfall and no high winds, although much lightning was reported in the area.

In Stoddard County the lack of rainfall is still prevalent. The county extension service said that only spotty rainfall was recorded yesterday in the county. This rainfall helped the corn crop some but much more moisture is needed, an official said.

Charges Filed Against Giggers

Scott County Prosecuting Attorney, Fielding Potashnick, reported that charges have been filed against six Scott County men for violations of the state game code.

Agents Arthur L. Bernard of Scott County and D. W. Proffer of Cape County accosted the six on a drainage canal near Vanduser. John B. Kelly, 732 Taylor, Emil Schuchart, 901 Taylor and Samuel E. Hunter, 216 Tanner, had charges filed against them for fishing without a permit. Claude A. Lovell Jr., route four, Bob Montgomer, Vanduser and Bob E. Abernathy, Morley, were all charged with having in possession over the limit of frogs which is eight in possession and per man.

Potashnick reported that charges of gigging fish will also be filed against Lovell, Montgomery and Abernathy.

The men had in their possession at the time of apprehension 91 bullfrogs and five fish, the latter taken with gigs. They were reported 75 frogs over the limit.

Agents explained a fishing license is required for gigging frogs, and a hunting license is required if frogs are taken by gun. The frog season opened Friday, July 1.

The six are to appear in magistrate Court, Tuesday, before Judge M. E. Montgomery.

Reports Labor is Available

According to the Missouri Division of Employment Security, Southeast Missouri still is reporting surplus of labor available for out of area work, however the cherry and pea harvests in Michigan and Wisconsin are expected to use a number of these workers.

Sikeston reports local labor demands very light. Several family groups, 5 to 8 workers, are available for out area work. Also a limited number of all-male groups that are wanting out-area work are available. Most need assistance in transportation. Major activity is now moving in plant workers to peas in the Great Lakes' States. Kennett reports cotton chopping with very few exceptions is a thing of the past for the time being, and thoughts are now turning to the water melon harvest. It is expected that most growers will be turning vines during the next few days, with current observations leading to a bumper crop.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Thursday, July 7, 376, Black Sea - The first Gothic translation of the Bubsey Twins at the Morgue.

* * *

When you drive in an unfamiliar town, do you always notice school zones quickly enough to slow down? Do you always know what action is required of you in a school zone?

If you do, you've been studying.

Every city, village or county chooses its own means of protecting school crossings, sometimes without referring to standards such as those prescribed in the Manual on Uniform Traffic Control Devices, published by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads and generally considered the bible of the traffic control industry.

The result is a hodgepodge of different sizes, shapes, colors and placement of signs. And unnecessary dangers for children. Some cities and towns use flashing signals and some use signs. Some of the signs are stationary, some are portable, and some hang from wires above crosswalks. Some are black and yellow, some are red and white, and some are an eye-popping, orange fluorescent color.

If a standard sign color was chosen, logic would dictate choice of fluorescent signs, for they can be seen twice as far as painted yellow signs, according to a recent research study. Approximately 1,000 U. S. cities now use them.

Florida has no state laws that define a school zone. In at least one Florida city -- St. Petersburg -- there also is no city ordinance that specifically makes it illegal to pass in a school zone.

Salt Lake City, Utah, uses at least three different kinds of signs to inform drivers that they must drive 20 m.p.h. through school zones. One is a permanently installed swivel sign. Another is a portable sign. Both bear the legend: "School 20 M.P.H." A third sign does not mention the speed limit, but merely identifies the "School Crossing," leaving it to the motorist to remember that he should reduce speed to 20 m.p.h.

The danger of such diversity is that drivers might become confused. And, who wants confused drivers near school children?

SWINGING LONDON, SQUARE, SQUARE PARIS

THE YOUTH OF EUROPE appears to be centered on London. By contrast, Paris is growing to be almost conformist. The people who remember Hemingway's Lady Brett or Galsworthy's Forsythes would be completely confused by what is going on in the principal capitals of Western Europe.

A new prosperity in London -- indeed in most of Britain -- is producing working class fashions that are influencing all kinds of society -- including the Earl of Snowdon -- and are being exported to France and, belatedly, the United States. The miniskirt -- four to eight inches above the knee -- has shaken the rhythm of the Ascot gavotte. Britain is definitely switched on.

Paris, on the other hand, is growing increasingly square. Andrew Mulligan reports in the Washington Post that France has "become almost Cromwellian in its conformity."

WITH CUTSOMARY BREATHLESSNESS, Time magazine recently described London as "alive with birds (girls) and beatles, buzzing with minicars and telly stars, pulsing with half a dozen separate veins of excitement." (You have to be careful with those Times verbs -- they have a tendency to go off in your face.)

The Time piece annoyed the lights and liver out of at least one Brit, Henry Fairlie, a political commentator. Encouraged to rush into print, he declared in the N. Y. Times Magazine: "If I were given to conspiracy theories, I would believe that there is a plot to denigrate Britain by praising everything in it which is mindless and nasty, which is senseless and corrupting, which is meaningless and deadly."

Fairlie was moved to reach back to Ruskin's "Stones of Venice" -- where Time, incidentally, had been before him -- for a passage which ends: "By the inner burning of her own passions, as fatal as the fiery rain of Gomorrah, she was consumed from her place among the nations; and her ashes are choking the channels of the dead, salt sea."

To all of which, Fairlie admits, "This is painfully true of that section of Britain which is today most publicized." He comments further: "Britain, at least in its public behavior and public exhibitions, is now the most immoral country in the West."

THE INCLINATION HERE is to take all these value judgments with more than the customary salt pinch. Disturbed by the reports on decadence by evangelist Billy Graham and the American magazines, one London-based American observer, after surveying the whole "dauntingly civilized" scene, suggests that once the economy is stronger, "Britain could become a renewed force for decency and civility."

Morality tends to be pretty relative. New York, Paris, even Ottawa, would have little difficulty matching the fables of Jack Profumo and Christine Keeler, from which the new image of a swinging London seems to stem. The skirts are probably as short in New York (if not in Washington) as in London.

Sexual freedom is traditional in Scandinavian countries, as prostitution is in France, Britain, protestant Scotland, and the United States. Between the swinger and the square the margin often is publicity. But to hear that a real estate development called Paris II plans to have eight swimming pools, riding stables and a drug store does seem pretty square. They're calling it "Le Drug West."

And now comes none other than Britain's Prime Minister Harold Wilson with substantiation of our columnist's inside report on the Communist forces behind the crippling British seamen's strike.

Riesel's report was the only such analysis written in the American Press.

On May 24th, shortly after the crippling strike began clogging the docks and shaking the pound, Riesel wrote in his column:

" . . . That's what happened on the British docks -- loners, 'extremists', reformers in name only, Communists and a personality cult called Trotskyites have for years been working 'round the clock to get at London's jugular.

"At 12:01 a.m. May 16 they did so despite the power of the moderate leaders of the English National Union of Seamen."

A month later, Prime Minister Harold Wilson began a series of revelations which word-for-word corroborated our columnist, Victor Riesel.

LONG SECOND LOOK

Imitation, as we all know, is supposed to be the sincerest form of flattery.

If that is the case, some members of the Soviet hierarchy are now flattering their old ideological enemy----capitalism.

A short time ago, a leading Soviet economist said that his country's economic system should be replaced by something new and better. And what he advocated was something akin to the capitalistic profit motive.

A few days later a top figure in the Soviet automobile industry, writing in Pravda, the voice of the party, said much the same thing. His industry, he frankly admitted, is in trouble. Production is slow, the cars are obsolete, workers are disinterested. So, he thinks, it is time some capitalist means of creating incentive -- profit and competition among them -- were adopted.

Not so many years ago the expression of such ideas as these within Russia would have been considered close to treason. But, apparently, the present bosses in the Kremlin are becoming interested in learning from mistakes. The basic communist credo is -- or was -- that each should produce according to his ability and be rewarded according to his need, and that was the worst mistake of all. This eliminated profit, competition, and all the other proven human and organizational incentives, and the result was not only inadequate production, but the production of inferior goods.

It must be galling for Soviet leaders to find anything good in capitalism. But sheer necessity is forcing a long second look.

CLOSE TO THE WELFARE STATE

U. S. News & World Report has published a chart that every taxpayer should study. It shows the incredible growth of federal subsidies to the states and local governments.

In 1954, this spending totaled $2.7 billion. The figure for the current year is $10.2 billion.

Next year, according to official estimates, it will reach $10.6 billion.

A very large part of this goes for a lengthy list of aid and welfare projects, along with such innovations as federally-financed slum clearance and housing developments. And, staggering as the dollar figures are, they can't tell the worst part of the story. That part lies in the steady erosion of state and local rights, obligations and responsibilities. At the rate we're going, it won't be long until nonfederal governments will be little more than meaningless names.

We are closer to a Welfare State than the majority of people realize. Unless the trend is checked somehow, the ultimate effect on the American character, as well as the American pocketbook, will be disastrous.

ATTENTION GIRL WATCHERS

Things may seem to be in good shape to the casual observer of the short-skirt craze (and have you heard any complaints from observers?), but the ugly truth is that the fascinating fad is creating problems.

One problem is what to do about knees that seem not to have been made for the high hemlines.

Another is what to do about that heavy band that goes around the stocking top.

It used to be that a gentleman wasn't too often aware that a lady's knees were imperfectly formed, much less that there was this band at the top of her stocking.

But now --

Well, the girls are embarrassed because the men are interested, and the men are even more interested because the girls are embarrassed.

Now it stands to reason that American ingenuity which can conquer space isn't going to strike out on a problem like this.

So the cosmetic people are coming out with special creams, lotions, make-up and things to make plain knees unplain and beautiful.

And the hosiery manufacturers are scheming to make that stocking - top band more glamorous or eliminate it. It will be interesting to see what happens.

Won't it, fellows?

"Just in Case You Decide to Run!"

H. L. Hunt Says

Happiness sparkles like spring water out of the idea of freedom. Happy songs, a happy outlook, a happy people are the product of liberty. Wherever freedom abounds, people have a brightness about them, a zest for life, a place in the sun. The spirit of the USA is a bouyant, soaring spirit. And liberty is its elevator.

The relation between freedom and happiness is easily apparent. And there is an inevitable relation, too, between suppression and sadness. Unfettered opportunity, unrestrained movement, and the limitless right of choice delight man; coercion depresses him. Dictatorial governments, forged out of the philosophy of submission to an inexorable fate - the idea that a person is the victim of his enviroment, a pawn of blind destiny - will enslave the heart as well as the body.

There is a certain grimness about totalitarianism that robs the human spirit of its bloom as surely as the icy breath of winter darkens a green countryside. Communism is the ample modern proof of this. The heart of Soviet Russia is a stone, bitter and bleak. Its sad music, tragic theater, doleful literature are dirges of despair. It is the voice of slavery; it is the clanking chains of pograms, torture, exile, death.

Look at the youth of America. There is a brightness, an uncontained joy about them. Observing their carefree faces, hearing their laughter and songs, listening to their words, we can be grateful that they have inherited the golden treasure of human liberty, and that the country's future, bound up in their lives, will be as happy as the freedom in their hearts as they restore it to their benefactors.

NEW YORK (AP) — Millions of people take vacation trips this time of year in order to have something to write about on postcards.

Postcards are the billboards of the common man on which he chronicles in deathly prose the story of his passing:

"Drove 550 miles today. Hope to make 600 tomorrow."

"Wish you were — instead of me. This motel charges $18 per day, and even more on days when they put water in the swimming pool."

"Having wonderful time. Hope you are changing the gravel in the cat's box regularly."

Writing postcards is undoubtedly our most widespread form of pop art. It is as American as the hot dog, the pizza pie and chop suey.

But for a people inventive enough to come up with the skyscraper, the airplane and bubble gum, it is amazing how our lack of ingenuity falters when we have to put down our thoughts on a postal card. Words fail us, or the words we do summon up strike us as hollow even as we write them.

No scholar has won his Ph.D. by a profound study on "social consciousness in U. S. postcard literature," because it is rarely conscious and it is never literature. No Nobel Prize has ever been awarded to a postcard author, anymore than it has been given to any aviator for sky writing.

Men are peculiarly inept at composing postcards. The average man will waste an afternoon, bite his tongue raw, and develop writer's cramp composing three postcards, such as:

"Raining when we passed through Yellowstone. However, did see two bears and a forest ranger."

"Gas here costs two cents a gal less than in our town. Everything okay in the office? Regards to the gang."

"Just saw Niagara Falls. Great place for a guy who likes outdoor showers."

Women are just the other way. They take a peculiar delight in postcards. They can even write them while descending on mule-back into the grand canyon.

A postcard is a definite challenge to a woman. She wants to be sure she gets her 4-cent stamp's worth. Where a man finds nothing to say, she can't find enough space to chronicle her scenery-thrilled soul.

The fellow who engraves the Lord's Prayer in miniature on a penny is a piker compared to her. She tries to compress an encyclopedia on every postcard.

The big mistake most people make is in sending postcards to friends and acquaintances. It would be much wiser if they mailed them to themselves.

Then, when they got home, they'd have a lot of fun looking at the pictures of all the scenic places they visited — the beautiful places they hadn't had time to enjoy because they were too darned busy writing postcards.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- Despite his personal ego, President Johnson is surprisingly realistic most of the time about his limitations in the field of foreign affairs.

"I'm learnin,' George, I'm learnin'," he once told Under Secretary of State George Ball. "The only question is whether the world can wait until I learn enough."

He knows that he assumed the presidency woefully unprepared regarding foreign affairs. All his experience in the congress was with the military. He had been both a member of the House Naval Affairs Committee and a young naval officer during World War II. He had been a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, Chairman of the Senate Preparedness Committee, of the Space Committee, and a member of the Appropriations Subcommittee for the armed services.

Most of his contacts on Capitol Hill were the generals and the admirals sent up to sell him on various military programs. He had no important contacts with the state department. He even once led the senate drive to drastically curtail one of the most important branches of foreign policy -- the U. S. Information Agency -- which he now champions.

Considering this lack of foreign affairs background, Johnson has done pretty well. During his first year in office he made more progress in Soviet-American understanding than did Kennedy in three years. He adroitly sidetracked the multilateral nuclear force which was churning up our NATO allies. He refused to tangle publicly with De Gaulle. He advised the Germans to allay Russian suspicions, advice which they followed.

But every so often, the President's old habit of siding with the generals, and his latent Texas instinct for shooting from the hip got the better of him and he sank the nation in trouble.

SNAP JUDGMENTS

This was what happened in the Dominican Republic where in thirty minutes he made up his mind to undo our quarter-century-old policy of non-intervention. That 30-minute snap decision to land the marines cost around $110,000,000 and alienated our best Latin-American friends. Despite new elections they are still suspicious.

The President also made a snap decision at about 2 a.m., Feb. 7, 1965, to begin a policy of bombing North Viet Nam. The generals had been urging this for some time, and the President finally accepted their advice at a time of the night when few men's judgment is clearest. It was purely a military decision.

What the generals either did not know or did properly evaluate was that Premier Kosygin, one of the new leaders of the Soviet, had arrived in Hanoi only that day, and en route had urged the Chinese to help bring the North Vietnames to a peace conference. This is what we have long wanted, but Johnson smacked Kosygin with a rain of bombs 14 hours after he proposed it.

Lyndon's latest decision to escalate around Hanoi and Haiphong was made not on the spur of the moment but after several weeks of waiting for the Buddhist riots to subside, and it was made in large part because the joint chiefs of staff were so frustrated and unhappy that Johnson felt he must do something to restore their morale.

Again it was purely a military decision. The generals who recommended it knew little of the efforts American diplomats have made to thaw the freeze with China. They knew nothing of the political situation confronting Prime Minister Harold Wilson of England, our staunchest ally. They are not experts on the problems of oriental racism and the resentment which the Japanese, also staunch allies, have against a white invader of a yellow country.

And they do not understand the all-important fact that the people of South Viet Nam whom we are trying to help can never be helped constructively until they have a government which represents them, not an unpopular military regime which represents the United States.

LBJ UNDERCUTS LBJ

What the generals knew was that they were not winning. They had promised the President three years ago that they would win in one year and they were not fulfilling that promise. They were not fulfilling it despite the fact that they had upped the number of American boys in Viet Nam from around 30,000 when Kennedy was killed to close to half a million under Johnson.

The last time President Johnson acted on their advice on a major matter -- the bombing of North Viet Nam on Feb. 7, 1965 -- the excuse was to prevent troops and supplies from infiltrating south. One year later, the Secretary of Defense says that the flow of men and supplies has increased 150 and 120 per cent respectively.

If the President is going to take the advice of military men, what he needs is military men around him who have fought in the Far East before -- Gen. Omar Bradley, Gen. Matt Ridgway, Gen. Joe Collins -- who came through the agonies of Korea and know what it's like to face endless waves of Orientals, poorly equipped and hungry but with no concern for life or physical suffering.

The tragedy is that the President is rapidly painting himself into a position where the great things he has accomplished on the domestic front will be both forgotten and undermined. No President in history, perhaps, has done so much for the advancement of education, civil rights, and the general welfare of the American people.

But these can be undermined by inflation, beclouded by the unpopularity of war.

He is also painting himself into a position where the American people will conclude that the only way they can get out of this war is to elect a new president with new policies, and do it as quickly as constitutionally possible in 1968.

Confidential Report By American Longshoreman Reveals Saigon Port Authorities Sabotage U. S.

NEW YORK -- Some influential Vietnamese port authorities in Saigon are using red tape as a garrote to strangle the "life-line" stretching from the U. S. to Viet Nam.

Deliberately they are tripping up American efforts to unclog that river harbor. They are working with Saigon merchants to perpetuate the black market. They are running interference for the profiteers in an effort to smash a secret U. S. crash program before it begins an offensive against the commercial operators there.

All this is said in a confidential report just submitted to the Departments of State and Defense by the fiery ocean-hopping Ted Gleason, our land's number one dock-walloper.

"Teddy", president of the International Longshoremen's Assn. (AFL-CIO), has recently returned from his third inspection trip to Saigon.

Not too long ago the port was clogged because ships could not be unloaded.

Now, with that situation improved, the docks are choked up because the port authorities -- and some Americans, too -- permit unloaded cargo to encumber the critical, and scarce, port space for as long as a year.

Everything from toilet bowls to desperately needed steel just lies around amid debris and foul-smelling garbage, Gleason reports.

Typical are some 5,000 toilet bowls which have been resting on and around the pier area for over a year. Actually, they were intended for military housing -- That's a lot of toilet bowls.

They cover space needed for vital cargo now weighing down vital barges needed to unload vital materials from vital ships which must be turned around swiftly for home passage.

It would have the touch of a four-a-day vaudeville era comedian if it were not so tragic.

Strewn around the wharves also are 250 new automobiles. They have been there so long, Gleason says, they'll be last year's models soon if not picked up by the merchants who purchased them. Obviously they are leaving the cars on the piers so scarcity can keep jacking up the black market prices for the luxury models.

Not the least of the homemade obstacle course in the port area are huge shipments of steel -- bars, sheets, cables and galvanized material.

They just lie there. They rust. And some of the stock has been on the ground for more than a year, Gleason discloses.

In all there are about 5,000 tons of steel, some of which is on 200 barges. These are immobilized, though they should be shuttling back and forth between the big ships out at the buoys bringing in cargo needed for strategic reasons.

The merchants simply are using the docks and barges as private open-air warehouses while space is desperately needed.

"The time has come for the merchants to realize that the thunder they hear is not all God-made," says Gleason acidly.

"That's gunfire they hear. They should be told there's a war on, and black-marketeering means that the men in the field, ours and theirs, are being shot in the back by the price gougers.

"We should get the goods into the hands of the people or break the backs of the black marketeers by cutting off comercial imports except under proper supervision."

Not the least of the problem is the stinking garbage which corrodes the material as well as the air.

Gleason reports that it would take 150 men, working 'round the clock, only 72 to 96 hours to clear the area. But no one tries, least of all the port authorities. Yet they have the power to move, points out Gleason, under Decree-Law No. 12/64 of June 16, 1964, as amended by 008-65 of August 13, 1965. This law invests the Port Director with the responsibility and authority to make all changes needed and take any action necessary to unclog the area. But little is done.

Gleason's confidential report, for example, discloses that, though 5,000 men are needed, just 2,300 are registered -- and only 1,500 actually go to work. But there are at least 50,000 men available and eager to get a job.

There are virtually no security regulations, no fingerprinting, no photos.

There are few facilities even for the small contingent -- no mobile canteens, and just a prefabricated one-story building 60 by 20 feet.

Yet the U. S. is about to launch a crash program to crack the black market.

Washington is about to pour in millions on millions of dollars worth of clothes, food, shoes, appliances, etc., so the boulevards of Saigon can begin resembling the main streets of mid-America -- and the kids can eat and dress like Saturday night.

But the black marketeers are killing that dream with their red tape garrots. Why is no one asking why -- loudly and firmly -- until we get an answer?

When you drive in an unfamiliar town, do you always notice school zones quickly enough to slow down? Do you always know what action is required of you in a school zone?

If you do, you've been studying.

Every city, village or county chooses its own means of protecting school crossings, sometimes without referring to standards such as those prescribed in the Manual on Uniform Traffic Control Devices, published by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads and generally considered the bible of the traffic control industry.

The result is a hodgepodge of different sizes, shapes, colors and placement of signs. And unnecessary dangers for children. Some cities and towns use flashing signals and some use signs. Some of the signs are stationary, some are portable, and some hang from wires above crosswalks. Some are black and yellow, some are red and white, and some are an eye-popping, orange fluorescent color.

If a standard sign color was chosen, logic would dictate choice of fluorescent signs, for they can be seen twice as far as painted yellow signs, according to a recent research study. Approximately 1,000 U. S. cities now use them.

Florida has no state laws that define a school zone. In at least one Florida city -- St. Petersburg -- there also is no city ordinance that specifically makes it illegal to pass in a school zone.

Salt Lake City, Utah, uses at least three different kinds of signs to inform drivers that they must drive 20 m.p.h. through school zones. One is a permanently installed swivel sign. Another is a portable sign. Both bear the legend: "School 20 M.P.H." A third sign does not mention the speed limit, but merely identifies the "School Crossing," leaving it to the motorist to remember that he should reduce speed to 20 m.p.h.

The danger of such diversity is that drivers might become confused. And, who wants confused drivers near school children?

It was the nurse's day off and the doctor stuck his head into the waiting room to ask, "Who's next?" each time a patient left. One guy up and said, "Me, doc,"

"What's your trouble," asked the doctor. So the guy told him!!!!!!!

The doctor grabbed him by the arm, pulled him into his office and bawled him out. "Never do that again! Especially not in a roomful of people! Next time, just say that your nose or your eyes bother you." A couple of weeks went by the fellow came back. The nurse was off again and when the doctor asked, "Who's next?" the same guy said, "I am."

The doctor asked, "What's your trouble?"

The guy replied, "My ear's bothering me."

"What's wrong with it?"

"I can't urinate out of it!"

LONG SECOND LOOK

Imitation, as we all know, is supposed to be the sincerest form of flattery.

If that is the case, some members of the Soviet hierarchy are now flattering their old ideological enemy----capitalism.

A short time ago, a leading Soviet economist said that his country's economic system should be replaced by something new and better. And what he advocated was something akin to the capitalistic profit motive.

A few days later a top figure in the Soviet automobile industry, writing in Pravda, the voice of the party, said much the same thing. His industry, he frankly admitted, is in trouble. Production is slow, the cars are obsolete, workers are disinterested. So, he thinks, it is time some capitalist means of creating incentive -- profit and competition among them -- were adopted.

Not so many years ago the expression of such ideas as these within Russia would have been considered close to treason. But, apparently, the present bosses in the Kremlin are becoming interested in learning from mistakes. The basic communist credo is -- or was -- that each should produce according to his ability and be rewarded according to his need, and that was the worst mistake of all. This eliminated profit, competition, and all the other proven human and organizational incentives, and the result was not only inadequate production, but the production of inferior goods.

It must be galling for Soviet leaders to find anything good in capitalism. But sheer necessity is forcing a long second look.

CLOSE TO THE WELFARE STATE

U. S. News & World Report has published a chart that every taxpayer should study. It shows the incredible growth of federal subsidies to the states and local governments.

In 1954, this spending totaled $2.7 billion. The figure for the current year is $10.2 billion. Next year, according to official estimates, it will reach $10.6 billion.

A very large part of this goes for a lengthy list of aid and welfare projects, along with such innovations as federally-financed slum clearance and housing developments. And, staggering as the dollar figures are, they can't tell the worst part of the story. That part lies in the steady erosion of state and local rights, obligations and responsibilities. At the rate we're going, it won't be long until nonfederal governments will be little more than meaningless names.

We are closer to a Welfare State than the majority of people realize. Unless the trend is checked somehow, the ultimate effect on the American character, as well as the American pocketbook, will be disastrous.

ATTENTION
GIRL WATCHERS

Things may seem to be in good shape to the casual observer of the short-skirt craze (and have you heard any complaints from observers?), but the ugly truth is that the fascinating fad is creating problems.

One problem is what to do about knees that seem not to have been made for the high hemlines.

Another is what to do about that heavy band that goes around the stocking top.

It used to be that a gentleman wasn't too often aware that a lady's knees were imperfectly formed, much less that there was this band at the top of her stocking.

But now --

Well, the girls are embarrassed because the men are interested, and the men are even more interested because the girls are embarrassed.

Now it stands to reason that American ingenuity which can conquer space isn't going to strike out on a problem like this.

So the cosmetic people are coming out with special creams, lotions, make-up and things to make plain knees unplain and beautiful.

And the hosiery manufacturers are scheming to make that stocking - top band more glamorous or eliminate it. It will be interesting to see what happens.

Won't it, fellows?

"Whatever makes you think that?" asked the bride.

Replied the groom, "Those towels she gave us are marked. 'Hers' and 'Its.'"

The small boy on the bus had been sniffing loudly for some time. After several disapproving glances, the prim, middle-aged lady sitting next to him inquired, "Little boy, have you a handkerchief?"

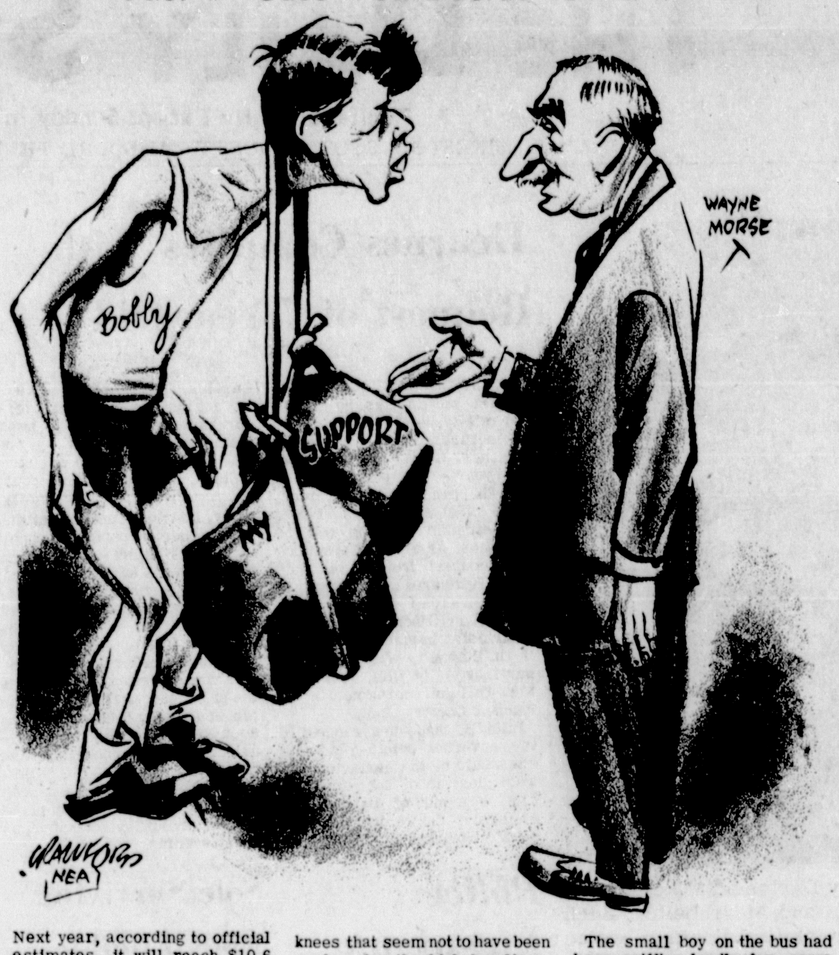
"Just in Case You Decide to Run!"



H. L. Hunt Says

Happiness sparkles like spring water out of the idea of freedom. Happy songs, a happy outlook, a happy people are the product of liberty. Wherever freedom abounds, people have a brightness about them, a zest for life, a place in the sun. The spirit of the USA is a bouyant, soaring spirit. And liberty is its elevator.

The relation between freedom and happiness is easily apparent. And there is an inevitable relation, too, between suppression and sadness. Unfettered opportunity, unrestrained movement, and the limitless right of choice delight man; coercion depresses him. Dictatorial governments, forged out of the philosophy of submission to an inexorable fate - the idea that a person is the victim of his enviroment, a pawn of blind destiny - will enslave the heart as well as the body.

There is a certain grimness about totalitarianism that robs the human spirit of its bloom as surely as the icy breath of winter darkens a green countryside. Communism is the ample modern proof of this. The heart of Soviet Russia is a stone, bitter and bleak. Its sad music, tragic theater, doleful literature are dirges of despair. It is the voice of slavery; it is the clanking chains of programs, torture, exile, death.

Look at the youth of America. There is a brightness, an uncontained joy about them. Observing their carefree faces, hearing their laughter and songs, listening to their words, we can be grateful that they have inherited the golden treasure of human liberty, and that the country's future, bound up in their lives, will be as happy as the freedom in their hearts as they restore it to their benefactors.

NEW YORK (AP) — Millions of people take vacation trips this time of year in order to have something to write about on postcards.

Postcards are the billboards of the common man on which he chronicles in deathly prose the story of his passing:

"Drove 550 miles today. Hope to make 600 tomorrow."

"Wish you were — instead of me. This motel charges $18 per day, and even more on days when they put water in the swimming pool."

"Having wonderful time. Hope you are changing the gravel in the cat's box regularly."

Writing postcards is undoubtedly our most widespread form of pop art. It is as American as the hot dog, the pizza pie and chop suey.

But for a people inventive enough to come up with the skyscraper, the airplane and bubble gum, it is amazing how our lack of ingenuity falters when we have to put down our thoughts on a postal card. Words fail us, or the words we do summon up strike us as hollow even as we write them.

No scholar has won his Ph.D. by a profound study on "social consciousness in U. S. postcard literature," because it is rarely conscious and it is never literature. No Nobel Prize has ever been awarded to a postcard author, anymore than it has been given to any aviator for sky writing.

Men are peculiarly inept at composing postcards. The average man will waste an afternoon, bite his tongue raw, and develop writer's cramp composing three postcards, such as:

"Raining when we passed through Yellowstone. However, did see two bears and a forest ranger."

"Gas here costs two cents a gal less than in our town. Everything okay in the office? Regards to the gang."

"Just saw Niagara Falls. Great place for a guy who likes outdoor showers."

Women are just the other way. They take a peculiar delight in postcards. They can even write them while descending on mule-back into the grand canyon.

A postcard is a definite challenge to a woman. She wants to be sure she gets her 4-cent stamp's worth. Where a man finds nothing to say, she can't find enough space to chronicle her scenery-thrilled soul.

The fellow who engraves the Lord's Prayer in miniature on a penny is a piker compared to her. She tries to compress an encyclopedia on every postcard.

The big mistake most people make is in sending postcards to friends and acquaintances. It would be much wiser if they mailed them to themselves.

Then, when they got home, they'd have a lot of fun looking at the pictures of all the scenic places they visited — the beautiful places they hadn't had time to enjoy because they were too darned busy writing postcards.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- Despite his personal ego, President Johnson is surprisingly realistic most of the time about his limitations in the field of foreign affairs.

"I'm learnin,' George, I'm learnin'," he once told Under Secretary of State George Ball. "The only question is whether the world can wait until I learn enough."

He knows that he assumed the presidency woefully unprepared regarding foreign affairs. All his experience in the congress was with the military. He had been both a member of the House Naval Affairs Committee and a young naval officer during World War II. He had been a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, Chairman of the Senate Preparedness Committee, of the Space Committee, and a member of the Appropriations Subcommittee for the armed services.

Most of his contacts on Capitol Hill were the generals and the admirals sent up to sell him on various military programs. He had no important contacts with the state department. He even once led the senate drive to drastically curtail one of the most important branches of foreign policy -- the U. S. Information Agency -- which he now champions.

Considering this lack of foreign affairs background, Johnson has done pretty well. During his first year in office he made more progress in Soviet-American understanding than did Kennedy in three years. He adroitly sidetracked the multilateral nuclear force which was churning up our NATO allies. He refused to tangle publicly with De Gaulle. He advised the Germans to allay Russian suspicions, advice which they followed.

But every so often, the President's old habit of siding with the generals, and his latent Texas instinct for shooting from the hip got the better of him and he sank the nation in trouble.

SNAP JUDGMENTS

This was what happened in the Dominican Republic where in thirty minutes he made up his mind to undo our quarter-century-old policy of non-intervention. That 30-minute snap decision to land the marines cost around $110,000,000 and alienated our best Latin-American friends. Despite new elections they are still suspicious.

The President also made a snap decision at about 2 a.m., Feb. 7, 1965, to begin a policy of bombing North Viet Nam. The generals had been urging this for some time, and the President finally accepted their advice at a time of the night when few men's judgment is clearest. It was purely a military decision.

What the generals either did not know or did properly evaluate was that Premier Kosygin, one of the new leaders of the Soviet, had arrived in Hanoi only that day, and en route had urged the Chinese to help bring the North Vietnames to a peace conference. This is what we have long wanted, but Johnson smacked Kosygin with a rain of bombs 14 hours after he proposed it.

Lyndon's latest decision to escalate around Hanoi and Haiphong was made not on the spur of the moment but after several weeks of waiting for the Buddhist riots to subside, and it was made in large part because the joint chiefs of staff were so frustrated and unhappy that Johnson felt he must do something to restore their morale.

Again it was purely a military decision. The generals who recommended it knew little of the efforts American diplomats have made to thaw the freeze with China. They knew nothing of the political situation confronting Prime Minister Harold Wilson of England, our staunchest ally. They are not experts on the problems of oriental racism and the resentment which the Japanese, also staunch allies, have against a white invader of a yellow country.

And they do not understand the all-important fact that the people of South Viet Nam whom we are trying to help can never be helped constructively until they have a government which represents them, not an unpopular military regime which represents the United States.

LBJ UNDERCUTS LBJ

What the generals knew was that they were not winning. They had promised the President three years ago that they would win in one year and they were not fulfilling that promise. They were not fulfilling it despite the fact that they had upped the number of American boys in Viet Nam from around 30,000 when Kennedy was killed to close to half a million under Johnson.

The last time President Johnson acted on their advice on a major matter -- the bombing of North Viet Nam on Feb. 7, 1965 -- the excuse was to prevent troops and supplies from infiltrating south. One year later, the Secretary of Defense says that the flow of men and supplies has increased 150 and 120 per cent respectively.

If the President is going to take the advice of military men, what he needs is military men around him who have fought in the Far East before -- Gen. Omar Bradley, Gen. Matt Ridgway, Gen. Joe Collins -- who came through the agonies of Korea and know what it's like to face endless waves of Orientals, poorly equipped and hungry but with no concern for life or physical suffering.

The tragedy is that the President is rapidly painting himself into a position where the great things he has accomplished on the domestic front will be both forgotten and undermined. No President in history, perhaps, has done so much for the advancement of education, civil rights, and the general welfare of the American people.

But these can be undermined by inflation, beclouded by the unpopularity of war.

He is also painting himself into a position where the American people will conclude that the only way they can get out of this war is to elect a new president with new policies, and do it as quickly as constitutionally possible in 1968.

Confidential Report By American Longshoreman Reveals Saigon Port Authorities Sabotage U. S.

NEW YORK -- Some influential Vietnamese port authorities in Saigon are using red tape as a garrote to strangle the "lifeline" stretching from the U. S. to Viet Nam.

Deliberately they are tripping up American efforts to unclog that river harbor. They are working with Saigon merchants to perpetuate the black market. They are running interference for the profiteers in an effort to smash a secret U. S. crash program before it begins an offensive against the commercial operators there.

All this is said in a confidential report just submitted to the Departments of State and Defense by the fiery ocean-hopping Ted Gleason, our land's number one dock-walloper.

"Teddy", president of the International Longshoremen's Assn. (AFL-CIO), has recently returned from his third inspection trip to Saigon.

Not too long ago the port was clogged because ships could not be unloaded.

Now, with that situation improved, the docks are choked up because the port authorities -- and some Americans, too -- permit unloaded cargo to encumber the critical, and scarce, port space for as long as a year.

Everything from toilet bowls so desperately needed steel just lies around amid debris and foul-smelling garbage, Gleason reports.

Typical are some 5,000 toilet bowls which have been resting on and around the pier area for over a year. Actually, they were intended for military housing -- That's a lot of toilet bowls.

They cover space needed for vital cargo now weighing down vital barges needed to unload vital materials from vital ships which must be turned around swiftly for home passage.

It would have the touch of a four-a-day vaudeville era comedian if it were not so tragic.

Strewn around the wharves also are 250 new automobiles. They have been there so long, Gleason says, they'll be last year's models soon if not picked up by the merchants who purchased them. Obviously they are leaving the cars on the piers so scarcity can keep jacking up the black market prices for the luxury models.

Not the least of the homemade obstacle course in the port area are huge shipments of steel -- bars, sheets, cables and galvanized material.

They just lie there. They rust. And some of the stock has been on the ground for more than a year, Gleason discloses.

In all there are about 5,000 tons of steel, some of which is on 200 barges. These are immobilized, though they should be shuttling back and forth between the big ships out at the buoys bringing in cargo needed for strategic reasons.

The merchants simply are using the docks and barges as private open-air warehouses while space is desperately needed.

"The time has come for the merchants to realize that the thunder they hear is not all God-made," says Gleason acidly.

"That's gunfire they hear. They should be told there's a war on, and black-marketeering means that the men in the field, ours and theirs, are being shot in the back by the price gougers.

"We should get the goods into the hands of the people or break the backs of the black marketeers by cutting off comercial imports except under proper supervision."

Not the least of the problem is the stinking garbage which corrodes the material as well as the air.

Gleason reports that it would take 150 men, working 'round the clock, only 72 to 96 hours to clear the area. But no one tries, least of all the port authorities. Yet they have the power to move, points out Gleason, under Decree-Law No. 12/64 of June 16, 1964, as amended by 008-65 of August 13, 1965. This law invests the Port Director with the responsibility and authority to make all changes needed and take any action necessary to unclog the area. But little is done.

Gleason's confidential report, for example, discloses that, though 5,000 men are needed, just 2,300 are registered -- and only 1,500 actually go to work. But there are at least 50,000 men available and eager to get a job.

There are virtually no security regulations, no fingerprinting, no photos.

There are few facilities even for the small contingent -- no mobile canteens, and just a prefabricated one-story building 60 by 20 feet.

Yet the U. S. is about to launch a crash program to crack the black market.

Washington is about to pour in millions on millions of dollars worth of clothes, food, shoes, appliances, etc., so the boulevards of Saigon can begin resembling the main streets of mid-America -- and the kids can eat and dress like Saturday night.

But the black marketeers are killing that dream with their red tape garrots. Why is no one asking why -- loudly and firmly -- until we get an answer?

Bob Gibson

Gibson Named To All-Stars

CINCINNATI (AP) — Most of the pitchers picked for the National League in next week's All-Star Game have had some experience in All-Star competition.

Manager Walt Alston of the Los Angeles Dodgers said Wednesday his choices were Sandy Koufax of the Dodgers, Juan Marichal and Gaylord Perry of San Francisco, Jim Bunning of Philadelphia, Bob Gibson of St. Louis, Claude Raymond of Houston, Billy McCool of Cincinnati and Bob Veale of Pittsburgh.

Only Perry, McCool and Raymond have never before been named to an All-Star squad. Bunning (9-4) has been picked seven times—including twice in the American League—and Koufax has been named to the squad six times.

The contest with the American League All-Stars in St. Louis' new Busch Stadium next Tuesday will be Marichal's fifth All-Star Game. Gibson has been named three times and Veale was first selected last year, but did not see any action.

The eight hurlers have a collective record of 79-31.

Manager Sam Mele of Minnesota, who heads the American League team, announced his selections earlier. They were Gary Bell and Sam McDowell of Cleveland, Denny McLain of Detroit, Steve Barber of Baltimore, Jim Kaat of Minnesota, Mel Stottlenyre of New York, Jim Hunter of Kansas City and Pete Richert of Washington.

All of Mele's selections were starters, while Alston picked two relief experts--McCool (4-4) and Raymond (5-2).

Perry, who is 12-1, has the best record among the starting pitchers. Marichal (13-4) has an All-Star earned run average of 1.13 as the winner in 1962 and 1964. He gave up only one hit in three innings after starting last year's game.

The victory in that game went to Koufax (15-3), who worked only one inning. Gibson (11-8) worked the last two innings of the game and saved the National League's one-run margin.

Veale (10-5), Koufax and McCool are left-handers. The other five hurlers are right-handed.

The eight starting infielders and outfielders for both teams have already been selected by vote of the players, but the two managers still have to name nine more men to their squads.

Osteen Shines For Dodgers

Associated Press Sports Writer

Take a strong arm, add lots of pressure and a portion of self-help and you have a Los Angeles Dodger pitcher. Claude Osteen fits the formula perfectly.

Osteen won his sixth game by a one-run margin this season Wednesday night — 1-0 against Cincinnati — and he drove in the run.

In bringing his record to 11-6, Osteen allowed the Reds just three hits and went 2-for-2 to raise his average to .261 with 12 hits in 46 at bats. One of his two singles drove home John Kennedy in the eighth inning. In two of his other one-run decisions, Osteen who now has three RBI, scored the winning run.

"This is the best first half I've ever had," Osteen said after gaining his second shutout of the year. "I've always pitched a lot better the second half of the season than I did the first."

Last year at this time Osteen was only 6-10, but he closed with a rush to finish at 15-15.

Coming through with key hits is nothing new for Los Angeles pitchers. Don Drysdale has done it many times in his career, so has Sandy Koufax, a notoriously poor hitter, and rookie Don Sutton is catching on fast. Sutton is hitting .271.

The New York Mets beat Philadelphia 7-5 and Atlanta walloped Houston 8-1 in other National League games.

In the American League, Boston defeated the New York Yankees 5-3 and 5-4, California nipped Detroit 1-0 in 10 innings, Minnesota edged Cleveland 4-3, Washington downed the Chicago White Sox 4-3 and 3-2 and Baltimore split with Kansas City, winning the opener 11-0 and losing the nightcap 9-8 in 11 innings

Roberto Clemente doubled home two runs and drove in three more with his 13th homer in the Pirates' victory. Donn Clendenon also got his 13th homer and fourth in as many games for the Pirates, a two-run shot.

Jack Hamilton picked up his eighth save in his last 11 appearances for New York. Ed Kranepool knocked in three runs with a pair of doubles for the Mets, who exploded for four runs in the seventh inning. Phillie pitcher Jim Bunning was forced to leave the game in the sixth with a pulled groin muscle. He has an 11-1 record against the Mets.

Joe Torre hit his 21st homer and an RBI single and Mack Jones homered and tripled for the Braves. Don Schwall, making his first start since being traded to Atlanta by Pittsburgh, worked 6 1-3 innings for the victory.

Associated Press Sports Writer

ATLANTA (AP) — Two rich young college football players—Donny Anderson of Texas Tech and Jim Grabowski of Illinois—will battle for the last time Saturday night before they team up in what they hope will be rewarding careers with the Green Bay Packers.

Anderson will play for the West and Grabowski for the East in the Coaches All-America Game, which marks the second time they have dueled.

The two youngsters—each of whom received a bonus reportedly in the neighborhood of $600,000 to sign with the Packers -- were on opposite sides last January in the Hula Bowl at Honolulu.

"We won that game by one point," Grabowski said, "although Donny had a better day than I did. I scored a conversion, but he caught a couple of nice passes."

Grabowski and Anderson will team up for the College All-Star Game in Chicago Aug. 5, when the 1965 college standouts meet the Green Bay Packers, champions of the National Football League.

Then the two hard-running backs will report to Green Bay, where they plan to room together.

Both are being counted on heavily in the All-America Game, with Grabowski the East's starting fullback and Anderson playing halfback for the West.

"I enjoy playing against Donny," Grabowski said, "although he's so much faster than me I don't even like to think about it."

Grabowski is a burly 220-pounder who broke Big Ten running marks by gaining 2,878 yards in his career; Anderson, who also weighs 220 on a rangier frame, gained 2,280 yards rushing in three years at Texas Tech, and also caught 105 passes for 1,327 yards and 12 touchdowns.

Both admit they may have trouble cracking the Green Bay line-up.

Grabowski will be understudying the Packers' great fullback, Jimmy Taylor, and Anderson will be playing behind halfback Paul Hornung.

Roster Increase For NFL

DETROIT (AP) — A move to increase the playing roster from 38 to 40 has been the only major decision reached by the American Football League owners in their summer meeting.

A morning session was scheduled today but little was expected to be accomplished, outside of continued discussion on the recent merger with the National Football League.

"We had to increase the number of players on each team to keep in line with what's done in the NFL," Boston Patriots owner Bill Sullivan explained. "We don't like the thought of meeting them in a championship game with fewer players."

Sullivan indicated that the AFL owners are prepared to present strong cases for their side in various differences between the two leagues.

The two-point conversion option and making the scoreboard clock official were two rules mentioned.

"I don't know why the NFL doesn't go with the two point option," Sullivan said. "We think it makes for a more interesting game."

Besides the decision to increase the rosters, the AFL owners also indicated a learning toward expansion in 1968 and a wearm-weather city or cities as the site of the title game with the NFL.

Cities mentioned in the expansion discussion were Anaheim, Calif., Cincinnati, New Orleans and Seattle.

Commissioner Al Davis explained that under peculiar wording in the AFL-NFL merger agreement the AFL could name a city but the NFL would expand first.

"We'll decide what city to pick as soon as we settle it it our minds. We intend to name the city and protect the territory until we expand in 1968," Davis said.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Boog Powell drove in a record tying 11 runs, but could do no more than help the Orioles to a split of a twi-night doubleheader with Kansas City in Baltimore.

Powell drove in four runs in the opener with a three run double and a sacrifice fly as Baltimore won, 11-0, behind the five-hit pitching of Steve Barber.

Kansas City pushed across a run in the 11th inning on doubles by Roger Repoz and Larry Stahl to edge Baltimore, 9-8, in the nightcap despite Powell's grand slam homer, his two-run homer and a run-producing double.

Powell's RBI tied the American League record for a doubleheader, matching a feat by Earl Averill of Cleveland in 1930 and Jim Tabor of Boston in 1939.

The A's rallied for six runs in the eighth inning of the second game to go ahead, 8-6, only to see Powell's two-run homer tie it up with two out in the ninth.

Kansas City started its uprising against Eddie Watts. Stahl, who doubled home two runs in the fourth, singled in a run. Pinch hitter Ed Charles drove in another after a walk, sending Watts to the shower. Reliever Stu Miller gave up a walk, and a run-scoring single to Campy Campaneris. Then Jim Gosger hit a two-run single and Repoz beat out a bunt for the sixth run of the inning.

Meanwhile, Willie Mays continues to creep up on Jimmy Foxx on the all-time homer list at the expense of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Mays' 524th career home run Wednesday afternoon at San Francisco carried the Giants to a 3-2 victory over the Cardinals just when it appeared St. Louis had the game wrapped up.

Willie's two out, three-run blow in the eighth inning, his 19th of the season, put him 10 home runs behind Foxx, who is second only to Babe Ruth in homers. Mays slipped into third place on the all-time list last month by belting his 522nd, one more than Ted Williams, against St. Louis.

The Cardinals staked starter Tracy Stallard to a 2-0 lead with a run in the sixth on singles by Orlando Cepeda and Tim McCarver and Jerry Buchek's sacrifice fly, and another in the eighth on Mike Shannon's eighth homer of the season.

Stallard had one out on the Giants in the eighth when pinch hitter Len Gabrielson and Tito Fuentes singled in succession.

Joe Hoerner relieved and got pinch hitter Dick Dietz for the second out, but Mays connected against Don Dennis, the third Redbird pitcher of the inning.

Stallard, dueling with the Giants' Bob Bolin, had allowed only four hits before the eighth.

The A's and Cards both have today off.

By FRANCES LEWINE

WASHINGTON (AP) — A choir of 100 men and boys will sing at the wedding of Luci Johnson and Patrick J. Nugent.

The White House announced today that the choral music for the ceremony will be provided by the combined men's and boys' choirs of two Baltimore Roman Catholic churches —the Cathedral of Mary Our Queen and the Church of the Immaculate Heart of Mary.

Robert F. Twynham, director of the cathedral choir, will compose music for parts of the nuptial Mass and will play the organ at the wedding. The combined choirs will be under the direction of Norman Sydnor, director of the church choir.

About 700 guests are expected for the marriage of the daughter of the President and Mrs. Johnson at noon Aug. 6 in the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception here.

The White House said 400 invitations embossed with the presidential coat of arms will be mailed Friday to about 700 personal friends and relatives of the young couple and the Johnson and Nugent families. Many of the invitations will go to couples. Those invited to the ceremony also will be invited to the White House reception which will follow.

Names of the guests were not disclosed, but the White House said a large segment would be young out-of-town friends of Luci and Nugent, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerard P. Nugent of Waukegan, Ill.

Dairy Farmers Get Price Hike

KANSAS CITY AP -- The price paid to dairy farmers for Class 1 milk in the Kansas City area was increased Tuesday by 35 cents a hundred pounds. The price goes from $4.97 to $5.32.

Foster Lewis, manager of the Pure Milk Producers Association of Greater Kansas City, said the increase was the result of a boost in the government's price support rate on manufacturing milk from $3.50 to $4.00 a hundred pounds.

The association acts as a broker between farmers and processors.

Officials said that action of wholesalers and retailers in absorbing the higher costs will determine whether the increase will result in higher prices to the consumer.

Record Volume of Bonds Registered

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- State Auditor Haskell Holman said today he registered a record volume of bonds during the fiscal year ended June 30-$64,740,098 worth.

Bob Gibson

Gibson Named To All-Stars

CINCINNATI (AP) — Most of the pitchers picked for the National League in next week's All-Star Game have had some experience in All-Star competition.

Manager Walt Alston of the Los Angeles Dodgers said Wednesday his choices were Sandy Koufax of the Dodgers, Juan Marichal and Gaylord Perry of San Francisco, Jim Bunning of Philadelphia, Bob Gibson of St. Louis, Claude Raymond of Houston, Billy McCool of Cincinnati and Bob Veale of Pittsburgh.

Only Perry, McCool and Raymond have never before been named to an All-Star squad. Bunning (9-4) has been picked seven times—including twice in the American League—and Koufax has been named to the squad six times.

The contest with the American League All-Stars in St. Louis' new Busch Stadium next Tuesday will be Marichal's fifth All-Star Game. Gibson has been named three times and Veale was first selected last year, but did not see any action.

The eight hurlers have a collective record of 79-31.

Manager Sam Mele of Minnesota, who heads the American League team, announced his selections earlier. They were Gary Bell and Sam McDowell of Cleveland, Denny McLain of Detroit, Steve Barber of Baltimore, Jim Kaat of Minnesota, Mel Stottlenyre of New York, Jim Hunter of Kansas City and Pete Richert of Washington.

All of Mele's selections were starters, while Alston picked two relief experts--McCool (4-4) and Raymond (5-2).

Perry, who is 12-1, has the best record among the starting pitchers. Marichal (13-4) has an All-Star earned run average of 1.13 as the winner in 1962 and 1964. He gave up only one hit in three innings after starting last year's game.

The victory in that game went to Koufax (15-3), who worked only one inning. Gibson (11-8) worked the last two innings of the game and saved the National League's one-run margin.

Veale (10-5), Koufax and McCool are left-handers. The other five hurlers are right-handed.

The eight starting infielders and outfielders for both teams have already been selected by vote of the players, but the two managers still have to name nine more men to their squads.

Osteen Shines For Dodgers

Associated Press Sports Writer

Take a strong arm, add lots of pressure and a portion of self-help and you have a Los Angeles Dodger pitcher. Claude Osteen fits the formula perfectly.

Osteen won his sixth game by a one-run margin this season Wednesday night — 1-0 against Cincinnati — and he drove in the run.

In bringing his record to 11-6, Osteen allowed the Reds just three hits and went 2-for-2 to raise his average to .261 with 12 hits in 46 at bats. One of his two singles drove home John Kennedy in the eighth inning. In two of his other one-run decisions, Osteen who now has three RBI, scored the winning run.

"This is the best first half I've ever had," Osteen said after gaining his second shutout of the year. "I've always pitched a lot better the second half of the season than I did the first."

Last year at this time Osteen was only 6-10, but he closed with a rush to finish at 15-15.

Coming through with key hits is nothing new for Los Angeles pitchers. Don Drysdale has done it many times in his career, so has Sandy Koufax, a notoriously poor hitter, and rookie Don Sutton is catching on fast. Sutton is hitting .271.

The New York Mets beat Philadelphia 7-5 and Atlanta walloped Houston 8-1 in other National League games.

In the American League, Boston defeated the New York Yankees 5-3 and 5-4, California nipped Detroit 1-0 in 10 innings, Minnesota edged Cleveland 4-3, Washington downed the Chicago White Sox 4-3 and 3-2 and Baltimore split with Kansas City, winning the opener 11-0 and losing the nightcap 9-8 in 11 innings.

Roberto Clemente doubled home two runs and drove in three more with his 13th homer in the Pirates' victory. Donn Clendenon also got his 13th homer and fourth in as many games for the Pirates, a two-run shot.

Jack Hamilton picked up his eighth save in his last 11 appearances for New York. Ed Kranepool knocked in three runs with a pair of doubles for the Mets, who exploded for four runs in the seventh inning. Phillie pitcher Jim Bunning was forced to leave the game in the sixth with a pulled groin muscle. He has an 11-1 record against the Mets.

Joe Torre hit his 21st homer and an RBI single and Mack Jones homered and tripled for the Braves. Don Schwall, making his first start since being traded to Atlanta by Pittsburgh, worked 6 1-3 innings for the victory.

Associated Press Sports Writer

ATLANTA (AP) — Two rich young college football players—Donny Anderson of Texas Tech and Jim Grabowski of Illinois—will battle for the last time Saturday night before they team up in what they hope will be rewarding careers with the Green Bay Packers.

Anderson will play for the West and Grabowski for the East in the Coaches All-America Game, which marks the second time they have dueled.

The two youngsters—each of whom received a bonus reportedly in the neighborhood of $600,000 to sign with the Packers -- were on opposite sides last January in the Hula Bowl at Honolulu.

"We won that game by one point," Grabowski said, "although Donny had a better day than I did. I scored a conversion, but he caught a couple of nice passes."

Grabowski and Anderson will team up for the College All-Star Game in Chicago Aug. 5, when the 1965 college standouts meet the Green Bay Packers, champions of the National Football League.

Then the two hard-running backs will report to Green Bay, where they plan to room together.

Both are being counted on heavily in the All-America Game, with Grabowski the East's starting fullback and Anderson playing halfback for the West.

"I enjoy playing against Donny," Grabowski said, "although he's so much faster than me I don't even like to think about it."

Grabowski is a burly 220-pounder who broke Big Ten running marks by gaining 2,878 yards in his career; Anderson, who also weighs 220 on a rangier frame, gained 2,280 yards rushing in three years at Texas Tech, and also caught 105 passes for 1,327 yards and 12 touchdowns.

Both admit they may have trouble cracking the Green Bay line-up.

Grabowski will be understudying the Packers' great fullback, Jimmy Taylor, and Anderson will be playing behind halfback Paul Hornung.

Roster Increase For NFL

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

DETROIT (AP) — A move to increase the playing roster from 38 to 40 has been the only major decision reached by the American Football League owners in their summer meeting.

A morning session was scheduled today but little was expected to be accomplished, outside of continued discussion on the recent merger with the National Football League.

"We had to increase the number of players on each team to keep in line with what's done in the NFL," Boston Patriots owner Bill Sullivan explained. "We don't like the thought of meeting them in a championship game with fewer players."

Sullivan indicated that the AFL owners are prepared to present strong cases for their side in various differences between the two leagues.

The two-point conversion option and making the scoreboard clock official were two rules mentioned.

"I don't know why the NFL doesn't go with the two point option," Sullivan said. "We think it makes for a more interesting game."

Besides the decision to increase the rosters, the AFL owners also indicated a learning toward expansion in 1968 and a wearm-weather city or cities as the site of the title game with the NFL.

Cities mentioned in the expansion discussion were Anaheim, Calif., Cincinnati, New Orleans and Seattle.

Commissioner Al Davis explained that under peculiar wording in the AFL-NFL merger agreement the AFL could name a city but the NFL would expand first.

"We'll decide what city to pick as soon as we settle it it our minds. We intend to name the city and protect the territory until we expand in 1968," Davis said.

Boog Powell drove in a record tying 11 runs, but could do no more than help the Orioles to a split of a twi-night doubleheader with Kansas City in Baltimore.

Powell drove in four runs in the opener with a three run double and a sacrifice fly as Baltimore won, 11-0, behind the five-hit pitching of Steve Barber.

Kansas City pushed across a run in the 11th inning on doubles by Roger Repoz and Larry Stahl to edge Baltimore, 9-8, in the nightcap despite Powell's grand slam homer, his two-run homer and a run-producing double.

Powell's RBI tied the American League record for a doubleheader, matching a feat by Earl Averill of Cleveland in 1930 and Jim Tabor of Boston in 1939.

The A's rallied for six runs in the eighth inning of the second game to go ahead, 8-6, only to see Powell's two-run homer tie it up with two out in the ninth.

Kansas City started its uprising against Eddie Watts. Stahl, who doubled home two runs in the fourth, singled in a run. Pinch hitter Ed Charles drove in another after a walk, sending Watts to the shower. Reliever Stu Miller gave up a walk, and a run-scoring single to Campy Campaneris. Then Jim Gosger hit a two-run single and Repoz beat out a bunt for the sixth run of the inning.

Meanwhile, Willie Mays continues to creep up on Jimmy Foxx on the all-time homer list at the expense of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Mays' 524th career home run Wednesday afternoon at San Francisco carried the Giants to a 3-2 victory over the Cardinals just when it appeared St. Louis had the game wrapped up.

Willie's two out, three-run blow in the eighth inning, his 19th of the season, put him 10 home runs behind Foxx, who is second only to Babe Ruth in homers. Mays slipped into third place on the all-time list last month by belting his 522nd, one more than Ted Williams, against St. Louis.

The Cardinals staked starter Tracy Stallard to a 2-0 lead with a run in the sixth on singles by Orlando Cepeda and Tim McCarver and Jerry Buchek's sacrifice fly, and another in the eighth on Mike Shannon's eighth homer of the season.

Stallard had one out on the Giants in the eighth when pinch hitter Len Gabrielson and Tito Fuentes singled in succession.

Joe Hoerner relieved and got pinch hitter Dick Dietz for the second out, but Mays connected against Don Dennis, the third Redbird pitcher of the inning.

Stallard, dueling with the Giants' Bob Bolin, had allowed only four hits before the eighth.

The A's and Cards both have today off.

NEW ORLEANS, La. -- Curtis Cokes, 146, Dallas, stopped Luis Rodriguez, 146, Miami, Fla., 15.

Forty one years what have you got?
Handful of bills, no burial plot.
I'll add the other lines to complete:
If you call me St. Peter, I'll just have to go
Insurance takes care of the debts I owe.
So long, for this time. I'll be writing you and might just come by to see you.

Dairy Farmers Get Price Hike

KANSAS CITY AP -- The price paid to dairy farmers for Class 1 milk in the Kansas City area was increased Tuesday by 35 cents a hundred pounds. The price goes from $4.97 to $5.32.

Foster Lewis, manager of the Pure Milk Producers Association of Greater Kansas City, said the increase was the result of a boost in the government's price support rate on manufacturing milk from $3.50 to $4.00 a hundred pounds.

The association acts as a broker between farmers and processors.

Officials said that action of wholesalers and retailers in absorbing the higher costs will determine whether the increase will result in higher prices to the consumer.

Record Volume of Bonds Registered

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- State Auditor Haskell Holman said today he registered a record volume of bonds during the fiscal year ended June 30-$64,740,098 worth.

Of the total, $44,840,700 were in school bonds, $16,599,898 in municipal bonds and $3,299,898 in bonds of other political subdivisions.

At a motel in Wildwood-by-the-Sea, N.J., two women were watching some sailors on leave play shuffleboard. "Heavens," said one woman, "wouldn't you think they'd get enough of that on board ship?"

Contact Renewed With Surveyor 1

PASADENA, Calif. AP -- Scientists, after days of trying, reestablished contact today with Surveyor 1, the photo-snapping spacecraft on the moon. It had been silent during the two-week frigid lunar night, and experts feared its battery might be dead.

Surveyor quickly began "talking back" this morning after the heat of lunar day revived it.

The Jet Propulsion Laboratory said the feat was established and a series of engineering questions was sent to the spacecraft concerning temperature and voltages aboard. Surveyor began answering, dutifully.

Late tonight or early Thursday, when the Goldstone, Calif., tracking station can take over communication, an attempt may be made to reactivate Surveyor's cameras, which sent thousands of pictures of the moon's surface back to earth.

The cameras went dead and communication ended about three weeks ago when the lunar night set in, bringing temperatures down to nearly 260 degrees below zero.

St. Louis Symphony Granted $2½ Million

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Ford Foundation announced a $2,500,000 grant today to the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra.

Spokesmen said $2 million of the grant is an endowment that must be matched by the orchestra within five years. St. Louis' Symphony was one of 14 major orchestras to receive the $2,500,000 grant.

"The foundation's program is the best thing that has happened to music in this country," said St. Louis Symphony Society President Standley J. Goodman "and certainly the biggest boost the St. Louis Symphony has ever had."

The $500,000 in nonmatching funds will be paid to the St. Louis orchestra in five annual installments as operating funds. Interest from the endowment may be kept by the orchestra for the next five years. If the $2 million is matched, interest will be paid to the symphony for 10 full years and then the full amount will be paid.

ABOUT OUR SCHOOLS

by LYNN TWITTY

We return with this weekly column (that is when we can find time to write it) after an absence of some weeks, in an attempt to provide you with more information about our schools specifically, and perhaps about education in general.

The proper selection of textbooks, library and other reading materials for use in the schools is an important responsibility. In order that we make the most effective use of the money which we have available for books and library material, a book committee consisting of faculty members and parents was organized last year and a policy statement relating to selection of these materials for use by our students was formulated.

We believe that freedom to read, is as important as free speech or freedom of the press. We believe also that it is a professional responsibility of teachers and librarians, with the help of selected parents, to provide a wide variety of reading material to present different viewpoints, especially on controversial topics. We think it important that students be encouraged to read widely and to become familiar with variations of opinions and theories. The committee is not set up as a board of censorship, but rather to select the best material available, the kinds of materials that will further our educational aims. Especially is it important to select textbooks that will best help the teacher to accomplish the purposes and aims of the particular class in which the textbook is to be used. We hope that these textbooks are not selected merely on the basis of their agreement with the opinions of that particular teacher, but because the facts presented are as true as possible and the opinions expressed are such as to cause students to think, to develop a sense of discrimination toward finding the truth for themselves.

We do hold also that it is our responsibility to as nearly as possible provide material that is wholesome, informative, and that will stimulate students to develop their abilities to think creatively and objectively.

We do not expect everyone to agree with all books or materials that are selected, in fact, there are at times differences of opinions between the members of the selection committee that here, democratically, the majority prevails. Individuals who have a particular complaint may voice this complaint in writing on a form which is available, and the complaint will then be considered by the committee. We appreciate the assistance of this committee in the selection of necessary instructional materials and library books and especially are we grateful for the help of the parents who work with us.

A recently, carefully documented report by the Center for Education Study at Peabody College reached the following conclusion: "The prevalence of small high school constitutes the most serious obstacle to education . . . . course offerings in most (but not all) high schools are adequate to meet graduation and state college entrance deamdns, but they are of little additional benefit to the overwhelming majority of those who do not go to college."

The report further discloses that more than one-half of high schools now enroll fewer than 300 pupils--a number that makes almost impossible adequate instruction, especially for those not going to college. Courses in industrial arts, art,; music, and the important vocational areas rarely appear in these schools.

The study shows that a four-year high school must offer at least three times as many credit courses as are required for graduation if non-college-bound youth are to have an equal break with those who go on to college. This means a total of 50 or more units which the overwhelming majority of small high schools simply cannot provide without excessive financial outlay.

The conclusion is inescapable: the quality of our high schools must be improved, much of the improvement depends upon providing better and wider educational opportunities which can only be economically feasible in high schools enrolling upward of 600 students.

For a considerable number of years the U.S. Department of Agriculture has bought surplus food products from farmers in order to support stable prices. These commodities were then supplied to schools, both public and parochial, as part of the federal school lunch program. In most cases, as in ours, this provided a very sizable subsidy and allowed schools to keep the price to the student at a low figure. School lunch prices here have been the same for the past 7-8 years; 25¢ for children in grades 1-6, 30 cents for grades 7-9, and 35¢ for grades 10-12.

To indicate the importance of surplus food products in the schools' food service budget, three years ago the value of these foods provided us, at current prices, amounted to approximately $38,000. Each year since the amount has rapidly declined and we were recently informed that a change in the agricultural economy and mounting food prices no longer require this kind of government support for the farmer. Consequently we cannot expect much in the way of surplus foods in the near future.

Even with the surplus foods we were barely able to pay our costs and finish the year in the black. We will not do so this year although the deficit will be very small. If we are to maintain the same quality in the type and amount of meals available to our students, there appears to be only one reasonable alternative. That, of course, is to raise the price of the meal served. We do not believe that parents will object to an increase which will make it possible for us to maintain a good lunch program. Certainly, there can be no reasonable objection, in the face of mounting costs which are involved in providing a good noon-day meal for our growing youngsters. We expect to continue a study of this problem and to recommend whatever changes may be necessary prior to the opening of school in September.

Twenty graduates of our Man-Power Development Training Classes for Nurses Aides, Building and Grounds Maintenance, and Food Services, went to Columbia recently to be interviewed for employment. Seventeen of these graduates were employed by Missouri University and we expect that others will be.

Prior to this training, these people were unemployed. A considerable number of them were on some form of unemployment compensation or other welfare payment. Those employed are now making their own way and are tax payers instead of tax consumers. The record of other classes trained here through MDTA or other of our vocational offerings is about equally good. We can think of no better proof of the value of spending public money to train the unemployed to become self supporting and contributing members of our economy and society.

ABOUT OUR SCHOOLS

by LYNN TWITTY

We return with this weekly column (that is when we can find time to write it) after an absence of some weeks, in an attempt to provide you with more information about our schools specifically, and perhaps about education in general.

The proper selection of textbooks, library and other reading materials for use in the schools is an important responsibility. Individual Freedom And The Common Defence

by Walter Millis

The second basic issue, or set of issues, to be considered is of a different kind. The foregoing has been assuming an ideal anti - sedition system, operating perfectly within its own assumptions, identifying, controlling, and penalizing only those who really hold the seditious faith. But granting for the sake of argument that it is both necessary and legitimate to apply special disabilities and penalties to Communists, it cannot be legitimate to apply them to those who are not Communists at all. If the principle is allowable, justice clearly requires that the practice should accord with it. If pro - Communist believers are adjudged so treacherous, unreliable, and potentially dangerous as to warrant their exclusion, as a class, from full participation in the affairs and privileges of the community, this certainly does not warrant the similar exclusion of many who are in no way pro - Communist believers, as a result of suspicion, rumor, malice, or mistake. The second basic issue concerns the question of how far the anti - sedition system operates justly within its own premises.

It is important to distinguish the two issues, because they are usually inextricably confused in debate over such specific problems as the protections of the Fifth Amendment, the right of confrontation in security hearings, the right of the defense in criminal cases to examine the reports of FBI witnesses, and many similar issues of due process. In confronting such debates it is usually difficult to know (and the disputants usually do not seem to know themselves) whether the issue is over the rights of any citizen in defending himself from the charge of being a Communist or the right of a Communist not to be penalized or held blameworthy solely because of his Communism. The non-Communist position is: You may not invade my thoughts or require my testimony under oath in order to prove me guilty of Communism because with such methods too many mistakes are made. The Communist position is: You may not invade my thoughts or require my testimony in order to prove me guilty of Communism because Communism is no crime and you have no right to make it so in either law or common practice. These are quite different positions.

Lack of Moisture Causing Statewide Crop Concern

columbia, Mo. AP -- Shortage of moisture is beginning to have its effects on Missouri crops.

"Many areas are now needing rain in order that crops may continue normal growth," the Department of Agriculture and the Weather Bureau said in their combined weekly report.

"Corn growth is beginning to be hampered by shortage of available moisture in many areas," the report said. "Also corn is being damaged by corn borer.

"Pasture conditions continued to decline last week. This is due to the shortage of available moisture."

"some northwest Missouri counties had abundant moisture last week, but the Ozark and East central plains had generally less than .10 of an inch.

The second basic issue, or set of issues, to be considered is of a different kind. The foregoing has been assuming an ideal anti - sedition system, operating perfectly within its own assumptions, identifying, controlling, and penalizing only those who really hold the seditious faith. But granting for the sake of argument that it is both necessary and legitimate to apply special disabilities and penalties to Communists, it cannot be legitimate to apply them to those who are not Communists at all. If the principle is allowable, justice clearly requires that the practice should accord with it. If pro - Communist believers are adjudged so treacherous, unreliable, and potentially dangerous as to warrant their exclusion, as a class, from full participation in the affairs and privileges of the community, this certainly does not warrant the similar exclusion of many who are in no way pro - Communist believers, as a result of suspicion, rumor, malice, or mistake. The second basic issue concerns the question of how far the anti - sedition system operates justly within its own premises.

It is important to distinguish the two issues, because they are usually inextricably confused in debate over such specific problems as the protections of the Fifth Amendment, the right of confrontation in security hearings, the right of the defense in criminal cases to examine the reports of FBI witnesses, and many similar issues of due process. In confronting such debates it is usually difficult to know (and the disputants usually do not seem to know themselves) whether the issue is over the rights of any citizen in defending himself from the charge of being a Communist or the right of a Communist not to be penalized or held blameworthy solely because of his Communism. The non-Communist position is: You may not invade my thoughts or require my testimony under oath in order to prove me guilty of Communism because with such methods too many mistakes are made. The Communist position is: You may not invade my thoughts or require my testimony in order to prove me guilty of Communism because Communism is no crime and you have no right to make it so in either law or common practice. These are quite different positions.

Lack of Moisture Causing Statewide Crop Concern

columbia, Mo. AP -- Shortage of moisture is beginning to have its effects on Missouri crops.

"Many areas are now needing rain in order that crops may continue normal growth," the Department of Agriculture and the Weather Bureau said in their combined weekly report.

"Corn growth is beginning to be hampered by shortage of available moisture in many areas," the report said. "Also corn is being damaged by corn borer.

"Pasture conditions continued to decline last week. This is due to the shortage of available moisture."

"some northwest Missouri counties had abundant moisture last week, but the Ozark and East central plains had generally less than .10 of an inch.

A Sikeston Man's Hobby Started When He Was Ten

You may wonder when and how a hobby is started?

It was by chance that we learned of a Sikeston man's hobby of Pigeons; He has over 100, that covers more than 16 breeds.

This pigeon lover is a postal rural route carrier, named P. H. "Buck" Hunott, who lives with his family at 516 William street.

When "Buck" was asked why he started this particular hobby, he explained, "well frankly it started when I was about 10 years old. I grew up in Matthews, and was always fascinated by the different kinds of pigeons I saw."

"It was not until 1959 that I started my hobby, with six pairs of pigeons, consisting of White Kings, Parlor Rollers and Russian Trumpeters. After studying about the pigeons, and writing to various fanciers, I learned there were a little more than 200 breeds in the world.

In making my mail route I learned of other pigeon hobbyists, and took up the hobby, seeking the quality breed only.

"I learned from the American Pigeon Journal, where to find the various kinds of breeds, their cost, and other pertinent information. The Journal is published in Warrenton, Mo., by Frank Holman, a weekly newspaperman and well known in the Missouri journalism field. The magazine is known as the leading publication about Pigeons in the world.

"An average pair will cost $5, while the better breeds run to $25, and a few as high as $75 per pair, for a pair of White Jacobins. A hobbyist does not have to buy too many pair, because he soon learns to exchange with other pigeon fanciers, and soon the family grows. Others in this area who spend spare time at this hobby are, Marshall Isabell, Matthews, Robert Crenshaw, Sikeston and Earl Hitt, Miner.

"I soon learned that once a pair is mated, they will never break up. I am particularly proud of one of my pairs," said Hunott, "the Parlor Tumbler, and is the only pair known that cannot fly, but amuses itself by getting on the ground, and at a given command, or when it becomes excited, it will make complete somersaults."

"I'm hoping to find a pair of English Shortface Baldhead Tumblers, a toy pigeon, and the smallest breed known in the world. The breed is not over eight ounces in weight, and so far it has been hard to locate."

When he was asked why he had not stocked any homing pigeons, Hunott said, "I've never cared for the homing pigeons, they're of a nervous disposition. They stay in their pens but a short time before they start out again."

The only homing pigeon fancier in this area is Bill Depro, Matthews. Depro has about 50 of the flyers, and released a few not long ago in Memphis, Tenn., and they returned to their home.

Mr. Hunott is assisted in his hobby by his son Philip, 9, and a daughter Phyllis Ann, 7, who helps him feed and water this beautiful assortment of pigeons. Many interested persons drop around to the Hunott back yard and spend time looking over the large assortment of fancy pigeons.

For those who know anything about pigeons, you can find the following: Nuns, pheasant pigeons, fantails, rollers, Russian highfliers, turbits, helmets, English tumbler, Jacobins, modenas, Damascans, tipplers, parlor tumblers, frills and frill-backs.

Lemonade Extinguishes Blaze

Since it was the handiest liquid available, firemen used buckets of lemonade to extinguish the blaze.

THE CITY OF SIKESTON, MO.
Resolution

A resolution declaring the necessity for the construction of 1 1/2" hotmix asphaltic pavement on 6" soil cement base with concrete curb and gutter on Frisco Street from Ruth Street to Dorothy Street extended in accordance with plans & specifications in the City of Sikeston, Missouri; stating the nature of the improvement; the estimated cost and providing that payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special t a x bills levied and assessed against the abutting property. Be it resolved by the Council of the City of Sikeston, State of Missouri, as follows: SECTION 1: That the Council of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, deems and declares the construction o f said Street necessary to the welfare and improvement of the City of Sikeston. SECTION 2: That the nature and scope of the improvement shall consist of furnishing all cost, including labor, materials and transportation necessary for the complete construction of the improvement. SECTION 3: That the estimated cost of the improvement is $4.50 per lineal foot of abutting property, to be charged against the lots and tracts of land abutting the improvement. SECTION 6: That the City Clerk is hereby authorized and directed to furnish a copy of this Resolution to a daily newspaper of general circulation in the City of Sikeston, so that it shall be published for seven consecutive insertions. ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: In this age of going steady, teen-age drinking, and sexual promiscuity, parents don't know how to cope with their children.

Our 16-year-old daughter is dating a boy who controls her every move. He has a car and plenty of spending money. There is no limit to where they can go and what they can do.

I've told Bonnie that we don't like this fellow and to stop going with him, or at least go with some others as well. Bonnie says if we tell her she can't see this boy she'll sneak out and see him anyway.

This is not her first steady, but the other boys had parents who set limits, so at least we knew when Bonnie would be home.

Please tell us how a girl can reject her parents for a 17-year-old smart aleck. -- OUTSIDE THE CIRCLE.

Dear Outside: Bonnie has not rejected you for a 17-year-old smart aleck. You lost control of her long before HE got into the act.

I've had thousands of letters similar to yours and I wish I could produce a magic formula to help distraught parents get through to their unruly children.

The time to have reached for help was when those kids were two years old. Now I can only suggest professional counseling --and I hope it isn't too late.

Dear Ann Landers: In a recent column a reader wrote that Los Angeles has more phonies per square inch than any city in the world. I'd like to disabuse him of that notion. Fort Lauderdale and Miami tie for first place.

I head a public relations firm in one of those Florida cities. I am not saying which. Every day I am approached by entertainers, business men, nutty inventors and just plain crooks. I'm astonished at the number of swindlers and fast-buck artists who try to con me into getting them free publicity. All P.R. people are subject to this stuff, but nowhere is it so flagrant as in these two cities.

I have been stuck with so many printing and photography bills that I now operate strictly on a pay-in-advance basis.

If there are more phonies in Los Angeles, as your reader claims, believe me they got their basic training in Fort Lauderdale or Miami and moved to California. -- BEN HAD.

Dear Ben: Chiselers and crooks are wherever you find them -- and, unfortunately, they are found all over. The sunshine states probably have more kinky characters because crooks tend to go where the livin' is easy.

In your business the best protection against getting rooked is to get the money in front, boy. And that's what you're doing.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a bachelor who has been going with a divorced woman for two years. May has four wonderful children. Her ex-husband was a miserable, mean lush and they haven't heard from him since the divorce. May is supporting herself and the kids.

Everyone I've talked to says I'd be crazy to marry a woman with four kids. I'm pretty sure I'd enjoy it but so many people have told me I'd be a fool to take on a ready-made family, that I'm confused.

I don't promise to follow your advice, but I'd like to hear it. -- POP

Dear Pop: Your signature told me what I wanted to know. You DO love those kids and you think of yourself as their father. Marry the woman. I'm betting you'll make a great little group.

No teen-ager is as confident as he appears. Get clued in. Send for Ann Landers' booklet "Dating Do's and Don'ts," enclosing with your request 35¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The sedans and Karmann-Ghias were manufactured between Aug. 1, 1965, and mid-January of this year.

Mary Ann Bruce Reports on Girls State

Miss Mary Ann Bruce, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Leo Bruce, made her report to the Kiwanis Club, her sponsors, last night on her experience at Girls State annual convention in Columbia.

Stephens College was host to 600 girls, she said, and many rules were strictly laid out for the girls to follow. Plenty of fun was mixed in with a very serious week o f educational value.

The main theme of the meeting, she said, was to have all the girls participate in a government structure made up like a real government with election of leaders. Some were girl governors, girl mayors, and one girl was elected president. Mary Ann was fire chief in Smith City.

Moving to the new location caused some Kiwanis members to go to the wrong place. Another week will help establish this thought in their minds. A nice T-Bone steak was served the Kiwanians at the Rustic Rock.

CRYSTAL CITY, Mo. AP — A pair of volunteer firemen breached flames surrounding the cab of a 8,600-gallon tanker truck and drove it away from a blazing Crystal City building Tuesday.

The fire, which caused an estimated $500,000 damage, began when gasoline was being pumped from the tanker truck to a storage tank.

Two businesses, occupying the same building were damaged. They were the C.E.S. Truck Lines Co. and Crystal Tire Co. Eight persons were injured after the mid morning explosion.

Today In U. S. History

Today is Thursday, July 7, the 188th day of 1966. There are 177 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1945, President Harry S. Truman, Secretary of State James Byrnes and other government officials left Norfolk Va., aboard a cruiser for the Big Three conference in Potsdam, Germany.

On this date

In 1853, Commodore Mathew Perry arrived in Japan.

In 1898, the United States annexed the Hawaiian Islands.

In 1930, construction of the Hoover Dam was begun.

In 1937, the Sino - Japanese War began with the attack by Japanese troops on a Chinese garrison at Marco Polo Bridge.

In 1942, Gen. Carl Spaatz, was named commander of the U.S. Army Air Forces in Europe.

Ten years ago — The Arab nation of Jordan warned Britain that it must come to Jordan's defense in case of an Israeli attack.

Five years ago -- The Soviet Union vetoed a British resolution in the United Nations aimed at winning U. S. recognition of Ku-wait as a new and independent country.

One year ago -- A civil rights march by some 350 persons was staged on Bogalusa, La.

Service Center Sponsors Dinner

MOREHOUSE - The Morehouse Delmo service center sponsored a dinner Friday for the entire Delmo village, two miles south of here.

One hundred and forty-two villagers attended the dinner and plates were taken out to many who were unable to attend.

Entertaining were the Kingdomaires Quartet and the Thomann Trio. The hostesses for the dinner were the Ladies Club and the Community Center employees.

FINANCIAL FITNESS: Here's a suggestion for anyone interested in keeping his personal finances in order:

Allow not more than a week's pay for rent; not over three year's income for a house; something less than six months' income for a car; seven percent of a year's income for all kinds of insurance. In cash or its equivalent have a year's income in the bank -- after that you can buy as much as you like on time.

Wrong Spray Forces Town to Be Evacuated

ARGYLE, Minn. (AP)—Medical authorities said today they thought "everything will be all right" in this northwestern Minnesota village which was accidentally sprayed with a poisonous chemical.

Precautions continued, however.

Personnel from the Grand Forks, N.D., Air Force base set up an emergency hospital in the city auditorium at nearby Warren, in case it is needed.

A housewife estimated that about two-thirds of the residents of Argyle, population 800, fled late Wednesday and overnight —after it became known that the wrong chemical, parathion, was used in aerial spraying to combat mosquitoes.

Dr. E. E. Pumala of Warren, acting Marshall County health officer, said Argyle residents were advised to water down their grass, shrubbery and trees and to scrub exposed clothing. Village fire trucks were directed to hose down streets and public property, and to help householders.

Pumala said it was believed he parathion was not in heavy enough concentration to hurt anyone.

Chief of Police Dennis Rousseau said the plane which sprayed Argyle Wednesday made three passes before the mixup in chemicals was discovered. Pumala described parathion as "quite a lethal poison."

Parathion is used as an insecticide in farming areas.

There were no immediate effects from the poisonous chemical, he said, but an emergency supply of atrophine, an antidote, was being flown from Minneapolis as a precaution.

Rousseau said parathion is considered dangerous at temperatures above 60 degrees. He said effects of the spraying would not be definitely known until later today when the temperature rises.

Dr. Pumala said about 25 Argyle residents entered the hospital for examinations but "they looked okay."

Evacuees were taken to homes of friends and relatives in nearby areas, authorities said.

Alibi Reprieves Suspect in K.C. Kidnaping Case

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—An FBI investigation into the kidnaping of 9-year-old Denise Sue Clinton has shown that a man mentioned in the case was at work when the kidnaping occurred a year ago.

"As far as I am concerned," said Lee O. Teague, special agent in charge of the FBI here "they will have to come up with something pretty good to connect this man with the kidnaping."

Teague made the statement after revealing a federal investigation into the background of Robert Lee Hays, 33, showed he worked from 7:30 a. m. until 4:30 p. m. on July 7, 8 and 9 at his job in a warehouse here.

The girl was kidnaped from a motel operated in Kansas City by her grandparents, July 8, 1965, during a robbery.

No trace of the girl has since been uncovered, nor have any demands for ransom been received by her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Chelcie Reynolds, or her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Clinton, Independence, Mo.

Hays remained in Oklahoma County jail in lieu of $2,000 federal bond. He was arrested Tuesday on a federal warrant charging he fled Kansas to avoid prosecution for a Topeka Kan., armed robbery.

THE NUMBERS GAME

A telephone operator answered a call from an outdoor telephone booth. A voice requested a long-distance number.

"What number are you calling from?" she asked. There was no reply, so she added helpfully, "It's right there on your dial."

After a long pause the voice replied, "1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 0."

Wrong Spray Forces Town to Be Evacuated

ARGYLE, Minn. (AP)—Medical authorities said today they thought "everything will be all right" in this northwestern Minnesota village which was accidentally sprayed with a poisonous chemical.

Precautions continued, however.

Personnel from the Grand Forks, N.D., Air Force base set up an emergency hospital in the city auditorium at nearby Warren, in case it is needed.

A housewife estimated that about two-thirds of the residents of Argyle, population 800, fled late Wednesday and overnight —after it became known that the wrong chemical, parathion, was used in aerial spraying to combat mosquitoes.

Dr. E. E. Pumala of Warren, acting Marshall County health officer, said Argyle residents were advised to water down their grass, shrubbery and trees and to scrub exposed clothing. Village fire trucks were directed to hose down streets and public property, and to help householders.

Pumala said it was believed he parathion was not in heavy enough concentration to hurt anyone.

Chief of Police Dennis Rousseau said the plane which sprayed Argyle Wednesday made three passes before the mixup in chemicals was discovered. Pumala described parathion as "quite a lethal poison."

Parathion is used as an insecticide in farming areas.

There were no immediate effects from the poisonous chemical, he said, but an emergency supply of atrophine, an antidote, was being flown from Minneapolis as a precaution.

Rousseau said parathion is considered dangerous at temperatures above 60 degrees. He said effects of the spraying would not be definitely known until later today when the temperature rises.

Dr. Pumala said about 25 Argyle residents entered the hospital for examinations but "they looked okay."

Evacuees were taken to homes of friends and relatives in nearby areas, authorities said.

Alibi Reprieves Suspect in K.C. Kidnaping Case

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—An FBI investigation into the kidnaping of 9-year-old Denise Sue Clinton has shown that a man mentioned in the case was at work when the kidnaping occurred a year ago.

"As far as I am concerned," said Lee O. Teague, special agent in charge of the FBI here "they will have to come up with something pretty good to connect this man with the kidnaping."

Teague made the statement after revealing a federal investigation into the background of Robert Lee Hays, 33, showed he worked from 7:30 a. m. until 4:30 p. m. on July 7, 8 and 9 at his job in a warehouse here.

The girl was kidnaped from a motel operated in Kansas City by her grandparents, July 8, 1965, during a robbery.

No trace of the girl has since been uncovered, nor have any demands for ransom been received by her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Chelcie Reynolds, or her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Clinton, Independence, Mo.

Hays remained in Oklahoma County jail in lieu of $2,000 federal bond. He was arrested Tuesday on a federal warrant charging he fled Kansas to avoid prosecution for a Topeka Kan., armed robbery.

OUR 56TH YEAR | 10¢ PER COPY | SIKESTON, SCOTT COUNTY, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, JULY 7, 1966 | NUMBER 243

"WATCH ME float," said two beginners, Ricky Davis and Mike Harris, shown with their instructor aides, Kathy Hahs and Mary Leible. Each beginner is given an opportunity to try their skill at floating. Notice expressions on the faces of the two boys. It was the first time either of them had tried their skill.

Swim Classes Bring Out Largest Group in Sikeston's History

The Kiwanis Club swimming program, now in its sixth year, has 280 youngsters enrolled, the largest group ever.

The three classes give every child from six years and older, an opportunity to learn to swim. One class for beginners, one for intermediate, and one for advanced swimmers.

The youngster begins his training in shallow water, and is taught the various types of swimming strokes, how to float, and breathe.

After receiving proper instruction, they are taken by their instructor to the deep side of the pool, in water that is ten feet deep.

Swimming courses began this week, and will continue for three weeks, Mrs. Fred Davis, water safety instructor for the Red Cross is in charge.

Mrs. Davis praised the cooperation of the instructor aides as excellent. The enthusiasm of the beginner classes is something to behold.

Students are advancing according to schedule, and all eager for their next assignment.

A record is kept of each child, who as a beginner is registered, and taken under the wings of the instructor aide, until the child has completed all requirements. The boy or girl is then registered in the intermediate class.

The thrill comes after the child has advanced to the swimmers class. In the first trial swimming in the deep portion of the pool, the children are taken one at a time and with an instructor alongside, swims two - thirds of the distance and back to the starting point.

Following several days of close supervision, the child is ready to be on his own in the water, and able to take on the practice diving.

Assisting Mrs. Davis as instructor aides are, Marcia Hixon, Kathy Hahs, Judy Matthews, Mary Leible, Lynne Tenkhoff, Sheri Sprout, Mike Gallagher, Mike Hixon, Ginger Cumpton, Mary Ann Sappenfield, Belinda French, Becy Wagner, Pat Wagner, Teresa Hammelmann and Al Warneck.

The change of pace in the swimming advancement program is evident, and the determination of the child very noticeable. There have been a few classes where a seven or eight-year old child, took the final instructions with children several years older.

School Addition To Dexter Firm

A discussion of minor changes to be made in the proposed two-room addition to the science and mathematics department at Sikeston High School was the item of business when the Sikeston Board of Education met Tuesday afternoon in the administration building.

Supt. Lynn Twitty said he expected the contract to be awarded later this week to Brown Construction Co. of Dexter, the low bidder at a figure of $49,573.

He also said there are two vacancies in the elementary system and a possible vacancy for a math or science instructor in the junior high school.

Mr. Twitty said the in-service training program is being completed this week. It has been in progress the past month with 150 teachers of the Sikeston and Charleston schools attending. The program is designed to develop methods for teaching the disadvantaged child.. It is said to be the only workshop of its type and is a pilot program.

Missouri U. Interviews 59 in District for Jobs

SIKESTON -- Bill Sikes, director of the Manpower Development and Training Program at Sikeston, said the University of Missouri has interviewed 59 persons in southeast Missouri for jobs.

Of this number, 20 were studying under the manpower program and 17 were hired to work in custodian food and health service. He said that 85 per cent of those ranked as custodians in the last class have found employment and 100 per cent in the class prior to that.

Of all classes in the 13 vocational areas, 76 per cent of those completing courses have been employed and a large percentage of those who dropped out of courses before completion have also found employment, Mr. Sikes said.

Presently, there is an enrollment of 400 in the 13 areas in classes which range from six to 52 weeks in length. The manpower program here will end Nov. 13, but application is being made for its continuance and it is hoped permission will be granted before the end of October, Mr. Sikes commented.

Army Boosts Draft Quotas

WASHINGTON AP -- A lag in Army enlistments prompted the Defense Department to boost draft calls today for July and August.

The Pentagon announced it was increasing the July call by 2,000 men to a new total of 28,500, and the August quota by 4,000 to a new figure of 36,600.

At the same time, the Defense Department asked Selective Service to produce 31,300 men in September.

There was no indication of any similar lag in Navy, Marine and Air Force enlistments. None of these services felt the need to draw on the draft at this time.

The highest monthly call since the Viet Nam buildup began last year came in May when 40,600 were summoned.

Hearnes Complies With Request of 7-Year-Old

KENNETT -- Did you ever wonder who advises the governor of Missouri?

Sometimes Gov. Warren E. Hearnes takes advice from 7 - year - olds, particularly if they happen to be his daughter.

The chief executive's visit to Kennett this weekend will be cut short as a result of advice and counsel ffom 7-year-old Julia B. Hearnes, who has asked that her father spend Saturday night and Sunday morning in Charleston in place of spending it in Kennett, where he will participate in this weekend's four-ball golf tournament at the Kennett Country Club.

Julia B. made her request to the governor pointing out that she would be in Charleston this week instead of accompanying him, her mother and her two sisters to the National Governors' Conference in Los Angeles, Calif., and also pointing out that his duties as governor had caused him to be away from her quite a bit -- and that he ought to come to Charleston so the two of them could be together, if only briefly.

Gov. Hearnes Tuesday notified his tournament partner, Kennett attorney William H. Billings, that his plans had been changed, upon the advice of his seven-year-old daughter. Present plans call for the chief executive to fly from Jefferson City to Kennett Saturday, arriving about noon, play golf here in the afternoon, drive to Charleston and return to Kennett about noon Sunday to play in the final round of the annual tournament here.

The cheif executive will return to Jefferson City by plane sometime Sunday afternoon or early evening.

Sole Surviving Sons Eligible For Discharge

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON AP -- The Pentagon authorized today the hardship discharge of U. S. servicemen who are the sole surviving sons in their families.

The announcement said the new policy, effective immediately, will apply to the armed forces "except during the period of a war or national emergency declared by the Congress."

The Viet Nam was does not fall into this classification.

The new policy was laid down in a memorandum July 1 from Assistant Secretary of Defense Thomas D. Morris to the secretaries of the Army, Navy and Air Force. Morris is in charge of manpower.

His brief memo says:

"To preclude possible inequities concerning sole surviving sons, military personnel who become qualified sole surviving sons subsequent to their enlistment or induction, will be afforded the opportunity to apply for a hardship discharge, with favorable consideration resulting therefrom."

Morris told the service secretaries: "It is desired that this policy be applied uniformly throughout the military departments and that implementing regulations be disseminated at the earliest practicable date."

The action, a Pentagon spokesman said, brings defense policy in line with that of the Selective Service System, which he said refrains from drafting sole surviving sons.

Such hardship discharges are open to men whose father and/or brothers or sisters have been killed in line of military duty, died of wounds, accidents or disease, or have been totally disabled physically or mentally "as a result of hazards incident to their service in the armed forces" since September 1940.

It does not apply to a man whose civilian relatives have been killed in mishaps or have died of disease or other causes.

The provision for hardship discharge of sole surviving sons was added to a Korean War directive which permitted men in this category to be assigned to noncombat duties upon their own request or application filed by a parent.

Rain, High Winds Cause Damage in SEMO Area

Extensive damage was reported in isolated areas of southeast Missouri yesterday afternoon and last night as a result of high winds and heavy rains.

The northwest section of Sikeston was without power for about 50 minutes last night when wind - blow branches touched power lines and caused a fuse to blow at a transformer.

Radio Station KMPL reported that it was without power twice during the high winds.

Extensive wind damage was reported to the early corn crop in the Charleston and Northern Mississippi County area. Glenn Patton of the Mississippi County University Extension Service said corn fields had been flattened and that some fields would be difficult to harvest as a result of the damage.

Charleston city officials reported 1.7 inches of rain in the city. Crews worked last night and this morning clearing up the debris that was left in the wake of high winds which uprooted and blew down trees.

A brick wall behind the house of Robert R. Davis of Charleston was torn down by the high winds.

Strong gusts knocked out power and uprooted trees Wednesday night during a 40-minute storm at Cape Girardeau. The wind, gusting up to 50 miles an hour, blew large trees across power lines and cars and toppled wooden fences and billboards.

Low - lying areas were flooded by .30 inches of rainfall in the Cape area, and telephone service to some areas was also disrupted.

Other areas of southeast Missouri reported little or no rain yesterday.

New Madrid had little rainfall and no high winds, although much lightning was reported in the area.

In Stoddard County the lack of rainfall is still prevalent. The county extension service said that only spotty rainfall was recorded yesterday in the county. This rainfall helped the corn crop some but much more moisture is needed, an official said.

Charges Filed Against Giggers

Scott County Prosecuting Attorney, Fielding Potashnick, reported that charges have been filed against six Scott County men for violations of the state game code.

Agents Arthur L. Bernard of Scott County and D. W. Proffer of Cape County accosted the six on a drainage canal near Vanduser. John B. Kelly, 732 Taylor, Emil Schuchart, 901 Taylor and Samuel E. Hunter, 216 Tanner, had charges filed against them for fishing without a permit. Claude A. Lovell Jr., route four, Bob Montgomer, Vanduser and Bob E. Abernathy, Morley, were all charged with having in possession over the limit of frogs which is eight in possession and per man.

Potashnick reported that charges of gigging fish will also be filed against Lovell, Montgomery and Abernathy.

The men had in their possession at the time of apprehension 91 bullfrogs and five fish, the latter taken with gigs. They were reported 75 frogs over the limit.

Agents explained a fishing license is required for gigging frogs, and a hunting license is required if frogs are taken by gun. The frog season opened Friday, July 1.

The six are to appear in magistrate Court, Tuesday, before Judge M. E. Montgomery.

Reports Labor is Available

According to the Missouri Division of Employment Security, Southeast Missouri still is reporting surplus of labor available for out of area work, however the cherry and pea harvests in Michigan and Wisconsin are expected to use a number of these workers.

Sikeston reports local labor demands very light. Several family groups, 5 to 8 workers, are available for out area work. Also a limited number of all-male groups that are wanting out-area work are available. Most need assistance in transportation. Major activity is now moving in plant workers to peas in the Great Lakes' States. Kennett reports cotton chopping with very few exceptions is a thing of the past for the time being, and thoughts are now turning to the water melon harvest. It is expected that most growers will be turning vines during the next few days, with current observations leading to a bumper crop.

End Draws Near

PARMA -- Completion of a $185,000 sewer and water system here is expected to be completed within a month, according to reports from Mayor Randall Ramsey.

The last pieces of equipment arrived yesterday and installation of it will begin tomorrow.

Citizens of Parma passed a bond issue two years ago and after 15 months of work the community will have in operation a new sewer system. The water system went into effect around 10 months ago.

A Committee headed by Mayor Ramsey have had plans drawn up for a Community center on which work is to be started within the next six months. The committee had asked the state for funds to sponsor this center, but the new year started the first of July and the letter has been taken under advisement.

DEXTER -- In a routine session last night the City Council voted to retain the same tax levy for the new fiscal year. The levy is $1.84 per $100 assessed valuation.

Bids were opened for the city gas service with Standard Oil Company's bid of 13.75 cents a gallon plus the five-cent state tax accepted. This is for 93.3 octane gas. Standard Oil also had the contract last year.

The council voted to pay for the 308 parking meters which were installed recently. If the bill is paid by Aug. 8, the city will receive an $808.50 discount, making the total amount owed $14,170.

The Missouri Municipal League has asked Mayor Willis Conner to serve on the resolutions committee at the annual conference of the league at St. Louis August 31 to September 2. Aldermen congratulated him for being so honored and noted that this was the first time that a Dexter major has been invited to serve on a committee at the annual event.

The aldermen voted to allow Mayor Conner $50 toward his expenses to attend the conference.

The township board again appeared before the council in regard to the proposed bridge on One Mile Road. At the last meeting the board presented plans for the bridge and agreed to check with the Highway Department to see if the plans met the specifications of the state.

The township board reported last night that the state will not approve specifications for a private bridge. The proposed bridge does, however, meet state specifications except for the base, which is too thick, the board reported.

The city council agreed with the board that the bridge should be built with each party supplying half the cost and labor.

The council discussed plans for a proposed city hall to replace the current facility, which is to be taken over by the state for national guard headquarters. The state has agreed to pay the city $30,000 for the building and will lease the building to the city for $1 a year up to two years.

This lease can be broken, however, if the state declares a state of emergency and decides that the building must be used for the guard unit. The city and the national guard now share the use of the building.

A committee to study possible sites for the new city hall reported that a 28 by 64 foot building can be built for about $15,000. A tentative site on the land adjacent to the city library was discussed. It was decided to contact the library board to discuss further the plan for construction at this site.

The Department of the Army requested the city to present the Army Commendation Medal to a Dexter soldier who had performed an act of bravery in Viet Nam last year.

Mayor Conner presented the citation to former Pfc. Charles D. Frank. The Army citation noted that Frank had saved a valuable piece of machinery from destruction in Viet Nam by navigating it so it would not plunge over a 40-foot cliff. Frank's family was also on hand to witness the presentation.

Dexter Firm Gets Hat Plant Contract

The building will include about 44,000 square feet of floor space and will be constructed on the Chamber of Commerce's industrial site near the intersection of West Market and One Mile Road, it was announced.

Lehman Godwin, president of the Chamber of Commerce, said the Chamber has blocked off five acres on the west end of the industrial park for the factory site. The contract calls for completion of the building within 240 working days, Godwin noted, but with favorable weather conditions the new facility could be completed by Jan. 1, 1967.

A water line will have to be run to the new factory, he continued. The Missouri Inspection Bureau has approved running an 8-inch water line from Grant to Park Lane to the factory, but a 10-inch line will probably be needed, Godwin explained.

A bond election will be held as soon as possible to finance construction, and the bonds will be paid through rental payments by the International Hat Co. without any tax increase for Dexter residents, it was reported. The total sum of the Brown Construction Co. bid will not be announced until preparations are made for the election.

Walter Botkin To Be Announcer At Horse Show

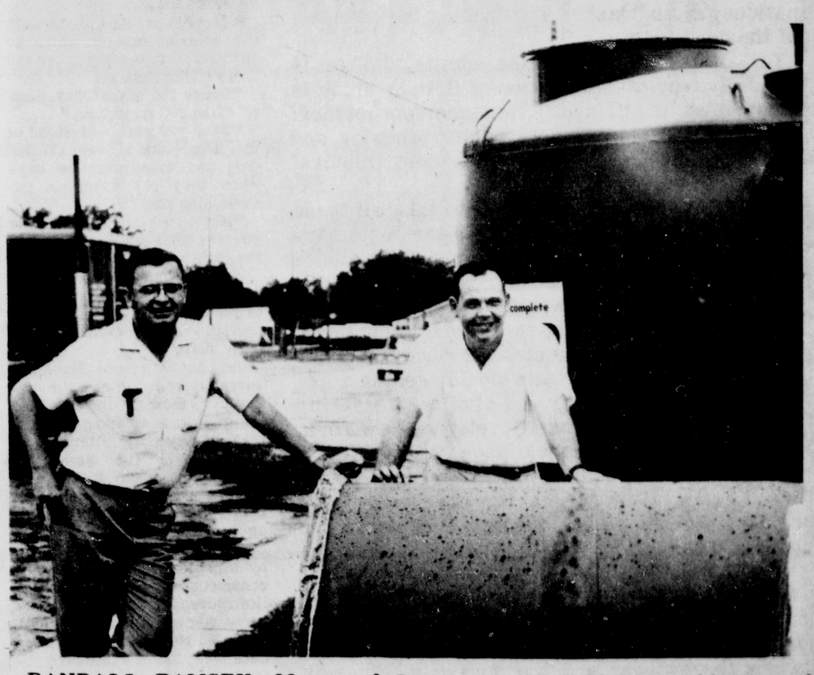
Walter M. Botkin of Wentzville will be the master of ceremonies at the Semo Shrine Mounted Patrol Society Horse Show at 7:30 p.m. Saturday at the Rodeo grounds.

Botkin has served as announcer at the American Royal Horse show, the Illinois State Fair and the Missouri State Fair.

The judge will be Abbott Wilson of Mexico, Mo.

The nine classes are local pleasure, two year walking, pony class, three-gaited set tail, junior walking, five-gaited set tail and full dress, amateur walking, roadster to bike and open walking.

Melvin Dace, chairman of the show, said today that the grounds have been sprayed for mosquitos and the seats have been cleaned.



RANDALL RAMSEY, Mayor of Parma, and Ted Morgan, alderman of ward II inspect the lift tank and equipment which arrived in Parma yesterday. These are the final pieces of equipment for the $185,000 sewer system which is expected to be in use in about a month.

When you drive in an unfamiliar town, do you always notice school zones quickly enough to slow down? Do you always know what action is required of you in a school zone?

If you do, you've been studying.

Every city, village or county chooses its own means of protecting school crossings, sometimes without referring to standards such as those prescribed in the Manual on Uniform Traffic Control Devices, published by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads and generally considered the bible of the traffic control industry.

The result is a hodgepodge of different sizes, shapes, colors and placement of signs. And unnecessary dangers for children. Some cities and towns use flashing signals and some use signs. Some of the signs are stationary, some are portable, and some hang from wires above crosswalks. Some are black and yellow, some are red and white, and some are an eye-popping, orange fluorescent color.

If a standard sign color was chosen, logic would dictate choice of fluorescent signs, for they can be seen twice as far as painted yellow signs, according to a recent research study. Approximately 1,000 U. S. cities now use them.

Florida has no state laws that define a school zone. In at least one Florida city -- St. Petersburg -- there also is no city ordinance that specifically makes it illegal to pass in a school zone.

Salt Lake City, Utah, uses at least three different kinds of signs to inform drivers that they must drive 20 m.p.h. through school zones. One is a permanently installed swivel sign. Another is a portable sign. Both bear the legend: "School 20 M.P.H." A third sign does not mention the speed limit, but merely identifies the "School Crossing," leaving it to the motorist to remember that he should reduce speed to 20 m.p.h.

The danger of such diversity is that drivers might become confused. And, who wants confused drivers near school children?

SWINGING LONDON, SQUARE, SQUARE PARIS

THE YOUTH OF EUROPE appears to be centered on London. By contrast, Paris is growing to be almost conformist. The people who remember Hemingway's Lady Brett or Galsworthy's Forsythes would be completely confused by what is going on in the principal capitals of Western Europe.

A new prosperity in London -- indeed in most of Britain -- is producing working class fashions that are influencing all kinds of society -- including the Earl of Snowdon -- and are being exported to France and, belatedly, the United States. The miniskirt -- four to eight inches above the knee -- has shaken the rhythm of the Ascot gavotte. Britain is definitely switched on.

Paris, on the other hand, is growing increasingly square. Andrew Mulligan reports in the Washington Post that France has "become almost Cromwellian in its conformity."

WITH CUTSOMARY BREATHLESSNESS, Time magazine recently described London as "alive with birds (girls) and beatles, buzzing with minicars and telly stars, pulsing with half a dozen separate veins of excitement." (You have to be careful with those Times verbs -- they have a tendency to go off in your face.)

The Time piece annoyed the lights and liver out of at least one Brit, Henry Fairlie, a political commentator. Encouraged to rush into print, he declared in the N. Y. Times Magazine: "If I were given to conspiracy theories, I would believe that there is a plot to denigrate Britain by praising everything in it which is mindless and nasty, which is senseless and corrupting, which is meaningless and deadly."

Fairlie was moved to reach back to Ruskin's "Stones of Venice" -- where Time, incidentally, had been before him -- for a passage which ends: "By the inner burning of her own passions, as fatal as the fiery rain of Gomorrah, she was consumed from her place among the nations; and her ashes are choking the channels of the dead, salt sea."

To all of which, Fairlie admits, "This is painfully true of that section of Britain which is today most publicized." He comments further: "Britain, at least in its public behavior and public exhibitions, is now the most immoral country in the West."

THE INCLINATION HERE is to take all these value judgments with more than the customary salt pinch. Disturbed by the reports on decadence by evangelist Billy Graham and the American magazines, one London-based American observer, after surveying the whole "dauntingly civilized" scene, suggests that once the economy is stronger, "Britain could become a renewed force for decency and civility."

Morality tends to be pretty relative. New York, Paris, even Ottawa, would have little difficulty matching the fables of Jack Profumo and Christine Keeler, from which the new image of a swinging London seems to stem. The skirts are probably as short in New York (if not in Washington) as in London.

Sexual freedom is traditional in Scandinavian countries, as prostitution is in France, Britain, protestant Scotland, and the United States. Between the swinger and the square the margin often is publicity. But to hear that a real estate development called Paris II plans to have eight swimming pools, riding stables and a drug store does seem pretty square. They're calling it "Le Drug West."

In the past few years scores of Victor Riesel's newbeats have been confined by subsequent developments.

And now comes none other than Britain's Prime Minister Harold Wilson with substantiation of our columnist's inside report on the Communist forces behind the crippling British seamen's strike.

Riesel's report was the only such analysis written in the American Press.

On May 24th, shortly after the crippling strike began clogging the docks and shaking the pound, Riesel wrote in his column:

" . . . That's what happened on the British docks -- loners, 'extremists', reformers in name only, Communists and a personality cult called Trotskyites have for years been working 'round the clock to get at London's jugular.

"At 12:01 a.m. May 16 they did so despite the power of the moderate leaders of the English National Union of Seamen."

A month later, Prime Minister Harold Wilson began a series of revelations which word-for-word corroborated our columnist, Victor Riesel.

LONG SECOND LOOK

Imitation, as we all know, is supposed to be the sincerest form of flattery.

If that is the case, some members of the Soviet hierarchy are now flattering their old ideological enemy ----capitalism.

A short time ago, a leading Soviet economist said that his country's economic system should be replaced by something new and better. And what he advocated was something akin to the capitalistic profit motive.

A few days later a top figure in the Soviet automobile industry, writing in Pravda, the voice of the party, said much the same thing. His industry, he frankly admitted, is in trouble. Production is slow, the cars are obsolete, workers are disinterested. So, he thinks, it is time some capitalist means of creating incentive -- profit and competition among them -- were adopted.

Not so many years ago the expression of such ideas as these within Russia would have been considered close to treason. But, apparently, the present bosses in the Kremlin are becoming interested in learning from mistakes. The basic communist credo is -- or was -- that each should produce according to his ability and be rewarded according to his need, and that was the worst mistake of all. This eliminated profit, competition, and all the other proven human and organizational incentives, and the result was not only inadequate production, but the production of inferior goods.

It must be galling for Soviet leaders to find anything good in capitalism. But sheer necessity is forcing a long second look.

CLOSE TO THE WELFARE STATE

U. S. News & World Report has published a chart that every taxpayer should study. It shows the incredible growth of federal subsidies to the states and local governments.

In 1954, this spending totaled $2.7 billion. The figure for the current year is $10.2 billion.

"Just in Case You Decide to Run!"

Next year, according to official estimates, it will reach $10.6 billion.

A very large part of this goes for a lengthy list of aid and welfare projects, along with such innovations as federally-financed slum clearance and housing developments. And, staggering as the dollar figures are, they can't tell the worst part of the story. That part lies in the steady erosion of state and local rights, obligations and responsibilities. At the rate we're going, it won't be long until nonfederal governments will be little more than meaningless names.

We are closer to a Welfare State than the majority of people realize. Unless the trend is checked somehow, the ultimate effect on the American character, as well as the American pocketbook, will be disastrous.

ATTENTION GIRL WATCHERS

Things may seem to be in good shape to the casual observer of the short-skirt craze (and have you heard any complaints from observers?), but the ugly truth is that the fascinating fad is creating problems.

One problem is what to do about knees that seem not to have been made for the high hemlines.

Another is what to do about that heavy band that goes around the stocking top.

It used to be that a gentleman wasn't too often aware that a lady's knees were imperfectly formed, much less that there was this band at the top of her stocking.

But now --

Well, the girls are embarrassed because the men are interested, and the men are even more interested because the girls are embarrassed.

Now it stands to reason that American ingenuity which can conquer space isn't going to strike out on a problem like this.

So the cosmetic people are coming out with special creams, lotions, make-up and things to make plain knees unplain and beautiful.

And the hosiery manufacturers are scheming to make that stocking - top band more glamorous or eliminate it.

It will be interesting to see what happens.

Won't it, fellows?

H. L. Hunt Says

Happiness sparkles like spring water out of the idea of freedom. Happy songs, a happy outlook, a happy people are the product of liberty. Wherever freedom abounds, people have a brightness about them, a zest for life, a place in the sun. The spirit of the USA is a bouyant, soaring spirit. And liberty is its elevator.

The relation between freedom and happiness is easily apparent. And there is an inevitable relation, too, between suppression and sadness. Unfettered opportunity, unrestrained movement, and the limitless right of choice delight man; coercion depresses him. Dictatorial governments, forged out of the philosophy of submission to an inexorable fate - the idea that a person is the victim of his enviroment, a pawn of blind destiny - will enslave the heart as well as the body.

There is a certain grimness about totalitarianism that robs the human spirit of its bloom as surely as the icy breath of winter darkens a green countryside. Communism is the ample modern proof of this. The heart of Soviet Russia is a stone, bitter and bleak. Its sad music, tragic theater, doleful literature are dirges of despair. It is the voice of slavery; it is the clanking chains of pograms, torture, exile, death.

Look at the youth of America. There is a brightness, an uncontained joy about them. Observing their carefree faces, hearing their laughter and songs, listening to their words, we can be grateful that they have inherited the golden treasure of human liberty, and that the country's future, bound up in their lives, will be as happy as the freedom in their hearts as they restore it to their benefactors.

NEW YORK (AP) — Millions of people take vacation trips this time of year in order to have something to write about on postcards.

Postcards are the billboards of the common man on which he chronicles in deathly prose the story of his passing:

"Drove 550 miles today. Hope to make 600 tomorrow."

"Wish you were — instead of me. This motel charges $18 per day, and even more on days when they put water in the swimming pool."

"Having wonderful time. Hope you are changing the gravel in the cat's box regularly."

Writing postcards is undoubtedly our most widespread form of pop art. It is as American as the hot dog, the pizza pie and chop suey.

But for a people inventive enough to come up with the skyscraper, the airplane and bubble gum, it is amazing how our lack of ingenuity falters when we have to put down our thoughts on a postal card. Words fail us, or the words we do summon up strike us as hollow even as we write them.

No scholar has won his Ph.D. by a profound study on "social consciousness in U. S. postcard literature," because it is rarely conscious and it is never literature. No Nobel Prize has ever been awarded to a postcard author, anymore than it has been given to any aviator for sky writing.

Men are peculiarly inept at composing postcards. The average man will waste an afternoon, bite his tongue raw, and develop writer's cramp composing three postcards, such as:

"Raining when we passed through Yellowstone. However, did see two bears and a forest ranger."

"Gas here costs two cents a gal less than in our town. Everything okay in the office? Regards to the gang."

"Just saw Niagara Falls. Great place for a guy who likes outdoor showers."

Women are just the other way. They take a peculiar delight in postcards. They can even write them while descending on mule-back into the grand canyon.

A postcard is a definite challenge to a woman. She wants to be sure she gets her 4-cent stamp's worth. Where a man finds nothing to say, she can't find enough space to chronicle her scenery-thrilled soul.

The fellow who engraves the Lord's Prayer in miniature on a penny is a piker compared to her. She tries to compress an encyclopedia on every postcard.

The big mistake most people make is in sending postcards to friends and acquaintances. It would be much wiser if they mailed them to themselves.

Then, when they got home, they'd have a lot of fun looking at the pictures of all the scenic places they visited — the beautiful places they hadn't had time to enjoy because they were too darned busy writing postcards.

Washington Merry- Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- Despite his personal ego, President Johnson is surprisingly realistic most of the time about his limitations in the field of foreign affairs.

"I'm learnin,' George, I'm learnin'," he once told Under Secretary of State George Ball. "The only question is whether the world can wait until I learn enough."

He knows that he assumed the presidency woefully unprepared regarding foreign affairs. All his experience in the congress was with the military. He had been both a member of the House Naval Affairs Committee and a young naval officer during World War II. He had been a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, Chairman of the Senate Preparedness Committee, of the Space Committee, and a member of the Appropriations Subcommittee for the armed services.

Most of his contacts on Capitol Hill were the generals and the admirals sent up to sell him on various military programs. He had no important contacts with the state department. He even once led the senate drive to drastically curtail one of the most important branches of foreign policy -- the U. S. Information Agency -- which he now champions.

Considering this lack of foreign affairs background, Johnson has done pretty well. During his first year in office he made more progress in Soviet-American understanding than did Kennedy in three years. He adroitly sidetracked the multilateral nuclear force which was churning up our NATO allies. He refused to tangle publicly with De Gaulle. He advised the Germans to allay Russian suspicions, advice which they followed.

But every so often, the President's old habit of siding with the generals, and his latent Texas instinct for shooting from the hip got the better of him and he sank the nation in trouble.

SNAP JUDGMENTS

This was what happened in the Dominican Republic where in thirty minutes he made up his mind to undo our quarter-century-old policy of non-intervention. That 30-minute snap decision to land the marines cost around $110,000,000 and alienated our best Latin-American friends. Despite new elections they are still suspicious.

The President also made a snap decision at about 2 a.m., Feb. 7, 1965, to begin a policy of bombing North Viet Nam. The generals had been urging this for some time, and the President finally accepted their advice at a time of the night when few men's judgment is clearest. It was purely a military decision.

What the generals either did not know or did properly evaluate was that Premier Kosygin, one of the new leaders of the Soviet, had arrived in Hanoi only that day, and en route had urged the Chinese to help bring the North Vietnames to a peace conference. This is what we have long wanted, but Johnson smacked Kosygin with a rain of bombs 14 hours after he proposed it.

Lyndon's latest decision to escalate around Hanoi and Haiphong was made not on the spur of the moment but after several weeks of waiting for the Buddhist riots to subside, and it was made in large part because the joint chiefs of staff were so frustrated and unhappy that Johnson felt he must do something to restore their morale.

Again it was purely a military decision. The generals who recommended it knew little of the efforts American diplomats have made to thaw the freeze with China. They knew nothing of the political situation confronting Prime Minister Harold Wilson of England, our staunchest ally. They are not experts on the problems of oriental racism and the resentment which the Japanese, also staunch allies, have against a white invader of a yellow country.

And they do not understand the all-important fact that the people of South Viet Nam whom we are trying to help can never be helped constructively until they have a government which represents them, not an unpopular military regime which represents the United States.

LBJ UNDERCUTS LBJ

What the generals knew was that they were not winning. They had promised the President three years ago that they would win in one year and they were not fulfilling that promise. They were not fulfilling it despite the fact that they had upped the number of American boys in Viet Nam from around 30,000 when Kennedy was killed to close to half a million under Johnson.

The last time President Johnson acted on their advice on a major matter -- the bombing of North Viet Nam on Feb. 7, 1965 -- the excuse was to prevent troops and supplies from infiltrating south. One year later, the Secretary of Defense says that the flow of men and supplies has increased 150 and 120 per cent respectively.

If the President is going to take the advice of military men, what he needs is military men around him who have fought in the Far East before -- Gen. Omar Bradley, Gen. Matt Ridgway, Gen. Joe Collins -- who came through the agonies of Korea and know what it's like to face endless waves of Orientals, poorly equipped and hungry but with no concern for life or physical suffering.

The tragedy is that the President is rapidly painting himself into a position where the great things he has accomplished on the domestic front will be both forgotten and undermined. No President in history, perhaps, has done so much for the advancement of education, civil rights, and the general welfare of the American people.

But these can be undermined by inflation, beclouded by the unpopularity of war.

He is also painting himself into a position where the American people will conclude that the only way they can get out of this war is to elect a new president with new policies, and do it as quickly as constitutionally possible in 1968.

Confidential Report By American Longshoreman Reveals Saigon Port Authorities Sabotage U. S.

NEW YORK -- Some influential Vietnamese port authorities in Saigon are using red tape as a garrote to strangle the "life-line" stretching from the U. S. to Viet Nam.

Deliberately they are tripping up American efforts to unclog that river harbor. They are working with Saigon merchants to perpetuate the black market. They are running interference for the profiteers in an effort to smash a secret U. S. crash program before it begins an offensive against the commercial operators there.

All this is said in a confidential report just submitted to the Departments of State and Defense by the fiery ocean-hopping Ted Gleason, our land's number one dock-walloper.

"Teddy", president of the International Longshoremen's Assn. (AFL-CIO), has recently returned from his third inspection trip to Saigon.

Not too long ago the port was clogged because ships could not be unloaded.

Now, with that situation improved, the docks are choked up because the port authorities -- and some Americans, too -- permit unloaded cargo to encumber the critical, and scarce, port space for as long as a year.

Everything from toilet bowls to desperately needed steel just lies around amid debris and foul-smelling garbage, Gleason reports.

Typical are some 5,000 toilet bowls which have been resting on and around the pier area for over a year. Actually, they were intended for military housing -- That's a lot of toilet bowls.

They cover space needed for vital cargo now weighing down vital barges needed to unload vital materials from vital ships which must be turned around swiftly for home passage.

It would have the touch of a four-a-day vaudeville era comedian if it were not so tragic.

Strewn around the wharves also are 250 new automobiles. They have been there so long, Gleason says, they'll be last year's models soon if not picked up by the merchants who purchased them. Obviously they are leaving the cars on the piers so scarcity can keep jacking up the black market prices for the luxury models.

Not the least of the homemade obstacle course in the port area are huge shipments of steel -- bars, sheets, cables and galvanized material.

They just lie there. They rust. And some of the stock has been on the ground for more than a year, Gleason discloses.

In all there are about 5,000 tons of steel, some of which is on 200 barges. These are immobilized, though they should be shuttling back and forth between the big ships out at the buoys bringing in cargo needed for strategic reasons.

The merchants simply are using the docks and barges as private open-air warehouses while space is desperately needed.

"The time has come for the merchants to realize that the thunder they hear is not all God-made," says Gleason acidly.

"That's gunfire they hear. They should be told there's a war on, and black-marketeering means that the men in the field, ours and theirs, are being shot in the back by the price gougers.

"We should get the goods into the hands of the people or break the backs of the black marketeers by cutting off comercial imports except under proper supervision."

Not the least of the problem is the stinking garbage which corrodes the material as well as the air.

Gleason reports that it would take 150 men, working 'round the clock, only 72 to 96 hours to clear the area. But no one tries, least of all the port authorities. Yet they have the power to move, points out Gleason, under Decree-Law No. 12/64 of June 16, 1964, as amended by 008-65 of August 13, 1965. This law invests the Port Director with the responsibility and authority to make all changes needed and take any action necessary to unclog the area. But little is done.

Gleason's confidential report, for example, discloses that, though 5,000 men are needed, just 2,300 are registered -- and only 1,500 actually go to work. But there are at least 50,000 men available and eager to get a job.

There are virtually no security regulations, no fingerprinting, no photos.

There are few facilities even for the small contingent -- no mobile canteens, and just a prefabricated one-story building 60 by 20 feet.

Yet the U. S. is about to launch a crash program to crack the black market.

Washington is about to pour in millions on millions of dollars worth of clothes, food, shoes, appliances, etc., so the boulevards of Saigon can begin resembling the main streets of mid-America -- and the kids can eat and dress like Saturday night.

But the black marketeers are killing that dream with their red tape garrots. Why is no one asking why -- loudly and firmly -- until we get an answer?

Bob Gibson

Gibson Named To All-Stars

CINCINNATI (AP) — Most of the pitchers picked for the National League in next week's All-Star Game have had some experience in All-Star competition.

Manager Walt Alston of the Los Angeles Dodgers said Wednesday his choices were Sandy Koufax of the Dodgers, Juan Marichal and Gaylord Perry of San Francisco, Jim Bunning of Philadelphia, Bob Gibson of St. Louis, Claude Raymond of Houston, Billy McCool of Cincinnati and Bob Veale of Pittsburgh.

Only Perry, McCool and Raymond have never before been named to an All-Star squad. Bunning (9-4) has been picked seven times—including twice in the American League—and Koufax has been named to the squad six times.

The contest with the American League All-Stars in St. Louis' new Busch Stadium next Tuesday will be Marichal's fifth All-Star Game. Gibson has been named three times and Veale was first selected last year, but did not see any action.

The eight hurlers have a collective record of 79-31.

Manager Sam Mele of Minnesota, who heads the American League team, announced his selections earlier. They were Gary Bell and Sam McDowell of Cleveland, Denny McLain of Detroit, Steve Barber of Baltimore, Jim Kaat of Minnesota, Mel Stottlenyre of New York, Jim Hunter of Kansas City and Pete Richert of Washington.

All of Mele's selections were starters, while Alston picked two relief experts--McCool (4-4) and Raymond (5-2).

Perry, who is 12-1, has the best record among the starting pitchers. Marichal (13-4) has an All-Star earned run average of 1.13 as the winner in 1962 and 1964. He gave up only one hit in three innings after starting last year's game.

The victory in that game went to Koufax (15-3), who worked only one inning. Gibson (11-8) worked the last two innings of the game and saved the National League's one-run margin.

Veale (10-5), Koufax and McCool are left-handers. The other five hurlers are right-handed.

The eight starting infielders and outfielders for both teams have already been selected by vote of the players, but the two managers still have to name nine more men to their squads.

Osteen Shines For Dodgers

Associated Press Sports Writer

Take a strong arm, add lots of pressure and a portion of self-help and you have a Los Angeles Dodger pitcher. Claude Osteen fits the formula perfectly.

Osteen won his sixth game by a one-run margin this season Wednesday night — 1-0 against Cincinnati — and he drove in the run.

In bringing his record to 11-6, Osteen allowed the Reds just three hits and went 2-for-2 to raise his average to .261 with 12 hits in 46 at bats. One of his two singles drove home John Kennedy in the eighth inning. In two of his other one-run decisions, Osteen who now has three RBI, scored the winning run.

"This is the best first half I've ever had," Osteen said after gaining his second shutout of the year. "I've always pitched a lot better the second half of the season than I did the first."

Last year at this time Osteen was only 6-10, but he closed with a rush to finish at 15-15.

Coming through with key hits is nothing new for Los Angeles pitchers. Don Drysdale has done it many times in his career, so has Sandy Koufax, a notoriously poor hitter, and rookie Don Sutton is catching on fast. Sutton is hitting .271.

The New York Mets beat Philadelphia 7-5 and Atlanta walloped Houston 8-1 in other National League games.

In the American League, Boston defeated the New York Yankees 5-3 and 5-4, California nipped Detroit 1-0 in 10 innings, Minnesota edged Cleveland 4-3, Washington downed the Chicago White Sox 4-3 and 3-2 and Baltimore split with Kansas City, winning the opener 11-0 and losing the nightcap 9-8 in 11 innings

Roberto Clemente doubled home two runs and drove in three more with his 13th homer in the Pirates' victory. Donn Clendenon also got his 13th homer and fourth in as many games for the Pirates, a two-run shot.

Jack Hamilton picked up his eighth save in his last 11 appearances for New York. Ed Kranepool knocked in three runs with a pair of doubles for the Mets, who exploded for four runs in the seventh inning. Phillie pitcher Jim Bunning was forced to leave the game in the sixth with a pulled groin muscle. He has an 11-1 record against the Mets.

Joe Torre hit his 21st homer and an RBI single and Mack Jones homered and tripled for the Braves. Don Schwall, making his first start since being traded to Atlanta by Pittsburgh, worked 6 1-3 innings for the victory.

Associated Press Sports Writer

ATLANTA (AP) — Two rich young college football players—Donny Anderson of Texas Tech and Jim Grabowski of Illinois—will battle for the last time Saturday night before they team up in what they hope will be rewarding careers with the Green Bay Packers.

Anderson will play for the West and Grabowski for the East in the Coaches All-America Game, which marks the second time they have dueled.

The two youngsters—each of whom received a bonus reportedly in the neighborhood of $600,000 to sign with the Packers -- were on opposite sides last January in the Hula Bowl at Honolulu.

"We won that game by one point," Grabowski said, "although Donny had a better day than I did. I scored a conversion, but he caught a couple of nice passes."

Grabowski and Anderson will team up for the College All-Star Game in Chicago Aug. 5, when the 1965 college standouts meet the Green Bay Packers, champions of the National Football League.

Then the two hard-running backs will report to Green Bay, where they plan to room together.

Both are being counted on heavily in the All-America Game, with Grabowski the East's starting fullback and Anderson playing halfback for the West.

"I enjoy playing against Donny," Grabowski said, "although he's so much faster than me I don't even like to think about it."

Grabowski is a burly 220-pounder who broke Big Ten running marks by gaining 2,878 yards in his career; Anderson, who also weighs 220 on a rangier frame, gained 2,280 yards rushing in three years at Texas Tech, and also caught 105 passes for 1,327 yards and 12 touchdowns.

Both admit they may have trouble cracking the Green Bay line-up.

Grabowski will be understudying the Packers' great fullback, Jimmy Taylor, and Anderson will be playing behind halfback Paul Hornung.

Roster Increase For NFL

DETROIT (AP) — A move to increase the playing roster from 38 to 40 has been the only major decision reached by the American Football League owners in their summer meeting.

A morning session was scheduled today but little was expected to be accomplished, outside of continued discussion on the recent merger with the National Football League.

"We had to increase the number of players on each team to keep in line with what's done in the NFL," Boston Patriots owner Bill Sullivan explained. "We don't like the thought of meeting them in a championship game with fewer players."

Sullivan indicated that the AFL owners are prepared to present strong cases for their side in various differences between the two leagues.

The two-point conversion option and making the scoreboard clock official were two rules mentioned.

"I don't know why the NFL doesn't go with the two point option," Sullivan said. "We think it makes for a more interesting game."

Besides the decision to increase the rosters, the AFL owners also indicated a learning toward expansion in 1968 and a wearm-weather city or cities as the site of the title game with the NFL.

Cities mentioned in the expansion discussion were Anaheim, Calif., Cincinnati, New Orleans and Seattle.

Commissioner Al Davis explained that under peculiar wording in the AFL-NFL merger agreement the AFL could name a city but the NFL would expand first.

"We'll decide what city to pick as soon as we settle it it our minds. We intend to name the city and protect the territory until we expand in 1968," Davis said.

Boog Powell drove in a record tying 11 runs, but could do no more than help the Orioles to a split of a twi-night doubleheader with Kansas City in Baltimore.

Powell drove in four runs in the opener with a three run double and a sacrifice fly as Baltimore won, 11-0, behind the five-hit pitching of Steve Barber.

Kansas City pushed across a run in the 11th inning on doubles by Roger Repoz and Larry Stahl to edge Baltimore, 9-8, in the nightcap despite Powell's grand slam homer, his two-run homer and a run-producing double.

Powell's RBI tied the American League record for a doubleheader, matching a feat by Earl Averill of Cleveland in 1930 and Jim Tabor of Boston in 1939.

The A's rallied for six runs in the eighth inning of the second game to go ahead, 8-6, only to see Powell's two-run homer tie it up with two out in the ninth.

Kansas City started its uprising against Eddie Watts. Stahl, who doubled home two runs in the fourth, singled in a run. Pinch hitter Ed Charles drove in another after a walk, sending Watts to the shower. Reliever Stu Miller gave up a walk, and a run-scoring single to Campy Campaneris. Then Jim Gosger hit a two-run single and Repoz beat out a bunt for the sixth run of the inning.

Meanwhile, Willie Mays continues to creep up on Jimmy Foxx on the all-time homer list at the expense of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Mays' 524th career home run Wednesday afternoon at San Francisco carried the Giants to a 3-2 victory over the Cardinals just when it appeared St. Louis had the game wrapped up.

Willie's two out, three-run blow in the eighth inning, his 19th of the season, put him 10 home runs behind Foxx, who is second only to Babe Ruth in homers. Mays slipped into third place on the all-time list last month by belting his 522nd, one more than Ted Williams, against St. Louis.

The Cardinals staked starter Tracy Stallard to a 2-0 lead with a run in the sixth on singles by Orlando Cepeda and Tim McCarver and Jerry Buchek's sacrifice fly, and another in the eighth on Mike Shannon's eighth homer of the season.

Stallard had one out on the Giants in the eighth when pinch hitter Len Gabrielson and Tito Fuentes singled in succession.

Joe Hoerner relieved and got pinch hitter Dick Dietz for the second out, but Mays connected against Don Dennis, the third Redbird pitcher of the inning.

Stallard, dueling with the Giants' Bob Bolin, had allowed only four hits before the eighth.

The A's and Cards both have today off.

By FRANCES LEWINE

WASHINGTON (AP) — A choir of 100 men and boys will sing at the wedding of Luci Johnson and Patrick J. Nugent.

The White House announced today that the choral music for the ceremony will be provided by the combined men's and boys' choirs of two Baltimore Roman Catholic churches — the Cathedral of Mary Our Queen and the Church of the Immaculate Heart of Mary.

Robert F. Twynham, director of the cathedral choir, will compose music for parts of the nuptial Mass and will play the organ at the wedding. The combined choirs will be under the direction of Norman Sydnor, director of the church choir.

About 700 guests are expected for the marriage of the daughter of the President and Mrs. Johnson at noon Aug. 6 in the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception here.

The White House said 400 invitations embossed with the presidential coat of arms will be mailed Friday to about 700 personal friends and relatives of the young couple and the Johnson and Nugent families. Many of the invitations will go to couples. Those invited to the ceremony also will be invited to the White House reception which will follow.

Names of the guests were not disclosed, but the White House said a large segment would be young out-of-town friends of Luci and Nugent, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerard P. Nugent of Waukegan, Ill.

Dairy Farmers Get Price Hike

KANSAS CITY AP -- The price paid to dairy farmers for Class 1 milk in the Kansas City area was increased Tuesday by 35 cents a hundred pounds. The price goes from $4.97 to $5.32.

Foster Lewis, manager of the Pure Milk Producers Association of Greater Kansas City, said the increase was the result of a boost in the government's price support rate on manufacturing milk from $3.50 to $4.00 a hundred pounds.

The association acts as a broker between farmers and processors.

Officials said that action of wholesalers and retailers in absorbing the higher costs will determine whether the increase will result in higher prices to the consumer.

Record Volume of Bonds Registered

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- State Auditor Haskell Holman said today he registered a record volume of bonds during the fiscal year ended June 30-$64,740,098 worth.

Of the total, $44,840,700 were in school bonds, $16,599,898 in municipal bonds and $3,299,898 in bonds of other political subdivisions.

At a motel in Wildwood-by-the-Sea, N.J., two women were watching some sailors on leave play shuffleboard. "Heavens," said one woman, "wouldn't you think they'd get enough of that on board ship?"

Hot Dog Month Features Better Buys on Beef

NEW YORK (AP)—When the temperature soars, the sands burn your feet and the smoke of the barbecue is about in the land, it is National Hot Dog Month.

Butter may be headed higher.

Contact Renewed With Surveyor 1

PASADENA, Calif. AP -- Scientists, after days of trying, reestablished contact today with Surveyor 1, the photo-snapping spacecraft on the moon. It had been silent during the two-week frigid lunar night, and experts feared its battery might be dead.

Surveyor quickly began "talking back" this morning after the heat of lunar day revived it.

The Jet Propulsion Laboratory said the feat was established and a series of engineering questions was sent to the spacecraft concerning temperature and voltages aboard. Surveyor began answering, dutifully.

Late tonight or early Thursday, when the Goldstone, Calif., tracking station can take over communication, an attempt may be made to reactivate Surveyor's cameras, which sent thousands of pictures of the moon's surface back to earth.

The cameras went dead and communication ended about three weeks ago when the lunar night set in, bringing temperatures down to nearly 260 degrees below zero.

St. Louis Symphony Granted $2½ Million

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Ford Foundation announced a $2,500,000 grant today to the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra.

Spokesmen said $2 million of the grant is an endowment that must be matched by the orchestra within five years. St. Louis' Symphony was one of 14 major orchestras to receive the $2,500,000 grant.

"The foundation's program is the best thing that has happened to music in this country," said St. Louis Symphony Society President Standley J. Goodman "and certainly the biggest boost the St. Louis Symphony has ever had."

The $500,000 in nonmatching funds will be paid to the St. Louis orchestra in five annual installments as operating funds. Interest from the endowment may be kept by the orchestra for the next five years. If the $2 million is matched, interest will be paid to the symphony for 10 full years and then the full amount will be paid.

ABOUT OUR SCHOOLS

'by LYNN TWITTY'

We return with this weekly column (that is when we can find time to write it) after an absence of some weeks, in an attempt to provide you with more information about our schools specifically, and perhaps about education in general.

The proper selection of textbooks, library and other reading materials for use in the schools is an important responsibility. In order that we make the most effective use of the money which we have available for books and library material, a book committee consisting of faculty members and parents was organized last year and a policy statement relating to selection of these materials for use by our students was formulated.

We believe that freedom to read, is as important as free speech or freedom of the press. We believe also that it is a professional responsibility of teachers and librarians, with the help of selected parents, to provide a wide variety of reading material to present different viewpoints, especially on controversial topics. We think it important that students be encouraged to read widely and to become familiar with variations of opinions and theories. The committee is not set up as a board of censorship, but rather to select the best material available, the kinds of materials that will further our educational aims. Especially is it important to select textbooks that will best help the teacher to accomplish the purposes and aims of the particular class in which the textbook is to be used. We hope that these textbooks are not selected merely on the basis of their agreement with the opinions of that particular teacher, but because the facts presented are as true as possible and the opinions expressed are such as to cause students to think, to develop a sense of discrimination toward finding the truth for themselves.

We do hold also that it is our responsibility to as nearly as possible provide material that is wholesome, informative, and that will stimulate students to develop their abilities to think creatively and objectively.

We do not expect everyone to agree with all books or materials that are selected, in fact, there are at times differences of opinions between the members of the selection committee itself here, democratically, the majority prevails. Individuals who have a particular complaint may voice this complaint in writing on a form which is available, and the complaint will then be considered by the committee. We appreciate the assistance of this committee in the selection of necessary instructional materials and library books and especially are we grateful for the help of the parents who work with us.

The conclusion is inescapable: the quality of our high schools must be improved, much of the improvement depends upon providing better and wider educational opportunities which can only be economically feasible in high schools enrolling upward of 600 students.

For a considerable number of years the U.S. Department of Agriculture has bought surplus food products from farmers in order to support stable prices. These commodities were then supplied to schools, both public and parochial, as part of the federal school lunch program. In most cases, as in ours, this provided a very sizable subsidy and allowed schools to keep the price to the student at a low figure. School lunch prices here have been the same for the past 7-8 years: 25¢ for children in grades 1-6, 30 cents for grades 7-9, and 35¢ for grades 10-12.

To indicate the importance of surplus food products in the schools' food service budget, three years ago the value of these foods provided us, at current prices, amounted to approximately $38,000. Each year since the amount has rapidly declined and we were recently informed that a change in the agricultural economy and mounting food prices no longer require this kind of government support for the farmer. Consequently we cannot expect much in the way of surplus foods in the near future.

Even with the surplus foods we were barely able to pay our costs and finish the year in the black. We will not do so this year although the deficit will be very small. If we are to maintain the same quality in the type and amount of meals available to our students, there appears to be only one reasonable alternative. That, of course, is to raise the price of the meal served. We do not believe that parents will object to an increase which will make it possible for us to maintain a good lunch program. Certainly, there can be no reasonable objection, in the face of mounting costs which are involved in providing a good noon-day meal for our growing youngsters. We expect to continue a study of this problem and to recommend whatever changes may be necessary prior to the opening of school in September.

Twenty graduates of our Man-Power Development Training Classes for Nurses Aides, Building and Grounds Maintenance, and Food Services, went to Columbia recently to be interviewed for employment. Seventeen of these graduates were employed by Missouri University and we expect that others will be.

Prior to this training, these people were unemployed. A considerable number of them were on some form of unemployment compensation or other welfare payment. Those employed are now making their own way and are tax payers instead of tax consumers. The record of other classes trained here through MDTA or other of our vocational offerings is about equally good. We can think of no better proof of the value of spending public money to train the unemployed to become self supporting and contributing members of our economy and society.

"I have sworn upon the alter of God, eternal hostility against every form of tyranny over the mind of man." Thomas Jefferson

A recently, carefully documented report by the Center for Education Study at Peabody College reached the following conclusion: "The prevalence of small high school constitutes the most serious obstacle to education . . . . . course offerings in most (but not all) high schools are adequate to meet graduation and state college entrance deamins, but they are of little additional benefit to the overwhelming majority of those who do not go to college."

The report further discloses that more than one-half of high schools now enroll fewer than 300 pupils--a number that makes almost impossible adequate instruction, especially for those not going to college. Courses in industrial arts, art,; music, and the important vocational areas rarely appear in these schools.

The study shows that a four-year high school must offer at least three times as many credit courses as are required for graduation if non-college-bound youth are to have an equal break with those who go on to college. This means a total of 50 or more units which the overwhelming majority of small high schools simply cannot provide without excessive financial outlay.

Lamb, the flesh and carcass of a young sheep, is eaten all over the world, since there is no objection to its use on religious grounds. But the United Kingdom is the only country in the northern hemisphere consuming any large quantity of lamb and mutton, the flesh of more mature sheep. An average of 22 pounds per capita is consumed annually in the United Kingdom, as compared with four pounds in the United States.

Can we all be FRIENDLIER? Isn't it an idea to, each day, think of this: "LET'S MAKE SIKESTON THE FRIENDLIEST CITY IN MISSOURI. Bear in mind: the person whom you don't know may be just passing through -- may be "looking our town over" with the idea of "locating here" -- regardless, you will give that person "his or her impression" of our city.

Individual Freedom And The Common Defence

The second basic issue, or set of issues, to be considered is of a different kind. The foregoing has been assuming an ideal anti - sedition system, operating perfectly within its own assumptions, identifying, controlling, and penalizing only those who really hold the seditious faith. But granting for the sake of argument that it is both necessary and legitimate to apply special disabilities and penalties to Communists, it cannot be legitimate to apply them to those who are not Communists at all. If the principle is allowable, justice clearly requires that the practice should accord with it. If pro - Communist believers are adjudged so treacherous, unreliable, and potentially dangerous as to warrant their exclusion, as a class, from full participation in the affairs and privileges of the community, this certainly does not warrant the similar exclusion of many who are in no way pro - Communist believers, as a result of suspicion, rumor, malice, or mistake. The second basic issue concerns the question of how far the anti - sedition system operates justly within its own premises.

It is important to distinguish the two issues, because they are usually inextricably confused in debate over such specific problems as the protections of the Fifth Amendment, the right of confrontation in security hearings, the right of the defense in criminal cases to examine the reports of FBI witnesses, and many similar issues of due process. In confronting such debates it is usually difficult to know (and the disputants usually do not seem to know themselves) whether the issue is over the rights of any citizen in defending himself from the charge of being a Communist or the right of a Communist not to be penalized or held blameworthy solely because of his Communism. The non-Communist position is: You may not invade my thoughts or require my testimony under oath in order to prove me guilty of Communism because with such methods too many mistakes are made. The Communist position is: You may not invade my thoughts or require my testimony in order to prove me guilty of Communism because Communism is no crime and you have no right to make it so in either law or common practice. These are quite different positions.

Lack of Moisture Causing Statewide Crop Concern

columbia, Mo. AP -- Shortage of moisture is beginning to have its effects on Missouri crops.

"Many areas are now needing rain in order that crops may continue normal growth," the Department of Agriculture and the Weather Bureau said in their combined weekly report.

"Corn growth is beginning to be hampered by shortage of available moisture in many areas," the report said. "Also corn is being damaged by corn borer.

"Pasture conditions continued to decline last week. This is due to the shortage of available moisture."

"some northwest Missouri counties had abundant moisture last week, but the Ozark and East central plains had generally less than .10 of an inch.

A PART of more than 100 pigeons, of the finest breed found in the world, can be found in the pens, owned by P. H. "Buck" Hunott, 516 William street.

A Sikeston Man's Hobby Started When He Was Ten

You may wonder when and how hobby is started?

It was by chance that we learned of a Sikeston man's hobby of Pigeons; He has over 100, that covers more than 16 breeds.

This pigeon lover is a postal rural route carrier, named P. H. "Buck" Hunott, who lives with his family at 516 William street.

When "Buck" was asked why he started this particular hobby, he explained, "well frankly it started when I was about 10 years old. I grew up in Matthews, and was always fascinated by the different kinds of pigeons I saw."

"It was not until 1959 that I started my hobby, with six pairs of pigeons, consisting of White Kings, Parlor Rollers and Russian Trumpeters. After studying about the pigeons, and writing to various fanciers, I learned there were a little more than 200 breeds in the world.

In making my mail route I learned of other pigeon bobbyists, and took up the hobby, seeking the quality breed only.

"I learned from the American Pigeon Journal, where to find the various kinds of breeds, their cost, and other pertinent information. The Journal is published in Warrenton, Mo., by Frank Holman, a weekly newspaperman and well known in the Missouri journalism field. The magazine is known as the leading publication about Pigeons in the world.

"An average pair will cost $5, while the better breeds run to $25, and a few as high as $75 per pair, for a pair of White Jacobins. A hobbyist does not have to buy too many pair, because he soon learns to exchange with other pigeon fanciers, and soon the family grows. Others in this area who spend spare time at this hobby are, Marshall Isabell, Matthews, Robert Crenshaw, Sikeston and Earl Hitt, Miner.

"I soon learned that once a pair is mated, they will never break up. I am particularly proud of one of my pairs," said Hunott, "the Parlor Tumbler, and is the only pair known that cannot fly, but amuses itself by getting on the ground, and at a given command, or when it becomes excited, it will make complete somersaults."

"I'm hoping to find a pair of English Shortface Baldhead Tumblers, a toy pigeon, and the smallest breed known in the world. The breed is not over eight ounces in weight, and so far it has been hard to locate."

When he was asked why he had not stocked any homing pigeons, Hunott said, "I've never cared for the homing pigeons, they're of a nervous disposition. They stay in their pens but a short time before they start out again."

The only homing pigeon fancier in this area is Bill Depro, Matthews. Depro has about 50 of the flyers, and released a few not long ago in Memphis, Tenn., and they returned to their home.

Mr. Hunott is assisted in his hobby by his son Philip, 9, and a daughter Phyllis Ann, 7, who helps him feed and water this beautiful assortment of pigeons. Many interested persons drop around to the Hunott back yard and spend time looking over the large assortment of fancy pigeons.

For those who know anything about pigeons, you can find the following: Nuns, pheasant pigeons, fantails, rollers, Russian highfliers, turbits, helmets, English tumbler, Jacobins, modenas, Damascans, tipplers, parlor tumblers, frills and frill-backs.

Lemonade Extinguishes Blaze

THE CITY OF SIKESTON, MO.
Resolution

A resolution declaring the necessity for the construction of 1 1/2" hotmix asphaltic pavement on 6" soil cement base with concrete curb and gutter on Frisco Street from Ruth Street to Dorothy Street extended in accordance with plans & specifications in the City of Sikeston, Missouri; stating the nature of the improvement; the estimated cost and providing that payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special t a x bills levied and assessed against the abutting property. Be it resolved by the Council of the City of Sikeston, State of Missouri, as follows: SECTION 1: That the Council of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, deems and declares the construction o f said Street necessary to the welfare and improvement of the City of Sikeston. SECTION 2: That the nature and scope of the improvement shall consist of furnishing all cost, including labor, materials and transportation necessary for the complete construction of the improvement. SECTION 3: That the estimated cost of the improvement is $4.50 per lineal foot of abutting property, to be charged against the lots and tracts of land abutting the improvement. SECTION 4: That payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills evidencing special assessments against the abutting property in the manner specified by the statutes of the State of Missouri and the ordinances of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, because in the opinion of the City Council the General Revenue fund of the City of Sikeston is not in a condition to warrant an expenditure therefrom to pay for the improvement. SECTION 6: That the City Clerk is hereby authorized and directed to furnish a copy of this Resolution to a daily newspaper of general circulation in the City of Sikeston, so that it shall be published for seven consecutive insertions. For Today From The Upper Room

THURSDAY, JULY 7, 1966

Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free. (John 8:32)

PRAYER: Bless all, O Lord, who seek to learn the truth and to follow Christ as their Master. Help us to be instruments of help and encouragement to them. For our Savior's sake. Amen.

Notwithstanding, he had been a long time confined to his bed, with tuberculosis, yet it was a shock to many of our citizens when the news was circulated last Sunday evening and Monday morning that Bill Clodfelter is dead.

Miss Effie Sellards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Sellards of Sikeston, has purchased a millinery shop in Grant City, Ill. Miss Sellards was for several years a teacher in the public school system of Sikeston.

Sikeston may easily and at little expense have a Community Hall, excelling anything in this section of the country, if the citizens of the town can be induced to cooperate. The general idea for the Community Hall comes from John A. Young, president of the Fair Association, who suggests that the Fair Association, Gol Club, Lions Club and the Chamber of Commerce undertake to convert the agricultural building at the Fair Grounds from a structure that is only used some 10 days of the year into a building which will be available for public use every day in the year.

A truckload of lumber, comprising about 2,500 board feet, which was stolen from the Railhaven Courts some weeks ago while the building was under construction, was returned to its owners, Joe Cravens, Friday morning. Mary Ann Bruce Reports on Girls State

Miss Mary Ann Bruce, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Leo Bruce, made her report to the Kiwanis Club, her sponsors, last night on her experience at Girls State annual convention in Columbia.

Stephens College was host to 600 girls, she said, and many rules were strictly laid out for the girls to follow. Plenty of fun was mixed in with a very serious week o f educational value.

The main theme of the meeting, she said, was to have all the girls participate in a government structure made up like a real government with election of leaders. Some were girl governors, girl mayors, and one girl was elected president. Mary Ann was fire chief in Smith City.

Moving to the new location caused some Kiwanis members to go to the wrong place. Another week will help establish this thought in their minds. A nice T-Bone steak was served the Kiwanians at the Rustic Rock.

Word was received from George Kirk, written near Salt Lake City, Utah. George is on his way to the Kiwanis International Convention in Portland, Ore.

Letters of appreciation for Kiwanis sponsored projects giving aid to worthy students were read from Lynn Twitty and Roger Sherman.

Disaster Averted in Crystal City Fire

CRYSTAL CITY, Mo. AP — A pair of volunteer firemen breached flames surrounding the cab of a 8,600-gallon tanker truck and drove it away from a blazing Crystal City building Tuesday.

"Somebody had to do it," said Jim Evans, 40, who was accompanied by Steve Siracusa, 43, when he backed the vehicle away from the blaze.

The fire, which caused an estimated $500,000 damage, began when gasoline was being pumped from the tanker truck to a storage tank.

Two businesses, occupying the same building were damaged. They were the C.E.S. Truck Lines Co. and Crystal Tire Co. Eight persons were injured after the mid morning explosion.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: In this age of going steady, teen-age drinking, and sexual promiscuity, parents don't know how to cope with their children.

Our 16-year-old daughter is dating a boy who controls her every move. He has a car and plenty of spending money. There is no limit to where they can go and what they can do.

I've told Bonnie that we don't like this fellow and to stop going with him, or at least go with some others as well. Bonnie says if we tell her she can't see this boy she'll sneak out and see him anyway.

This is not her first steady, but the other boys had parents who set limits, so at least we knew when Bonnie would be home.

Please tell us how a girl can reject her parents for a 17-year-old smart aleck. -- OUTSIDE THE CIRCLE.

Dear Outside: Bonnie has not rejected you for a 17-year-old smart aleck. You lost control of her long before HE got into the act.

I've had thousands of letters similar to yours and I wish I could produce a magic formula to help distraught parents get through to their unruly children.

The time to have reached for help was when those kids were two years old. Now I can only suggest professional counseling --and I hope it isn't too late.

Dear Ann Landers: In a recent column a reader wrote that Los Angeles has more phonies per square inch than any city in the world. I'd like to disabuse him of that notion. Fort Lauderdale and Miami tie for first place.

I head a public relations firm in one of those Florida cities. I am not saying which. Every day I am approached by entertainers, business men, nutty inventors and just plain crooks. I'm astonished at the number of swindlers and fast-buck artists who try to con me into getting them free publicity. All P.R. people are subject to this stuff, but nowhere is it so flagrant as in these two cities.

I have been stuck with so many printing and photography bills that I now operate strictly on a pay-in-advance basis.

If there are more phonies in Los Angeles, as your reader claims, believe me they got their basic training in Fort Lauderdale or Miami and moved to California. -- BEN HAD.

Dear Ben: Chiselers and crooks are wherever you find them -- and, unfortunately, they are found all over. The sunshine states probably have more kinky characters because crooks tend to go where the livin' is easy.

In your business the best protection against getting rooked is to get the money in front, boy. And that's what you're doing.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a bachelor who has been going with a divorced woman for two years. May has four wonderful children. Her ex-husband was a miserable, mean lush and they haven't heard from him since the divorce. May is supporting herself and the kids.

Everyone I've talked to says I'd be crazy to marry a woman with four kids. I'm pretty sure I'd enjoy it but so many people have told me I'd be a fool to take on a ready-made family, that I'm confused.

I don't promise to follow your advice, but I'd like to hear it. -- POP

Dear Pop: Your signature told me what I wanted to know. You DO love those kids and you think of yourself as their father. Marry the woman. I'm betting you'll make a great little group.

No teen-ager is as confident as he appears. Get clued in. Send for Ann Landers' booklet "Dating Do's and Don'ts," enclosing with your request 35¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Volkswagens Called In for Inspection

NEW YORK AP -- About 197,000 Volkswagen automobiles were ordered recalled to local dealers today for inspection of front axle ball joint assemblies and rear luggage compartment lids.

Volkswagen of America Inc. in Englewood Cliffs, N. J., said 175,000 of the familiar beetle-shaped Volkswagen sedans and the sport model Karmann-Ghia were involved.

About 22,000 square back sedans, resembling the larger American station wagon, also were recalled.

The sedans and Karmann-Ghias were manufactured between Aug. 1, 1965, and mid-January of this year.

Today In U. S. History

Today is Thursday, July 7, the 188th day of 1966. There are 177 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1945, President Harry S. Truman, Secretary of State James Byrnes and other government officials left Norfolk Va., aboard a cruiser for the Big Three conference in Potsdam, Germany.

On this date

In 1853, Commodore Mathew Perry arrived in Japan.

In 1898, the United States annexed the Hawaiian Islands.

In 1930, construction of the Hoover Dam was begun.

In 1937, the Sino - Japanese War began with the attack by Japanese troops on a Chinese garrison at Marco Polo Bridge.

In 1942, Gen. Carl Spaatz, was named commander of the U.S. Army Air Forces in Europe.

Ten years ago — The Arab nation of Jordan warned Britain that it must come to Jordan's defense in case of an Israeli attack.

Five years ago -- The Soviet Union vetoed a British resolution in the United Nations aimed at winning U. S. recognition of Ku-wait as a new and independent country.

One year ago -- A civil rights march by some 350 persons was staged on Bogalusa, La.

Service Center Sponsors Dinner

MOREHOUSE - The Morehouse Delmo service center sponsored a dinner Friday for the entire Delmo village, two miles south of here.

One hundred and forty-two villagers attended the dinner and plates were taken out to many who were unable to attend.

Entertaining were the Kingdomaires Quartet and the Thomann Trio. The hostesses for the dinner were the Ladies Club and the Community Center employees.

FINANCIAL FITNESS: Here's a suggestion for anyone interested in keeping his personal finances in order:

Allow not more than a week's pay for rent; not over three year's income for a house; something less than six months' income for a car; seven percent of a year's income for all kinds of insurance. In cash or its equivalent have a year's income in the bank -- after that you can buy as much as you like on time.

Wrong Spray Forces Town to Be Evacuated

ARGYLE, Minn. (AP)—Medical authorities said today they thought "everything will be all right" in this northwestern Minnesota village which was accidentally sprayed with a poisonous chemical.

Precautions continued, however.

Personnel from the Grand Forks, N.D., Air Force base set up an emergency hospital in the city auditorium at nearby Warren, in case it is needed.

A housewife estimated that about two-thirds of the residents of Argyle, population 800, fled late Wednesday and overnight —after it became known that the wrong chemical, parathion, was used in aerial spraying to combat mosquitoes.

Dr. E. E. Pumala of Warren, acting Marshall County health officer, said Argyle residents were advised to water down their grass, shrubbery and trees and to scrub exposed clothing. Village fire trucks were directed to hose down streets and public property, and to help householders.

Pumala said it was believed he parathion was not in heavy enough concentration to hurt anyone.

Chief of Police Dennis Rousseau said the plane which sprayed Argyle Wednesday made three passes before the mixup in chemicals was discovered. Pumala described parathion as "quite a lethal poison."

Parathion is used as an insecticide in farming areas.

There were no immediate effects from the poisonous chemical, he said, but an emergency supply of atrophine, an antidote, was being flown from Minneapolis as a precaution.

Rousseau said parathion is considered dangerous at temperatures above 60 degrees. He said effects of the spraying would not be definitely known until later today when the temperature rises.

Dr. Pumala said about 25 Argyle residents entered the hospital for examinations but "they looked okay."

Evacuees were taken to homes of friends and relatives in nearby areas, authorities said.

Alibi Reprieves Suspect in K.C. Kidnaping Case

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—An FBI investigation into the kidnaping of 9-year-old Denise Sue Clinton has shown that a man mentioned in the case was at work when the kidnaping occurred a year ago.

"As far as I am concerned," said Lee O. Teague, special agent in charge of the FBI here "they will have to come up with something pretty good to connect this man with the kidnaping."

Teague made the statement after revealing a federal investigation into the background of Robert Lee Hays, 33, showed he worked from 7:30 a. m. until 4:30 p. m. on July 7, 8 and 9 at his job in a warehouse here.

The girl was kidnaped from a motel operated in Kansas City by her grandparents, July 8, 1965, during a robbery.

No trace of the girl has since been uncovered, nor have any demands for ransom been received by her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Chelcie Reynolds, or her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Clinton, Independence, Mo.

Hays remained in Oklahoma County jail in lieu of $2,000 federal bond. He was arrested Tuesday on a federal warrant charging he fled Kansas to avoid prosecution for a Topeka Kan., armed robbery.

THE NUMBERS GAME

A telephone operator answered a call from an outdoor telephone booth. A voice requested a long-distance number.

"What number are you calling from?" she asked. There was no reply, so she added helpfully, "It's right there on your dial."

After a long pause the voice replied, "1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 0."
